What Happens When The Well Dries Up?

Farm Family Deals With Limited Supply, Competing Uses

DAVE LEFEVER

GREENCASTLE (Franklin Co.) — One day last August, the main well on Robert and Norma Grove's dairy farm began delivering gritty mud instead of the clear water it had produced for three decades. The family first noticed it on a load of laundry, fresh out of the washer.

"I just couldn't believe it," Robert Grove said.

It was the first time the 200-foot well failed since its construction in 1970. It had served as the primary source of water for the 115-cow Holstein herd as well as household needs on the farm the Groves own and operate in partnership with their son Keith and his family.

The well has since resumed producing water. In the meantime, however, the Groves needed to have two new wells drilled on the farm.

On the same day the well first went dry, Grove said he noticed a neighboring industry was busy installing a new water pump on their own property.

Beck Manufacturing, a producer of steel pipe fittings, and El Dorado Stone (formerly L & S Stone), manufacturer of decorative masonry products, operate adjoining plants just across railroad tracks from the border of the Grove's property near Rt. 11 north of Greencastle.

The two industries share water

"Follow your dreams," say Donald and Mary Wivell, who chose to farm even when others advised them not to. Today the Wivells milk 60 Jerseys on their 600-acre Tioga County farm.

Dairy Farming Rewarding Career For Wivell Family

COVINGTON (Tioga Co.) — "My father thought I was crazy," said Donald Wivell with a grin when he talked about choosing dairy farming as a career.

"I wanted to farm on my own and my father said, 'No, stay in the factory, you'll be better off.'

"As you can see, I hated anything to do with punching a clock," Donald said. "I worked as a mechanic off and on all my life before I got farming full time."

Donald Wivell was one of 20 children born and raised on a Holstein farm in Maryland. His wife, Mary, is a self-proclaimed city girl who never thought she would end up on a farm.

New York Broilers/Fryers

ATLANTA, GA.
June 3, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity on ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers was fair to moderate entering the week as dealers assessed business following the holiday weekend. Offerings of the 2.5 to 3 pound birds ranged closely cleared to instances tight and the 3.5 to 4 pound sizes were sufficient. Movement through retail and distributive channels was moderate. The market tone was fully steady.

Final report of prices negotiated for trucklot sales of ready-to-cook ice-packed broiler/fryers, to be delivered to first receivers, New York, for delivery the week of May 27: US GRADE A: Majority 55-57, wtd. avg. price 56.38; 24 loads. COMPOSITE: wtd. avg. price 55; 51 loads.

National Broiler Market At A Glance

Atlanta, Ga.
June 5, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Trade sentiment was mostly steady, at times about steady, in the East. Retail demand was light to fair, best for ads, and first of the month business was less than desired. Supplies of smaller sizes were adequate to close balanced, heavier sizes adequate to ample and easy to find. In the parts structure, trading was light and often cautious with regular commitments sufficient. Breast items were more available, longest for boneless skinless. Dark meat was readily available and wings remained ample. In production areas, live supplies were moderate. Weights were mixed, but mostly desirable.

Young Turkey Parts And Bulk Meat

Des Moines, Iowa
June 5, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL YOUNG TURKEY PARTS AND BULK MEAT, Frozen, unless specified, cents per lb, delivered first receivers, part and full trucklots, as of June 5, 2002.

Fresh tom breast meat trade sentiment was steady to firm with inquiry ranging fair to good, best for prompt shipments. Offerings ranged from short to instances adequate with supplies the least available for prompt deliveries. Some renewed interest and strength was noted on frozen tom breast meat with trading noted at steady to sometimes higher price levels. Offerings were uneven with -3 months age production held with the most confidence and some spot weakness noted on product with -6 months age. Offerings of wing meat and scapula continued to be available. Trading centered on a fair volume of frozen tom breast meat, balance light. Export inquiry was slow to moderate with interest noted from Asia, Russia and Eastern Europe. Concern continued to be noted by some about export problems to Hong Kong. USDA bought bulk packed turkeys yesterday for the school lunch and other domestic assistance programs. USDA will be looking for offers on consumer pack, bulk pack and turkey hams for the next purchase.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
June 5, 2002
Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat prices were mixed due to continued concerns over the current harvest. Hot and dry weather in Winter Wheat growing areas could have possibly damaged the crop in its final stages of development, also, showers swept through parts of the Southern Plains putting a small damper on harvesters. Heavy rains fell in parts of Illinois and Iowa Tuesday, with flooding expected, farmers trying to get those last rows of corn in may be forced to plant soybeans. Light overnight export news came in the form of a 56,000 tonne purchase from Taiwan. Firm meal and oil prices, coupled with planting delays in the Ohio Valley, continue to be supportive to the soybean markets.

Wheat mixed from 1 to 4 cents lower, to 1 to 7 cents higher. Corn steady to 1 cent lower. Soybeans 2 to 5 cents higher. Sorghum steady to 2 cents lower.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

NEW MOON, JUNE 10

PRAYING FOR RAIN

With severe drought in parts of the Northeast and other areas of the United States this spring ("below normal precipitation" predicted by The Old Farmer's Almanac New England forecast), we are reminded of a drought the Plymouth Colony in Massachusetts experienced in 1623, which started in late May. In the middle of July, Governor Bradford wrote that the colonists "set apart a solemn day of humiliation, to seek the Lord by humble and fervent prayer in this great distress." That same evening, there were "such sweet and gentle showers as gave them cause of rejoicing and blessing God."

It never clouds up in a June night for a rain.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A summer fog for fair,
A winter fog for rain;
A fact most everywhere,
In valley and on plain.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ For maximum efficiency, water gardens very early in the morning.

WATERCRESS-AND-APPLE SALAD

Dressing:
1/2 cup plain yogurt
1/2 small red onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon vinegar

Salad
2 bunches watercress
1 'Granny Smith' apple
1/4 cup bleu cheese
salt and pepper, to taste

Whisk together the dressing ingredients in a small bowl. Combine the salad ingredients in a large bowl. Pour dressing over salad, toss, and season to taste with salt and pepper.

Makes 4 servings

Good News For Young Farmers, Ranchers

The Farm Bill is turning out to be good news not only for dairy producers, ag preserve leaders, and conservationists, but also for young farmers and ranchers.

According to Kathy Ruhf, project director with the Growing New Farmers Program, "for the first time in USDA history, there is a beginning farmer and rancher development program," she wrote in a memo of May 18. "There are other new provisions targeting new farmers and ranchers, in addition to reforms to existing beginning farmer loan programs."

These are some of the items she highlighted:

• Conservation Title, Sect. 1244. In essence, when carrying out any conservation programs under the Farm Bill, USDA may provide to beginning farmers and ranchers incentives to participate in the program to enhance long-term environmental stewardship.

• Sect. 2001, in the new Conservation Security Program, a standard cost-share contract for conservation practices on working lands does not exceed 75 percent. In the case of the beginning farmer/rancher, the cost-share can be up to 90 percent. NRCS administers the program. That includes Sect. 2301, the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (up to 90 percent cost-share).

• Sect. 7205. This is a little vague, but USDA calls this the "Initiative for Future Agriculture and Food Systems" (IFAFS), an existing competitive grants program to encourage "USDA to solicit and fund research and development of farm tenure, transfer, succession, finance, management, production, and marketing models and strategies that foster new farming and ranching opportunities for beginning farmers and ranchers."

• Section 7405 calls for a Beginning Farmers and Rancher Development Program to "provide training education, outreach and technical assistance initiatives for beginning farmers or ranchers," a competitive grants program. Educational institutions, agencies, and nongovernmental organizations are eligible.

There are other magnificent provisions for beginning and young farmers/ranchers in the Farm Bill. For more information, contact Ruhf at gnf@umassextension.org.

To Use Bumble Bees To Pollinate Greenhouse Vegetable Crops

Cathy Thomas, from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Integrated Pest Management Program, suggests greenhouse vegetable growers should consider using bumble bees for pollination.

Proper pollination is needed for optimal fruit set and production. In the past, greenhouse tomato growers have relied on manual pollination which can be very time-consuming. Using bumble bees for pollination is an effective alternative and can completely replace manual pollination.

In addition to saving on labor, bumble bee pollination has many advantages. These advantages include:

Bumble bees are active at low temperatures — 41 degrees Fahrenheit (F) — and under windy and cloudy conditions; effective in greenhouses, high tunnels, and in open air; and bumble bee pollination results in higher yields and large, high-quality fruit in crops such as tomatoes, peppers, and blueberries.

Bumble bees are shipped to growers in completely maintenance-free hives. The hive has two flight openings. The standard flight opening is used under normal conditions. A tapered tube is attached to the second hole which creates a lock-in system. When this valve is open, the bumble bees can enter, but are unable to get out. This is a convenient option if the hive needs to be removed from the greenhouse. The hives are supplied with sugar water for the total life expectancy of the hive, since crops such as tomato have blossoms that do not produce nectar.

Tomato blossoms require slight movement for sufficient pollen from the stamens to fall onto the stigma of the flower. Bumble bees cause movement by hanging upside down on the flower, fastening their jaws onto the staminal tube, and then setting the flower into vibration by activating their flight muscles. This is called "buzz pollination." These jaw marks will soon appear as a brown discoloration on the blossom, assuring the grower that flower has been visited and "set."

Bumble bees are most active in the morning and in the afternoon at temperatures between 50 and 86 degrees F. They function best at temperatures between 59 and 77 degrees F. Bumble bees can be used to pollinate other crops such as peppers, cherry tomatoes, eggplants, and blueberries.

Thomas suggests one should consider the following factors when using bumble bee pollination. First, use pesticides selectively, since many of the traditional classes of insecticides will have a negative impact on the hive. Contact a bumble bees distributor for specific information about persistence and compatibility of specific compounds. Systemic pesticides (pesticides that are absorbed through the roots) may damage the bumble bee population. Bumble bees perform best when used with natural enemies to control pests. Growers should remove blue sticky cards from the greenhouse since they may attract the bumble bees. It is important to keep ants away from the hive. Finally, Thomas warns growers not to put ornamental hanging baskets treated with systemic insecticides in houses with bumble bees.

To Learn About Turfgrass And Agricultural Equipment (TAE) Service Technician Certificate Program

A program offered by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will help meet the needs of the turfgrass and agricultural equipment industry for highly qualified service technicians to keep equipment in top condition. The Turfgrass and Agricultural Equipment (TAE) Service Technician Certificate program will create technicians for this service area.

'The turfgrass and agricultural equipment industries report shortages of qualified technicians wanting and able to work in the industry," said Doug Schaufler, instructor in the department of agricultural and biological engineering. "The Engine and Equipment Council estimates a shortage of 30,000 qualified technicians." Developed with input from industry representatives, this two-year certificate program will be offered at the University Park campus over a two-year sequence of four eight-week sessions. The first session starts in October 2002.

"Offering the TAE program in four eight-week sessions each year allows individuals to work in the turfgrass and agricultural equipment industry when not at school," said Dr. James Hilton, associate professor of agricultural engineering and education. Sessions will be offered back-to-back. The fall session runs from October through December, and the spring session runs from January through March 2003.

The first year curriculum includes mathematics for turfgrass and agricultural service technicians, hydraulic applications, engine technology, electrical systems, computer basics and applications, safe equipment transport and shop practice, communications and public relations, power transmission applications, turfgrass and agricultural equipment, and business concepts.

The following subjects will be covered during the second year: electronic applications, electrohydraulics and hydrostatics, agronomy or turfgrass principles, machinery management for turfgrass, written communications and agriculture business applications, inventory management, agricultural equipment operation, shop management, turfgrass and agricultural equipment operation, irrigation systems and water management, power units, traction and weight transfer and diagnostics, repair and maintenance. Optional workshops may include welding and metal working, plastics use and repair, painting, inventory control, safety management and other mechanical, business, and management concepts.

The curriculum covers more than just engines, hydraulics and electrical systems, according to Hilton. It also includes equipment operation and adjustment, plus computer, business, and management skills to allow service technicians to increase their contribution and become an integrated part of a successful business. "The TAE program format caters to those interested in improving their careers and furthering their education, but are not interested in a conventional two- or four-year college degree," said Schaufler. "Classes meet eight weeks in the fall and eight weeks in the spring for two years, allowing students to participate in on-the-job experience for the majority of the year."

For more information, contact Dr. James W. Hilton by mail at The Pennsylvania State University, 232 Agricultural Engineering Building, University Park, PA 16802; by phone at (814) 863-1817; or by e-mail at jwh2@psu.edu. More can be learned about the TAE program by visiting the Website at http://www.age.psu.edu/TAE.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor:

In letters to the state House of Representatives last week, Pennsylvania Farmers Union (PFU) voiced its strong opposition to Senate Bill 1413, which would prevent municipalities from regulating factory farm operations.

Senate Bill 1413 will place an extreme hardship on our family farmers. The bill will undermine the basic foundation and support for family agriculture in Pennsylvania.

The bill would keep townships from adopting policies that do not correspond with state law. If a township disregards state law, an aggrieved farmer could collect legal fees from the municipality for his lawsuit. PFU contends that local officials may better represent local needs than state laws.

Pennsylvania Farmers Union encourages cooperation with local officials. We trust them. We share the same community with them and need their support to prosper. We also owe them our respect not only as neighbors, but as citizens. We, as taxpaying citizens, have the right to collectively determine the environmental, economic, and social direction of our communities.

The bill disregards potential environmental concerns. There are water issues to address, and

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

OF HOPE AND HELP

Background Scripture:
Psalms 42-43.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 43.

Let's understand this from the beginning: the author of Psalm 42 is not just having a "bad hair day." In fact, he is not just having a bad day. He is, as we sometimes are, a person in chronic, deep distress.

So he uses powerful and illustrative words to tell us what is going on with him: "As a hart longs for flowing streams, so longs my soul for thee, O God. My soul thirsts for God, for the living God" (42:1,2).

This is not the thirst I feel because I have been without anything to drink for the past several hours. This is a raging thirst that one experiences in long hours in the desert. Prof. Samuel Terrien renders this as "So panteth my soul after thee, O God." There is a sense of deep desperation over one of the most basic human needs. But instead of water, the Psalmist acknowledges that it is actually God that he needs and seeks.

The Bottomless Void

The Psalmist recognizes what so many of us find it almost impossible to discern: God is our deepest, most vital need. Very often people who overindulge themselves with food, alcohol, drugs, sex, status, or material wealth are searching vainly for something to fill that seemingly bottomless void inside us.

We hunger or thirst but nothing ever seems to satisfy that deep longing. Blessed is the person who can discover: "My soul thirsts for God, for the living God."

Note that the Psalmist is very specific. He seeks not the God of ideas, rituals or reason, but the living God, the God who can be experienced when ideas, rituals, and reason fail. He cries: "When shall I come and behold the face of God?" He wants the real God, not someone's speculations. He wants the God who can reassure him in the face of those who taunt him: "Where is your God?"

What is the "mess" in which the Psalmist finds himself? Scholars speculate that this is a man who, for some reason or other, is in exile far away from Jerusalem. The God he once experienced in the Holy City he now calls upon "from the land of Jordan and of Hermon, from Mount Mizar" (43:6).

We don't know where Mount Mizar is, but Hermon is the snow-capped mountain far to the north of Jerusalem. Scholars also discern that this man probably was a participant, perhaps even a leader, in worship in Jerusalem's temple. (See 43:4). They also say that he is physically ill as well as homesick.

What's The Matter?

Yet, at that point when it seems he can bear it no longer, he begins to reason with himself: "Why are you cast down, O my soul, and why are you disquieted within me?" (43:5). I can so easily identify with him here because there are times when I ask myself, "What's the matter with you? Why are you thinking this way?"

Often, it is then that I recognize that it is the voice of God challenging me — as I am certain you have.

Because the Psalmist is willing to pursue this question, he at last finds an answer: "Hope in God; for I shall again praise him, my help and my God."

There are times when life crowds in upon us and we realize the impotence all those things — society, technology, theology, ourselves — in which we hoped, and are faced with surrendering ourselves either to despair or to God. I inevitably choose God, because although I have not yet beheld his "face," I have known him in other times and found him my only hope.

Thus, while surrounded by nothing but despairing circumstances, we can lay claim on a future that looks back on the help that God will give us. Faith is living on the promise of God's grace that as yet we have not seen fulfilled, but know in our hearts we will see. We need to know that every landscape of our existence is alive with the presence of God.

The intrepid explorer, Sir John Franklin, was shown maps of areas not yet explored. Someone had written at various places on the map, "Here be dragons" and "Here be demons." But Franklin wrote at each place: "Here be God."

Our hope is not that the dragons and demons are not real, but that God is even more real.

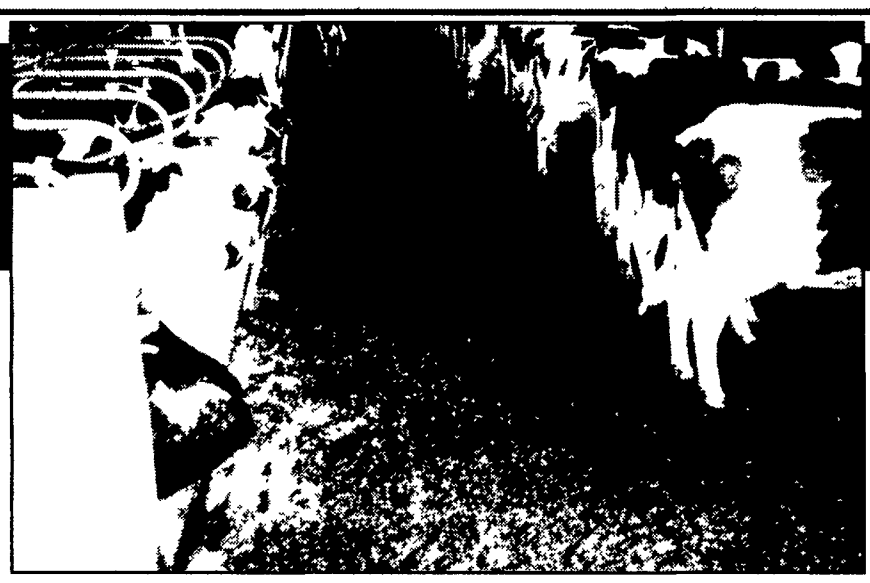
"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation



"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

Harold Keeney; David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

-David Wolfskill

"The answer to the most common question is 'No, there is no build-up.' "

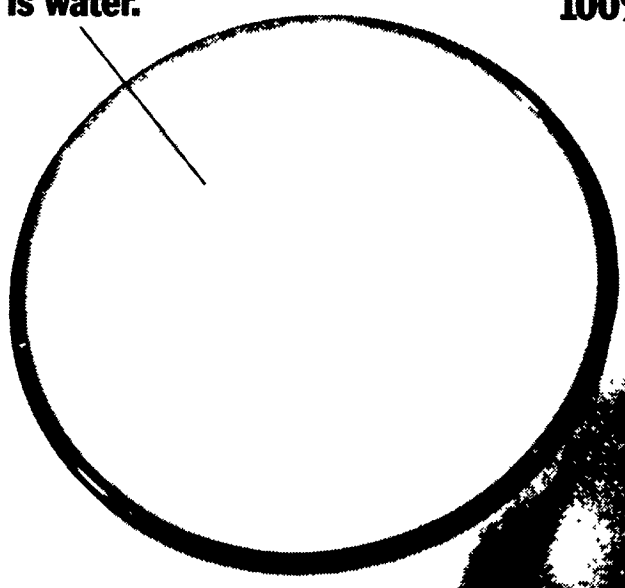
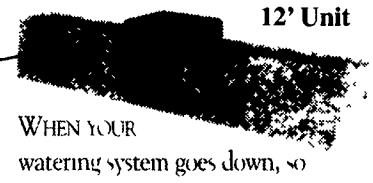
87% of your product is water.
Shouldn't your fountain be 100% reliable?




12' Unit
WHEN YOUR watering system goes down, so does milk production. The trick, then, is to install a system that won't go down—namely, automatic watering fountains from Ritchie. Ritchie dairy fountains are built to last, which is why they're backed by a ten-year warranty. For maximum reliability, go with a Ritchie. It's the 100% reliable way to supply 87% of your product.
Since 1921 Ritchie waters 'em right.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State
May 31, 2002
Dairy Demand Weak

- Consumption in first quarter down.
- Retail butter prices still high.
- Futures prices improve.
- May class prices announced.

Cash prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange overall remained low this week. Markets are reacting to weak demand and surplus milk.

Block cheese prices bounced around between $1.1675 and $1.20 per pound, and barrels fell from $1.1525 per pound earlier in the week to $1.1375 by Friday. Butter prices started the week at $1.04 per pound (on Wednesday) but increased to $1.0950 per pound by Friday.

A combination of a cool spring and normal spring flush is contributing to lower milk prices. What is surprising is that consumption of dairy products the first three months of this year was down. USDA reported commercial disappearance of dairy products the first three months of 2002 as follows: butter up 9.5 percent, American cheese down 2.7 percent, other cheese up 0.8 percent, nonfat dry milk down 25.7 percent, and fluid milk products down 1.2 percent.

Farmers increased milk production 2.9 percent during this period, but overall milk consumption went up only 0.7 percent.

While butter consumption rebounded a bit from last year, it should have done better. Retail butter prices were about $3 per pound the first quarter of the year, down only 6 percent from a year ago (April 2002). That compares to wholesale butter prices in April which were down 36 percent from a year ago. Lower retail butter prices this summer could help reduce mounting butter inventories.

The cheese numbers were also a bit of a surprise. We have grown used to seeing cheese consumption increase year after year. The drop in nonfat dry milk consumption was fairly large, leading to growth in government purchases. And even fluid milk consumption fell below normally negative figures. The recession the first quarter of this year may have played a role.

The good news is that the futures markets perked up a bit this week. September Class III futures at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange fell to $12.15 per CWT earlier this week. However, September futures prices rallied to $12.41 per CWT by Friday. Producers concerned about weak milk prices this fall may want to consider locking in a portion of their fall milk supplies at these price levels. Milk prices may rally once the summer heat hits and U.S. economic recovery is under way. But then again, milk prices may fizzle even more between now and then. Locking in some of your milk now would provide some revenue protection.

USDA announced May 2002 federal order class prices with changes from the month before: Class II $11.29 (-$0.59), Class III $10.82 (-$0.03), and Class IV $10.57 (-$0.52). Butter prices had the most impact on class prices. They fell $0.12 per pound, from $1.17 in April to $1.05 in May.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

More Stories of Its Rural People
by Susan Wert Vogt
(1,250 published of First Edition of each volume)
BOOK SIGNINGS: At various rural events throughout the summer & fall
What's so special about Vol. 2?
Author Susan Wert Vogt's accounts of Central Pennsylvania's heartlands make "Norman Rockwell-like" rural scenes come to life with patriotic fervor in its 160 pages! Her 1970's old-time "I Remember When" columns from The Times (Port Royal, PA) depict rural life much the way it was everywhere in rural PA (1860s-1960s) before new-fangled technology!
Filled with old-time photos, plus color photos and interviews at various local rural events (on 40 of the 160 pages) show what the current generation is doing to preserve history today.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
June 5, 2002
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.3344-1.4091. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.3024-1.4091 mostly 1.3024-1.3237.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .9200-1.0250; Class III - spot prices - .7500-.9600.

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This week - In 0, Out 231; last week - In 0, Out 198; last year - In 0, Out 120. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week - In 0, Out 0; last week - In 0, Out 0; last year - In 0, Out 0.

Milk production is generally at peak levels throughout the region with some modest declines noted in the North. Seasonal temperatures, especially in the South, are expected to encourage lower production over the next few weeks. However, even at the lower production volumes, heavy milk supplies are expected to remain available. Florida handlers continue to ship milk out of state to manufacturing plants with loads handled exceeding the week prior. Bottling schedules are reduced due to lackluster interest following typical school recesses. Some schools still remain in session, suggesting that Class I interest will continue to decline, at least through the first half of the month. Consequently, more milk is available for manufacturing. Most facilities are operating at capacity yet some slight declines into churns is noted as milk and cream are diverted into Class II facilities. Fluid milk movement into Class III facilities is slow while steady intakes are noted into NDM processing plants.

Sales of condensed skim are light as NDM is more attractively priced. Production of condensed skim is steady and supplies are sometimes burdensome. Plants attempting to divert condensed skim into dryers are not readily finding manufacturers to take supplies. Demand for condensed skim is light into Class III facilities and fair at best into Class II plants.

Cream demand is higher yet supplies remain available. While ice cream production schedules are increasing, output remains below expectations for this time of year. Cream demand into cream cheese facilities is good. Cream prices are trending higher due to the higher weekly average CME butter price. Multiples are mostly unchanged to slightly lower.

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
May 31, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Mostly prices were unchanged to slightly higher on whole and salt yolks, higher on sugared yolks, and unchanged on whites when compared to last week's trading. Trade sentiment was steady on whites, fully steady on whole, and firm on yolks. Trading and demand continued to show signs of improvement, but remained in a light to moderate range. Offerings were adequate for immediate trade requirements, although yolks were held with increased confidence. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending May 25, 2002 were 7% lower than the previous week, but 2% higher than a year ago.

Tanco AUTOWRAP

THE WRAPPER THAT WRAPS BALES OTHERS WON'T

A Complete Range of Round, Square, and Rectangular Wrappers

Patented advantages like the unique "Deep Cradle" continuous full width belt, and fully supported turntable where four polyurethane wheels provide Tanco's reowned even and balanced operation, even with overweight and misshapen bales. Quality wrapping and quality machines that has made Tanco among the World's leading manufacturers.

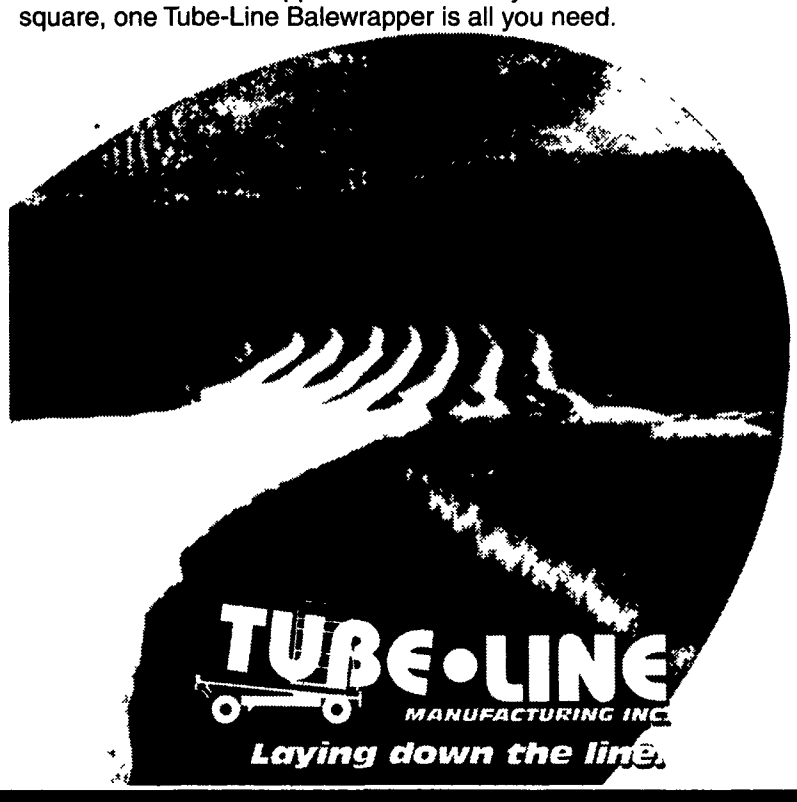
BALEWRAPPER
TL5500A TL5500S TL6500A

The Tube-Line Balewrapper gives you the power of control. Everyone knows the biggest enemies to baling hay is time and weather The Tube-Line Balewrapper helps eliminate your dependence on the weather, saves you time and ensures you get the best quality forage

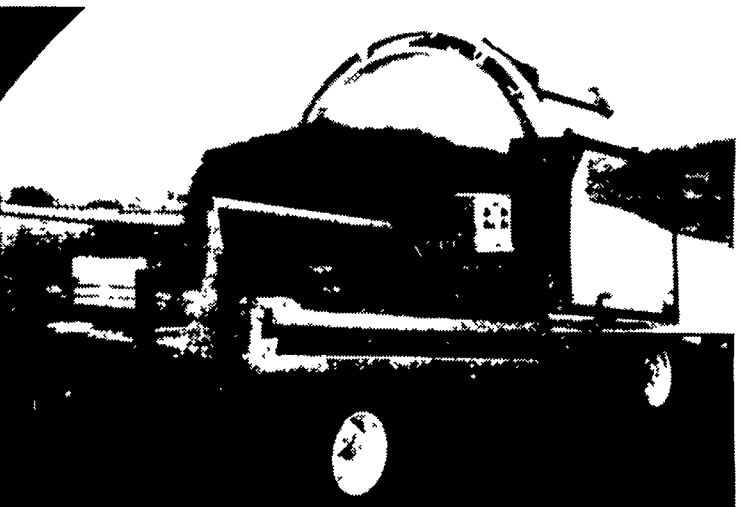
High quality feed can now be made with a low investment in equipment. Forage is cut, wilted, baled and wrapped air tight with the Tube-Line BAlewrapper. This eliminates the 2-4 days of drying time or expensive silo equipment.

Because the Tube-Line Balewrapper wraps the bales in a continuous line, only the outside circumference of each bale is wrapped. This saves up to 40% of the film used to wrap individual bales, and saves time when unwrapping. The Tube-Line Balewrapper also gives you hydraulic control of the film overlap letting you decide how much to protect your bales.

Time is the other enemy when trying to collect forage. The Tube-Line Balewrapper will wrap up to two bales per minute. And various options are available to match the speed of wrapping to your needs. This frees up your time and allows more time for forage growth. There is a Tube-Line Balewrapper available to fit your needs. From round to square, one Tube-Line Balewrapper is all you need.



Wraps up to 2 bales a minute
120 bales / hour



Performance

ATS Advanced Tension System
The Advanced Tension System provides a consistent 55% stretch on the film allowing the best possible seal

Heavy Duty Construction
The Balewrapper is constructed overall to endure the challenges of field use, with features such as a double reinforced hoop you will be wrapping for years to come.

Hydraulic Brake Design
Tube-Line's unique hydraulic brake design allows the bales to be packed tighter together than other methods

Treaded Hoop
The treaded hoop gives better traction to the drive wheel providing you with consistent performance.

Film Overlap Control
Tube-line's hydraulic overlap control allows you to adjust the amount of plastic overlap, you decide just how much protection your bales need

Nylon wear bars
To prolong the life of your Balewrapper, Tube-line uses nylon wear bars at critical points. This prevents pre-mature wear caused by metal to metal contact.

Safety

Shut-Off
The Balewrapper can be shut down quickly from the main panel or with the remote control option from 100 feet away

Safety Cage Interlock
The safety cages are interlocked with the automatic cycle When the cage is open the Tube-Line will not run (Automatic wraps only)

Easy to use

Remote Control Steering
Operation of the Tube-Line is further simplified with the addition of the remote control option, eliminating the need to get off the tractor repeatedly

Final Bale Push Off
Tube-Line has solved the hassle of the last bale in a row The patented system allows the last bale to be removed safely and without damage

Automatic Operation
With the automatic feature the Tube-Line can easily be operated by one person freeing up man power for other tasks

Set up & Towing
Unlike other wrapping systems Tube-Line's adjustable tongue is located opposite the end the bales are wrapped, making moving and repositioning a simple task

Schweiker Administration Announces Agriculture Product-Promotion Grants

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced the beginning of the Agricultural Product Promotion Matching Grant Program for 2002-2003.

The grant program is competitive and seeks exciting and innovative applications that promote Pennsylvania's No. 1 industry — agriculture.

"Pennsylvania agriculture is a part of the global marketplace, providing 'Products for the Planet,'" Hayes said. "The Agricultural Product Promotion Matching Grant Program provides matching funds to promotion groups to increase consumer awareness of Pennsylvania's high-quality products."

In its eighth year, the program offers the state's non-profit promotion and marketing organizations the opportunity to apply for matching grant funds to increase awareness and sales of agricultural commodities grown, processed or manufactured in Pennsylvania.

The grant application period closes July 1.

Hayes noted that since 1995, the Department of Agriculture has awarded 132 grants totaling more than $3.9 million. Matching grants have marketed and promoted the livestock, horticulture, viticulture, dairy and forestry industries. The Beef Quality Assurance Program, Dairy Promotion Program, Fresh Mushroom Program and Egg Quality Assurance Program are among the many successful programs and organizations that have been awarded grants.

The "Pennsylvania Produce — Simply Delicious" campaign is a flagship program of the Department of Agriculture with a focus on Pennsylvania vegetable and fruit growers, farmer markets, and supermarkets across the commonwealth.

To receive a grant application or for more information on the Agricultural Product Promotion Matching Grant Program, contact the Bureau of Market Development at (717) 787-6041, or visit the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword: "agriculture."

Scholarships Available To Attend Land Trust Conference

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Scholarships Available to Attend Land Trust Conference Scholarships for board members and staff of Pennsylvania watershed associations are available for the 2002 Mid-Atlantic Land Trust Conference in Gettysburg, Adams County. The conference features a full day of workshops on Saturday, June 22. The Pennsylvania Land Trust annual meeting and a dinner program is scheduled for Friday, June 21.

The scholarships are made possible by a Growing Greener grant from DEP and will cover the conference registration fee including breakfast and lunch on June 22 as well as lodging Friday night.

The scholarships are intended for watershed associations who want to explore using land and conservation easement acquisitions as resource protection tools. The scholarships are also for watershed organizations that are already using these tools.

If you wish to receive a scholarship, contact the Pennsylvania Land Trust Association at palta@earthlink.net or by phone at (717) 230-8560 as soon as possible. Scholarship recipients must follow the normal conference registration process. Scholarship awards will be mailed out the week following the conference.

Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association Junior Judging School Set

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association Judging School is set for Mon., July 8 and Tues., July 9, noon, with the host, Huntingdon County Holstein Club.

Teacher is Steve Shaw, Williamsburg.

The school is open to all youth interested in learning about dairy cattle judging. The school attempts to cover the basics of animal evaluation and reason giving. Individuals who attend have the opportunity to learn terminology, animal, and class breakdowns and how to effectively give reasons.

The cost of the school is $30 for those staying overnight. This includes school costs, hotel room, and evening meal.

For those that commute, the cost is $20 which covers school costs and the evening meal.

This year, a second member of the same family who attends will receive $5 off their registration cost.

For more information, contact the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801, (814) 234-0364, fax (814) 234-1698, or www.paholsteins.com.

Entry deadline is June 24.

"When I met him, he had been working for a missile plant in Utah," she said.

"I did learn to drive equipment and milk a cow."

After working as a licensed stationary engineer for many years, Donald decided that farming was his true calling. He worked for a lot of farmers along the way, but finally decided it was time to strike out on his own.

The advertisement for a farm to rent just happened to be close to an area where Mary's parents had taken many camping trips. The Wivell's decided to check it out and, in 1975, moved to the Ronald West farm in Tioga County, where they rented the facilities and purchased a herd of Holsteins.

Donald credits the Wests with helping him begin to farm. He also cannot say enough about the help he received from other neighbors.

"When you're like me and moving into a new area, especially if you're a crop farmer, you'd better pay attention to how your neighbors are doing their crops. There's an awful difference within a 200-mile radius when growing crops," he said.

He learned quickly that farming in northcentral Pennsylvania is very different from farming in Maryland.

"The first year I was here, my father came up and the weather was just like this. It rained the whole month of May and you couldn't plant anything. He asked what I was going to do and I said plant oats and corn." Since it was already May, Donald's father replied, "You might as well save your time planting oats, they'll never grow."

After Donald consulted with his neighbors, they all said that he could still plant oats — so he did.

A passion for farming brought Donald and Mary Wivell to Tioga County where they established Laureldon Jerseys. They were recently honored by the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Association for their many years of involvement with Jerseys.

"The neighbors were very helpful," he said.

As the Wivells began to establish themselves in farming, they faced another dilemma. The Holsteins they were milking were too big for the barn's small stalls and began to injure their udders.

"They had some stalls that were kind of short," said Mary.

Someone mentioned to the couple that they should look into milking Jerseys because the smaller cattle might be a better fit for the barn.

"I called up Tom Noble and asked if he had some time to talk about Jersey cattle. He said that if I wanted to talk about Jersey cattle, all he had was time," Donald said. "So that's how we got started with Jerseys."

Donald's father and others thought he had lost his mind when little brown cows began pushing out the Holsteins.

"The neighbors all said we were crazy when we did that — they said we'd go bankrupt. Of course I've been told that quite a few times," Donald said.

"But Jerseys bought us 600 acres of land and most of my Holstein neighbors are out of business."

Mary recalls that the transition was not immediate, but was spread out over some time.

"I was having some physical problems and I was in the hospital a lot," she said. "I was in the hospital one time and I came back and there were some little brown cows in the barn. Then I went in the hospital again and there were some more of them," she said. "It seemed like every time I left, there were some more brown cows in the barn. It seemed we got more and more of them and finally he said he would just get rid of all the Holsteins and milk all Jerseys because he really liked them."

In 1985, the Wivells bought a 600-acre farm near the facilities they had rented for 10 years.

After all these years, the Wivells say that farming has brought them satisfaction like no other career. The couple raised five boys, one of whom still works on the farm.

"Tom does the field work," Donald said.

"It works out really well," Mary said, "Tom is the fieldman. He loves the fieldwork but doesn't like the cows. Donald loves the cows but doesn't like the fieldwork."

With the help of a dump wagon and a dump table, one person can fill silo faster than three people used to do with self-unloading wagons, Mary explained.

Son Tim and his wife and three boys live in Virginia. Todd lives nearby, and Donnie, his wife, son, and daughter live in Bucks County. Another son, Ted, was killed in an automobile accident.

The Wivells are now milking between 60 and 65 Jerseys, scaled back from the 100 they had been milking recently. Tom's sons, Nick and Eric, at ages 13 and 14, help to milk when they are needed.

The farm is also home to a flock of sheep, several goats and a few chickens.

"They keep telling me we ought to diversify, so that's what we're doing," Donald said.

Because he eventually plans to phase out of the dairy business, the sheep and goats will provide both an income and a service as they keep pastures clean and make use of the extra crops that they produce. Tom also raises red deer and makes maple syrup.

"Back when I grew up, everyone was diversified," Donald said. "I always heard my dad say that we needed the milk check, but it was nice when we sold a load of hogs or steers to have that little extra."

As for giving advice to people looking to farm, the Wivells agree: "Don't try to buy real estate first. Buy cows and get the cows paid for.

"Don't worry about your neighbors' shiny machines," he said. "The cows are your bread and butter."

Besides farming, both have been active members of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. Mary serves as the secretary-treasurer of the Bradford-Tioga Jersey club and is very active at the Holy Child Catholic Church. She is also the first female president of the Mansfield Lions Club and finds time to volunteer at a soup kitchen in Williamsport.

Donald is a past president of

What Happens When The Well Dries Up?

from two wells situated on the Beck Manufacturing property, according to Dick Bryson, vice president of engineering for Beck.

The effects of drought late last year "burned up" three water pumps on the Beck property and forced the two companies to have water hauled in trucks from Greencastle Borough to meet their water needs, Bryson said.

Robert Grove points to the original well used in the dairy operation. Constructed in 1970, the well failed for the first time late last summer.

Grove believes his dairy operation and the two industries are depending on the same underground water supply. He points to the fact that his farm well first went dry around the time the neighboring facilities began drawing groundwater again after replacing a failed pump.

After continuing to experience problems with his well through last fall, Grove had two new wells drilled on his farm in November, both of them 600 feet deep or more. One of them produces a gallon and a half to two gallons per minute, the other about three gallons per minute, he said. To keep a steady water supply for the cows and heifers, Grove has to alternate between the new wells and the original one drilled in 1970.

Based on figures provided by Penn State extension, Grove's dairy operation uses an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 gallons of water per day, including cow and heifer consumption and cleanup.

If it weren't for the new wells, "we would have been buying water all winter," he said.

Grove said he does not want to create trouble for his neighbor industries, but would like to see more public awareness of the increasing number of water issues.

"Water is going to be more of a problem," he said. "I'm concerned that both farmers and nonfarmers become more aware of it."

According to Bryson, the Beck Manufacturing employs about 160 workers at the pipe fitting facility. Most of the water there is used for personal, sanitary needs, totaling about 2,000 to 3,000 gallons per day, he estimated.

Bryson said he had no exact figures on how much water El Dorado Stone uses to make its architectural veneer stone products, but estimated it to be "about 10 times as much" as the Beck facility uses.

Gary Harnish, production manager at El Dorado Stone, said the plant uses between 5,000 and 7,000 gallons per day, both for manufacturing stone products and for personal use by 125 employees. The facility usually operates on three shifts five and a half days a week. Harnish said his water use estimates are based on the amount of water delivered in trucks to the two plants last fall during times of well failure.

The shared water arrangement between the two plants had been based on El Dorado Stone supplying sewer for both facilities in exchange for water from the Beck Manufacturing property. According to Harnish, that situation recently changed, with Beck having its own sewer line installed last year and with El Dorado likely to drill its own well.

According to Bryson, last year's excavation for the new sewer line may have impacted the water table and contributed to the wells drying up.

Water used at both facilities is

The leaders will be present at the third day of the forum event.

The event hosts four secretaries of agriculture, one minister of agriculture, five deputy secretaries of agriculture, and one U.S. agricultural attache to Canada.

All sessions will be conducted in the Alumni Room at the Nittany Lion Inn.

The first day, June 11, speakers will address the topic, "Trade Barriers," from 1 p.m.-3 p.m. Speakers include Sharon Bomer, director of agricultural affairs, Office of the United States Trade Representative; Mike Gifford, trade policy adviser, Canada Agriculture and Agrifood; Janet Nuzum, vice president and general counsel, International Dairy Foods; and Jack Wilkinson, session moderator, Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Geographic information systems will be the topic on Tuesday from 3 p.m.-4 p.m. Speakers include Thomas Parsons, School of Veterinarian Medicine, University of Pennsylvania and Rick Day, College of Agricultural Sciences, Penn State.

Animal identification will be the topic for the 4 p.m.-5 p.m. session. Speakers include John Wiemers, national animal identification director, USDA-APHIS-VS and Charles Gracey, Animal Identification, Canada.

Wednesday's sessions focus on weather and climate and agroterrorism. From 8 a.m.-11 a.m., Joel Myers, president, Accu-Weather, will speak. The "Biotechnology" session from 11 a.m.-noon will feature Guy Cardineau, research and development leader, Dow AgroSciences. "Agroterrorism" will be the focus of a session from 1 p.m.-5 p.m., with speakers Tina Gabriella, assistant U.S. attorney, eastern district; Mike Gardiner, commander, 9th Coast Guard District, U.S. Coast Guard; Richard Day, director, ships and operations standards, Transport Canada; Peter Menk, colonel, Strategic Studies Institute, U.S. Army War College; and Terry Wilson, USDA-APHIS-VS, Armed Forces Medical Intelligence Center.

On Thursday, the forum opens with "Water For Agriculture" from 8 a.m.-9 a.m. with Lee Swenson, Farmers Union. The next topic, "Brand Marketing of Agricultural Products," is scheduled from 9 a.m.-11 a.m. and features Guy Donaldson, session moderator, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; John Lord, Department of Food Marketing, College of Business Administration, St. Joseph's University; and Jon Wells, Jon Wells Associates.

A Brand Marketing Panel will feature George Lamont, Horticulture Association of New York; Tom O'Neil, Apple Marketers Association, Ontario; Don Armock, Riveridge Produce Market, Inc., Michigan; and John Rice, Rice Fruit Company, Pennsylvania.

The topic, "Animal and Plant Health," will conclude the sessions from 11 a.m.-noon. Speakers include Claude Lavigne, director, Animal Products Canada and Bobby Acord, administrator, USDA-APHIS.

A wrap-up session will take place noon-12:30 p.m. at the Alumni Room of the Nittany Lion Inn.

NEOSPORA: COULD YOUR DOG BE A CARRIER?

Dr. Arlen Mills
Extension Veterinarian
Capitol Region

Someone has said that dog is man's best friend. I'm not sure that I ever believed that statement. Now with the discovery that dogs may carry a disease that can infect cows, I'm sure that better friends can be found.

Dogs have been proven to be the main host and carrier of a disease agent named "Neospora caninum." Neospora caninum is the organism that causes the disease called "Neosporosis." This organism is a protozoa, as is the coccidia, that can infect the intestine of calves. Neospora infects the intestine of the dog and is then passed in the feces of the dog to infect the feed of cows.

Other members of the dog family such as the fox and coyote are also likely carriers. Eating contaminated feed infects cows and infection is lifelong.

The disease caused by the coccidian parasite Neospora caninum causes abortion in the cow. It has been found to be the most common cause of abortion in cattle in California. Testing has shown that eighty percent of herds in Pennsylvania have Neospora-infected cows.

Initial reports of Neospora suggested that abortions occurred at 4-6 months of gestation. It is now known that infection can cause abortion or loss of the very early fetus as well. This causes cows to miss one or two cycles and then to come back into heat.

In infected herds, I see "breeding problems" caused by these early embryonic losses, abortions in mid pregnancy, or open cows showing up in the dry-cow pen.

Cows may eventually become pregnant and carry a calf to term. Some of these calves will appear normal but some will show signs of brain damage. This is because the organism infects the nervous system of the calf. Most importantly, most calves born to infected cows are born with the infection. The only known passage of infection among cattle is this "cow to calf" route, known as vertical transmission.

Could Neospora be causing a problem on your farm? It is only one of a multitude of possible agents that could cause the same symptoms. Fortunately, there is a very reliable blood test for Neosporosis. A positive result indicates that the cow has been exposed to the organism.

Dr. Arlen Mills

I recommend testing any cow that aborts and repeat breeder cows. When sending blood samples for analysis, consider also checking for BVD, IBR, and Lepto. Labs may be able to find the Neospora organism in the brain of aborted calves as well.

Some interesting studies from Florida have demonstrated that cows infected with Neospora had an 800-pound reduction in milk production per 305-day lactation. Scientists in Texas demonstrated that calves positive for Neospora had reductions in weight gain and feed efficiency. So Neospora infections may be costing us more than we realize.

The first step in avoiding these losses involves biosecurity practices. The most likely way for a herd to become initially infected is through purchase of infected heifers or cows. With the reliability of blood testing, there is no excuse for not doing prepurchase testing. If you don't have Neospora in your herd, don't buy it.

If you have symptoms that could be linked to Neosporosis, have ruled out other possible causes, and have cows test positive for the organism, you may want to consider vaccination. Neoguard is not cheap, so be sure you need it. Interestingly, calves born to vaccinated, infected cows are protected from infection before birth, so vaccination may be a way to rid a herd of the disease.

Directions on vaccine use calls for two doses — one at pregnancy check and a second three to four weeks later. Field use has shown, however, that a primary dose prebreeding followed by two more doses as recommended has given better results.

And remember to keep the dog out of the feed bunk.

Local Dairyman Advocates Dairy Issues In Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C. — With the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 officially law, a Land O'Lakes delegation, including Andrew Young, Peach Bottom, traveled to Washington, D.C. recently to thank legislators for their support of the Farm Bill, learn more about its content, and advocate priority issues in pending legislation.

"We were pleased to see all of Land O'Lakes priority issues for the Farm Bill included in the final legislation. It shows that dairy and agriculture does have a voice in the political process, despite the fact that we are in a shrinking minority," said Young, who operates a 600-cow dairy in partnership with his father.

"Our goal for the week was to familiarize ourselves with the Farm Bill and other pending legislation that could benefit our operations. We also wanted to build recognition with our senators and representatives by personally meeting with them."

During the week, Young and the other Land O'Lakes Dairy Foods members in attendance received briefings from the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, National Milk Producers Federation, Land O'Lakes International Division, and the USDA Cooperative Services Association and Agricultural Marketing Service dairy division.

Both NCFC and NMPF provided insight on the provisions in the farm bill affecting dairy. Those provisions include:

- Extension of the dairy price support program at $9.90 per hundredweight.
- Establishment of a countercyclical program that will pay dairy producers 45 percent of the difference between the Class I price in Boston and the target price of $16.94 per CWT when the price falls below that target price.
- Expansion of the dairy checkoff program to include dairy importers, extension of the Dairy Export Incentive Program for the life of the bill or until 2008.
- Authorization of a National Johne's Disease Program.

"All of the people we spoke to during the week really complemented NMPF for bringing the dairy industry together to present a united front on the dairy provisions," Young said, adding that Land O'Lakes is an active member of NMPF. "The outcome of the bill may not have been as positive for dairy if it wasn't for Land O'Lakes and NMPF's efforts."

Young and the other producers who visited with their legislators focused on additional priority issues that the dairy industry needs support for now that the Farm Bill is signed.

"Imported Milk Protein Concentrate (MPC) is coming into our country at uncontrolled rates and displacing domestic supplies of nonfat dry milk powder," Young said. "We asked those we visited with on Capitol Hill to support legislation, introduced in both the House and Senate, that would remedy the situation by placing tarriffs on MPC to control and restrict imports."

Other issues that the producers took to their senators and representatives included funding for the National Johne's Disease Program authorized in the Farm Bill and support for a dairy surplus for HIV/AIDS Relief Amendment.

This program would work similar to the "Global Food for Education Initiative" included in the Farm Bill, which uses surplus NFDM to provide nutrition to school children in developing countries. The Dairy Surplus for HIV/AIDS Relief Amendment would benefit women and children in countries devastated by HIV/AIDS.

"I am grateful for the opportunity to have worked with Land O'Lakes on the cooperative's grassroots efforts in Washington," said Young, who has been involved in Land O'Lakes young producers programs in the past. "It solidified my respect for Land O'Lakes as an organization that really makes an effort to solicit input from, and relay information, to its dairy producer-members."

Andy Young, producer from Peach Bottom, Pa., and Chuck Cruickshank, Land O'Lakes director of procurement, member relations and transportation, met with Representative Todd Platts of the 19th U.S. Congressional District during their visit to Washington earlier this month.

Farmers Union Youth Receive Stanley Moore Scholarships

AURORA, Colo. — The National Farmers Union Foundation recently announced the 2002 recipients of the Stanley Moore Scholarships.

Receiving $500 each are Bryon Bergkamp, Jr., of Kansas; Marsha Jensen of Minnesota; Justin Grabouski of Nebraska; Erin Hill and Trisha Johnson of North Dakota; and Lisa Marie Nelson of Wyoming.

"All the recipients are accomplished young leaders with records of academic excellence, Stanley Moore would have been extremely proud of each of them," said Leesa Witt, NFU's director of education. "Stanley Moore was a man who provided great vision and leadership to Farmers Union in both public policy and financial matters."

This new national scholarship program, offered through the National Farmers Union Foundation, was established by stockholders of the Farmers Union Insurance Acquisition Company to honor Stanley Moore and his lifelong dedication to Farmers Union.

this bill will run roughshod over them. Proponents of this legislation have stated that Act 6 gives them protection and proper governance. Pennsylvania Farmers Union disagrees. DEP research has shown how much contamination will enter the aquifer by following Act 6 rules and regulations. A Penn State researcher has admitted to the enormous atmospheric pollution that will take place by following certain Act 6 rules dealing with manure application.

Economic impacts are also important considerations with this bill. Farmers Union has led the fight in demonstrating the economic effects several types of vertically integrated agricultural practices that turn the independent family farmers into little more that a poorly paid employee on their own farm.

Damages have been awarded for the lowering of property values in areas of Iowa because of nearby factory farms. Farmers Union is concerned about the effects this would have on local school districts that are struggling to balance their budgets with the current tax structure.

This bill prohibits municipalities from examining these and other issues and making a sound decision based upon the newly acquired knowledge.

During its state convention last fall, PFU adopted a special order of business opposing the legislation, which was then known as SB 826. This is our highest priority as an organization. Our members acknowledge that there are some abuses of authority by local officials and we would like to address them, but not by this type of legislation. Family farms and rural communities deserve our best efforts, not Senate Bill 1413.

Progress on the lamb checkoff and the establishment of the Lamb Promotion Board has begun to accelerate. Applications from organizations wishing to nominate directors to the new board were due by May 31, 2002. Applicants approved to date are ASI and the state sheep organizations from Colorado, Texas, California, and Idaho. The National Lamb Feeders Association, the National Meat Association, and the American Meat Institute are also approved for nominations in the categories of feeders or first handlers.

It is my understanding that applications were prepared by the Pennsylvania and West Virginia sheep organizations, as well as by New York and this organization (Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program). Contacts at the Agriculture Marketing Service (AMS) indicate that a considerable number of applications are being processed.

Once an organization is approved to make nominations, it will have until July 15 to present its slate of candidates to the USDA. The Secretary will then make the appointments to the Lamb Promotion Board in subsequent weeks. Checkoff operating details are expected to be published any day now and collection is expected to begin in mid summer.

What is at stake in this process? Producers will be supporting this marketing effort with payments of ½ cent per pound (live weight) and packers will be adding 30 cents per head. The collection effort is anticipated to raise in excess of $2.5 million per year, which will be allocated for "promotion, research and information program(s) for lamb and lamb products including pelts but excluding wool and wool products." Administration of these funds will be directed by the Lamb Promotion Board with the intent of stimulating demand and improving marketing efficiency for our product.

The problem we will face here is whether producers know anything about stimulating demand, especially those far removed from the centers of lamb consumption where they have few marketing alternatives in the normal course of business. Choices of nominees will need to be considered carefully, giving thought to the individuals' analytic ability, business sense and flexibility, and willingness to explore the intricacies of the market flow of our sheep and lamb products, rather than the number of sheep they run or the number of generations spent in the sheep industry. It will be to our advantage if board members know about who buys our product and what needs to be done to encourage them to buy more and also what needs to be done to impose competitive conditions at various stages of the market chain.

The sum being raised for promotion is small as commodity promotion efforts go and will not sustain high profile media campaigns. In fact, as we look at the size of our industry and the trend in available supply (down), redirecting production to supply areas of the market currently short lamb product (paying premium prices) may be sufficient to stimulate competitive forces in our volume production areas. Also, in making judgments on the success of the program, it will not be sufficient for producers to reflect on how many advertisements appeared in the local media, but rather on details of how product flowed through the marketing system and how these changes improved producer income.

Use of these funds successfully will require all of us in the industry to grow in our knowledge of the distribution of our product and to be more inclined to seek out alternative marketing strategies.

Horse Owners Urged To Participate In Penn State Survey

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will conduct an economic impact study of the Pennsylvania equine industry beginning fall 2002. The study will provide knowledge of the current scope and nature of Pennsylvania's equine community, enhancing government and citizen understanding.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, through the State Horse and Harness Racing commissions has contracted with the department of dairy and animal science to conduct the survey. It will assess the composition and nature of Pennsylvania's equine industry, including its direct and indirect impact on the state's economy through sales, employment, taxes and other indicators.

Contributions to the quality of life of equine owners and participants in equine activities also will be assessed. Data from Pennsylvania's last study of the economic impact of horses in the state was collected in 1990. It showed that the equine industry generated $4 billion in annual economic activity, was responsible for 22,000 jobs and provided local and state governments with more than $66 million a year in tax revenue.

"The Pennsylvania Quarter Horse Association, Pennsylvania Equine Council and the Pennsylvania Horse and Harness Racing commissions have committed to support this very important survey by providing addresses," says Ann Swinker, extension horse specialist, who is directing the survey. "It is key that the list we develop be representative of the entire industry.

"We will be asking every equine association with membership in the state and individual horse owners to provide their addresses so they are represented in this study," she adds. "The addresses will be held in confidence and used only for the distribution of questionnaires. After the study is completed, all records will be destroyed. We want to assure everyone that this will be horse people measuring horse people."

Swinker pointed out that the survey needs a high return rate to develop valid results. "We will be undertaking a public relations campaign to ask that those who receive a questionnaire take the time to complete and return it," she explained. "A postage-paid envelope will accompany the questionnaire. Returned questionnaires will be coded and information entered into a computer database for analysis. A descriptive report of the findings will be prepared and published."

Swinker encourages all horse owners and equine organizations to participate in the study. Equine groups interested in contributing their mailing lists or individual horse owners wanting to participate in the study should contact Ann Swinker, The Pennsylvania State University, 324 Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802. For more information, call Swinker at (814) 865-7810 or e-mail her at aswinker@psu.edu.

"We prefer the lists be sent on disk, but will gladly take them in any form," she says. "The Pennsylvania Horse and Harness Racing commissions are to be commended for their efforts to have the state agriculture funds awarded to conduct this much-needed equine population study for Pennsylvania."

The findings of the study will be available to user groups, free of charge, both in print and in electronic format. The project report is slated to be completed and available in the spring of 2003.

NFU To Host 2004 World Farmers Congress In U.S.

GIZA, Egypt — Members of the 50-plus-nation International Federation of Agricultural Producers voted Friday to hold the organization's biannual World Farmers Congress in the United States in 2004. The National Farmers Union (NFU), IFAP's only U.S. member, will host the conference.

IFAP's 35th World Farmers Congress took place this week just outside the Egyptian capitol of Cairo with 500 participating delegates from among the group's 86 member organizations. IFAP is an umbrella group of national farm organizations established in 1946.

In other action at this week's session, IFAP members elected NFU President Dave Frederickson to the organization's 18-member executive committee. "I'm honored to serve among this important group of farm leaders," said Frederickson. "Their support is a recognition of the U.S. as an extremely important agricultural producer and policymaker."

IFAP members debated four major policy topics at the Cairo meetings: food safety and quality; industrial concentration in the agri-food chain; agriculture and the current World Trade Organization (WTO) Round; and rural poverty, sustainable agriculture and food security.

On the issue of industrial concentration, a topic long important to American farmers, IFAP adopted a policy statement recognizing that farmers have little choice about from whom they purchase input supplies or to whom they sell their products. The paper urges national governments and world bodies to enforce regulatory policies aimed at creating and restoring competition in the agricultural marketplace.

IFAP also called on policymakers to adopt a moratorium on mergers and consolidations in the agricultural processing and retailing sector until the effects of such transactions globally can be analyzed.

On the topic of food safety, IFAP delegates supported the notion of food labeling such as the "country-of-origin" provision recently passed in the U.S. farm bill.

Frederickson led a delegation of four NFU members to the congress.

Pa. Wine Marketing, Research Board Conducts First Meeting

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Wine Marketing and Research Program board of directors conducted its first meeting May 7 at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in Harrisburg.

The state's wine producers had overwhelmingly voted in favor of the new program during a referendum last winter. Producers then nominated their peers for appointment to the nine-member board by Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes.

"Pennsylvania wines are excellent and successfully compete against wines from other states," said Hayes. "Pennsylvania is one of the leaders in the production of the two agricultural commodities — grapes and wines. I congratulate this new board and producers across the state on their effort to promote their Pennsylvania products."

Robert Mazza of Mazza Vineyards located in North East, Erie County, was elected chairman. Eric Miller of Chaddsford Winery in Chadds Ford, Chester County, was elected vice chairman, John Landis of Vynecrest Winery in Breinigsville, Lehigh County, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The board is charged with developing a strategic plan to market all Pennsylvania wines and conduct research on wine and wine grapes produced throughout the state. Efforts will focus on product quality and the promotion of positive experiences associated with visiting the state's more than 65 wineries.

Formed under Pennsylvania's Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act (ACMA), the program utilizes funds from Pennsylvania wineries to conduct marketing and research activities. Funds are assessed quarterly at a rate of 15 cents on each gallon of Pennsylvania wine sold.

Pennsylvania ranks fifth in wine and wine grape production in the U.S. after California, Washington, New York, and Oregon. The Commonwealth produces between 12,000-15,000 tons of wine grapes and approximately 600,000 gallons of wine annually.

For more information, contact Kyle Nagurny, Chief, Commodity Promotion Division, Bureau of Market Development, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, at (717) 787-2376, or visit the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture website through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword: "Agriculture," or directly at www.pda.state.pa.us.

Summit Planned On Safety Of Pork From Farm To Plate

DES MOINES, Ia. — With use of antibiotics in food-producing animals on the forefront of agricultural issues, the Antimicrobial Alternative and Resistance Symposium has been planned to deal with concerns and potential solutions to resistance.

The symposium will take place as part of the Pork Quality and Safety Summit in Des Moines, June 18-19. The Pork Checkoff will sponsor the event, designed to address the safety of pork from the farm to the dinner plate.

"The industry needs a comprehensive approach to the concerns of antibiotic resistance," said Dr. Liz Wagstrom, director of veterinary science at the National Pork Board. "Speakers at the symposium will discuss the issue and offer potential solutions for producers, practitioners, and the public health community."

Topics of the symposium include growth-promotant antibiotics and their effect on antimicrobial resistance, production practices involved with resistant effects, antibiotic-free pork production, feed alternatives to antibiotics, and alternative management and feeding strategies.

Also, a panel of researchers will report findings from a recent Pork Checkoff-supported trip to Denmark to study the subtherapeutic antibiotic ban in that country. The symposium begins at 1:30 p.m. June 18.

In addition to the Antimicrobial Symposium, the Pork Quality and Safety Summit that begins at 10 a.m. on June 18 will include general sessions on traceability in the meat production chain and food security. Concurrent sessions will address pork quality and pre- and post-harvest pork safety.

Producers, veterinarians, members of allied industry, and food safety specialists are encouraged to attend the two-day event.

Presentations are designed to offer the latest information and technology in pork quality and safety, and the sessions are designed for audience interaction.

The pre-registration deadline was May 30; however, participants also can register at the door. The summit will be at the Embassy Suites in downtown Des Moines.

For registration and hotel information, contact Sharlotte Peterson at the National Pork Board at (515) 223-2600 or 800-456-7675. Information also can be found at the pork checkoff's science Website, http://www.porkscience.org

Marketing Group To Sponsor Bus Tour

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Experience is the best teacher, as most anyone will tell you. And the best way to learn new marketing techniques and agricultural practices is to go on farm visits.

The New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Association's (NYSFDMA) annual summer bus tour is offering an opportunity to visit five different farm direct marketing businesses in Southwestern New York, June 26.

The tour will begin at Busti Cider Mill and Farm Market in Jamestown, N.Y. where there is a 1890s rack and cloth screw press, along with greenhouse vegetable production and a farm market housed in a mid-1800s barn.

Bob and Judy Schultz, the tour hosts, have stretched their season from May, with bedding plants, through early December with fall produce. They also feature a gift shop of local handmade crafts along with purchased gifts and Judy's baked goods, jams and jellies.

Next, the tour will venture across the border into Northwestern Pennsylvania to tour the Greenfield Basket Company. Greenfield, a regular at the New York State Farmers' Direct Marketing Conference, produces a wide variety of wooden baskets. They make great display baskets for farmers' market sales as well as a full line of basket for gift shops. (Greenfield Basket Company does not allow open-toed shoes in their factory. All tour participants, no open-toed shoes).

The third stop will be at the Vinewood Acres Sugar Shack who incorporate nature trails and local history into their operation. Tour goers can learn about grape farming in the Western New York grape growing region and facts about life and business along Lake Erie and the Seaway Trail. They will see Vinewood Acres maple syrup production system and sample over 21 varieties of fruit syrups, fruit butters and jams all homemade on the premises.

Scotts Farm is the fourth place and is an example of farm diversification. Their season begins with Easter flowers and spring crafts and bedding plants for early sales. Fruits and vegetables carry them through Thanksgiving. Then their Christmas trees, pre-cut and cut-your-own, and wreaths take their season through to Christmas.

Finally, tour participants will be treated to a strawberry shortcake with John and Sue Abers at Abers Acres. Their farm market offers customers a relaxing outing in the country along with the opportunity to pick their own strawberries, raspberries and blueberries or purchase already picked produce grown on 75 acres of prime farmland. John and Sue also combine on-farm sales with sales at area farmers' markets to maximize their customer base.

The tour will begin at 8:30 a.m., June 26 at Busti Cider Mill and Farm Market. Hotel arrangements can be made at the Holiday Inn of Jamestown. Call 1-800-528-8791. The Association group rate is $62 per night. (You must give the three-letter code FAR to receive the NYSFDMA group rate). The cost is $40 for NYSFDMA members and $45 for non-members. It includes bus fare and lunch.

For more information on the tour, call Judy Schultz at (716) 484-7300. To register, call Diane Eggert at (315) 475-1101 or e-mail diane99@dreamscape.com. Names, addresses, phone numbers and credit card information for registration can be faxed to (315) 362-5012.

Two County Youths Receive Scholarships In Conservation Field

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Conservation District has announced Katie N. Nickles and Mark W. Rineer Jr. are the recipients of the Lancaster County Conservation District Ann Brown Memorial Scholarship for 2002.

Katie Nickles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nickles of Akron, will attend the Pennsylvania State University studying Environmental Resource Management in preparation for a career in environmental science.

Mark Rineer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rineer of Bird-in-and, will attend Virginia Polytechnic Institute majoring in Fisheries Science.

The Ann Brown Memorial Scholarship Fund provides two $1,000 scholarships. Additionally, Katie and Mark will be eligible for a follow-up sophomore year scholarship of $400 provided by the fund.

The Lancaster County Conservation District accepts applications from graduating seniors who will be continuing their education with the intent of majoring in a curriculum that focuses on natural resources and/or conservation.

Examples of acceptable programs of studies would be: Environmental Sciences; Wildlife and/or Fisheries Biology; Environmental Resource Management; or other related programs, leading to an advanced degree (2-yr. associate degree or 4-yr. baccalaureate degree).

The applicants are evaluated on past performance and activities, current school and community involvement and future career direction plus the applicant's ability to communicate. The scholarship committee interviewed each candidate prior to the final selection.

Berks County Grazier Maximizes Soil Returns

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

BETHEL (Berks Co.) — Eleven years ago, changes began taking place in the pastures of Papa Farm.

When Brian Mohn began his pasture-based program, "it was hard to find information on rotational grazing," he said. "I read Lancaster Farming articles and got ideas that migrated from Lancaster."

Mohn, along with his wife Karen and daughters Beverly 12, Carolyn, 10, and Judy 8, have managed the farm for 11 years for a Philadelphia businessman.

His investigation into grazing came because of a "concern for good usage of the ground," he said. "I wanted to get the most out of this moderately productive ground."

"A lot of it was trial and error initially," he said. County agents helped in his education by conducting pasture walks and grazier discussions that helped to educate Mohn.

In the initial days, I traveled to Lancaster for pasture information to learn about water quality projects," he said. Besides adding streambank fencing, Mohn has put in his own concrete stream crossings.

Now, "to get a profitable operation I don't see any other way you can be in the cow/calf business without being in the grazing business," he said. Because of smaller-framed animals with improved genetics — and carefully-maintained pastures that the animals do not have to be fed supplemental hay or grain, for the most part, the operation's costs have declined.

Pennsylvania Spokesman

A year ago, Mohn went to America's Forage and Grassland Council's conference in Springdale, Arkansas as Pennsylvania's spokesman. Every spokesperson gave a 12-minute presentation on what forages mean to them.

"The main audience is university researchers, USDA pasture management people, scientists, and extension agents," he said. "We were given the opportunity to teach the teachers. They wanted more information to take back to educate others.

"There were people from all over the country competing. There were very diverse speeches from graziers, hay producers, and dairy producers."

Mohn's speech addressed

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Richard Hann knows the history and workings of the Pennsylvania Forage & Grassland Council.

For 34 years, Hann has been a vital part in the organization, handling the finances and acting as chief coordinator of events, board meetings, and membership matters. He has served as secretary treasurer since 1968. In addition to those responsibilities he assumed a new executive director post in 2000.

Hann recently reflected on PFGC's history, along with changes in agriculture and forage management that have occurred through the years.

First formed in 1960 as the Pennsylvania Grassland Council (PGC), the organization became affiliated with American Grassland Council in 1963. The name was changed to Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council in 1978 to more fully recognize its role in the state's forage/livestock industry.

Dr. John Baylor, then a Penn State Extension Forage Specialist was the Council's first president and Charles Wohlgemuth, general manager of Milton Hershey Farms

On-Farm Processing At Reiff Field Day

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.) — Join the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and host Eli Reiff and his family in learning about small-scale processing on the farm Wednesday, June 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

At this event, participants will look at how the Reiffs have developed a very successful poultry processing operation in compliance with food safety regulations.

The goal of this event is to help all on-farm processors break down the barrier between producer and inspector/regulator. The event will also feature the Reiffs' poultry processing facility and equipment. Reiff will demonstrate his "Poultry Man" equipment — small-scale pluckers and scalders he manufactures for sale.

Additional highlights include composting of the poultry processing waste and newly seeded pastures for grazing sheep. Following the noon meal, PASA welcomes John Sworen of the USDA's Food Safety Inspection Service. He will discuss the regulations that affect small-scale processors. There will be ample time for question and answer.

The Reiff family farm is a 56-acre farm. They have been farming and custom processing poultry for 22 years. It is a full-time family operation — their six children are integrally involved in the farm. They raise beef, sheep, and poultry; however, their main business is the custom processing of poultry.

Cost to attend is $10. Payment by cash or personal check is required at the registration desk on day of event, 8:30 a.m.-9:45 a.m. To register, call PASA at (814) 349-9856, ext. 6.

Pasture Walk June 11

NICKLEVILLE (Venango Co.) — A pasture walk sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension of Clarion County is scheduled Tuesday, June 11 at the farm of Matt and Monica Hepler in Nickleville.

The pasture walk will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the farm located next to Hepler's Meats.

The farm, located in Venango County, is home to more than 350 head of pasture-raised cattle. The herd consists of mostly Angus and Hereford breeds along with some Beefmaster cattle and Scottish Highlanders. The Heplers operate a cow/calf to finish operation at their farm, along with a meat processing business.

The farm is located on Rt. 38 in Nickleville, seven miles from Rt. 80 at exit 6. At exit 6, take Rt. 208 to the intersection of Rt. 38 at Gardenscape. Follow Rt. 38 to Hepler's Meats.

From Rt. 322, turn at Hirsch's Meats onto Rt. 338. Go five miles to Hepler's Meats or from Rt. 322, turn onto Rt. 38. Go two and one half miles to Heplers. Signs will be posted the day of the meeting to direct participants to the pasture walk.

The walk will be conducted regardless of the weather. Bring suitable gear in case of inclement weather.

For more information or questions about the program, contact the Clarion County Extension Office at (814) 782-0033.

Beef Quality Symposium June 18 In New Holland

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — A Beef Quality Symposium will be conducted at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland June 18 at 10 a.m.

Speakers and topics include "What is Beef Quality: An Overview," by Dr. Bill Henning, Penn State; "Feeding and Environmental Influences in Marbling," by Dr. Robbi Pritchard, South Dakota State; "Genetic Implications on Beef Quality," by Dr. John Comerford, Penn State; "Dark Cutters and Maturity Effects on Beef Quality," by Dr. John Scanga, Colorado State University; and "The Influence of Tenderness on Beef Quality," by Henning.

For more information, call Comerford at (814) 863-3661 or Chester Hughes at (717) 394-6851.

Meal costs are covered by the industry. No pre-registration is necessary.

Agriculture Secretary Encourages Pennsylvanians To Minimize Rabies Risk

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes encouraged Pennsylvanians to take steps to minimize the risk of rabies with their pets and in the state's livestock populations.

"Pennsylvania's livestock and pets are valuable members of our farms and households," Hayes said. "It is important that everyone takes the necessary steps to minimize the risk of rabies infecting our domestic animals, not to mention people.

"To that end, the two most important steps we can take are vaccinating our dogs and cats and reducing contact with wildlife."

By law, dogs and cats are required to be vaccinated against rabies at three months of age and receive booster inoculations throughout their lives to maintain vaccinated status.

"Vaccination is one of the best tools we have in the control of this devastating disease," said Dr. John Enck, Pennsylvania state veterinarian. "Although vaccinations are not required in our livestock populations, I encourage all farmers to work with their veterinarians to develop a comprehensive rabies-prevention plan."

Enck said another vital step to reduce the risk of rabies exposure is to minimize contact with wild animals such as raccoons, skunks and foxes. This is most readily accomplished by denying the wild animals access to food, not stocking "feeding stations," and keeping incidental food sources, such as garbage, in animal-proof containers.

Each year in the commonwealth, hundreds of animals are exposed to the rabies virus. Because the rabies virus is in the saliva of a rabid animal, rabies is most likely transmitted through the animal's bite. The usually fatal virus attacks the nervous system of warm-blooded animals.

Signs of rabies in animals can vary from a very quiet and depressed condition to erratic and aggressive behavior. Noted changes in behavior and temperament are often early signs of the disease.

Enck advises Pennsylvanians to contact the local animal-control officer should they notice stray cats or dogs in the neighborhood or any unusual animal behavior. Domestic animals that have been bitten by a wild animal should be examined by a veterinarian. If an animal bites a person, a doctor should be notified immediately. For information regarding human exposure to rabies, contact the Pennsylvania Department of Health at (888) PA HEALTH, or visit the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword: "rabies."

April Pig Crop Up 1 Percent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The April 2002 U.S. pig crop, at 8.57 million head, was 1 percent more than the previous year, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

Sows farrowing during this period totaled 965 thousand head, 1 percent above last year. The average pigs per litter for April declined to 8.88, compared to 8.90 last year.

The U.S. inventory of sows and gilts on May 1, 2002, was 5.99 million head, slightly above May 1, 2001. U.S. sows and gilts bred during April totaled 1.18 million head, up 1 percent from the previous year.

Pa. To Host Lumber-Grading School

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes announced that the Pennsylvania Hardwoods Development Council (PHDC) has collaborated with the National Hardwood Lumber Association (NHLA) to bring a six-week, accelerated version of the NHLA Lumber Grading Program to Titusville, Crawford County, July 8-Aug. 16.

The NHLA Inspection School is the only permanent school of its nature in the world. Teaching the accurate measurement and grading of lumber according to the NHLA Rule Book, the school's coursework includes both classroom instruction and extensive hands-on, lumber-grading training.

"This is the first time that the NHLA has held a version of its nationally recognized training program outside of Memphis, Tenn.," Hayes said. "And bringing it to Pennsylvania makes good sense because our commonwealth leads the nation in the production of hardwood lumber."

Sponsored by the PHDC and the Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association of Pennsylvania, the six-week program targets experienced lumber graders and sales and management personnel. Attendees will be required to pass a pre-course examination to demonstrate their basic knowledge of the hardwood industry and the NHLA grading rules.

The program is open to 20 students and costs $1,500 per student, including instruction, course supplies, and materials. Lodging is available at the adjacent University of Pittsburgh at Titusville campus at a cost of $400 for the six weeks.

An orientation and registration meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, June 15, at the Harry T. Kerr Technology Center in Titusville. The center is hosting the program along with the Titusville Community Development Agencies and the University of Pittsburgh at Titusville.

For more information, contact the PHDC at (717) 772-3715 or the National Hardwood Lumber Association at (901) 337-1818.

Study Documents Impact Of Biotech On U.S. Food Production

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The most comprehensive analysis of the current and potential impact of biotechnology in U.S. food production will be unveiled by the National Center for Food and Agricultural Policy (NCFAP) during BIO 2002, the Biotechnology Industry Organization's annual meeting, June 10 in Toronto, Canada.

The 40 case studies of 27 crops, ranging from apples and citrus to cotton and corn, document the impact biotechnology has had and could have on controlling diseases and pests that take a bite out of U.S.-grown crops.

The case studies show that the adoption of plant biotechnology in major commodity crops, and successful development in additional crops, would result in billions of pounds more food production, billions of savings in production costs to growers, and millions fewer pounds of pesticide applied.

Each of the 47 states analyzed in the study show biotechnology offers a positive impact on state and local economies, as well as the amount of pesticide used in food production, which means there is valuable local information for your audience.

Leonard Gianessi, program director for NCFAP, will provide a detailed overview of the research and conduct a question-and-answer session at 9:30 a.m., Monday, June 10, in room 712 of the South Building at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre. For those unable to attend in person, a media teleconference will take place at 11:30 a.m., Monday, June 10.

The National Center for Food and Agricultural Policy is a private, nonprofit, nonadvocacy research organization based in Washington, D.C. The center was originally established in 1984 at Resources for the Future with a grant from the Kellogg Foundation and became an independent organization in 1992.

NCFAP researchers conduct studies in four program areas: biotechnology, pesticides, U.S. farm and food policy and international trade and development.

MAXIMIZING YOUR INVESTMENTS: ACHIEVING ENVIRONMENTAL EXCELLENCE

Virginia Ishler, Robert Mikesell, and Robert Meinen
Dairy Alliance And Senior Extension Associates
Penn State

When nutrient management is mentioned in most any context, people immediately think of regulations, manure handling and storage, and unrealistic restrictions — basically, no positive associations. If Pennsylvania's dairy industry is to grow as an industry and allow persons to maintain a profitable business, then let's set the example for environmental stewardship by exceeding the standards.

The means to achieve this can be realistic, practical, and cost-effective. The long-term benefits can be improved public impressions of the importance of dairy to Pennsylvania.

The unfortunate truth is the majority of the population resides in urban areas and has little knowledge of what is involved in production agriculture. What they observe is at a distance and the rule of thumb that "You have only one chance to make a first impression" is very true. Our goal should be to make a great positive impression.

During the past year, Pennsylvania has been advocating PEACCE, a pilot-scale, environmentally proactive program for livestock producers. The acronym stands for Pennsylvania Environmental Agricultural Conservation Certification of Excellence. The unique aspect of the program is that various state organizations have come together with a common goal to promote environmentally safe agriculture practices among livestock producers.

The sponsors are PennAg Industries Association, Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Penn State University, and USDA Natural Resource Conservation Services in Pennsylvania. PEACCE is a four-level program that is available to any livestock operation. After a producer successfully completes the certification, their farm receives a sign display that publicly recognizes their achievement.

PEACCE is a consolidation of programs developed by Penn State, the National Pork Producers Council, and Conservation District personnel from Lancaster, Chester, and Berks counties. The program is free, voluntary, confidential, and applies to single as well as multi-species operations.

On July 23, 2002 the PEACCE program will officially be released to all Pennsylvania producers, with 20 pilot farms receiving certification and a sign for successfully completing the program. This innovative program not only benefits the environment, but sends a very strong and positive public message about participating farms' environmental stewardship practices.

To qualify for the PEACCE program, producers must complete three steps. The first step of the program is a one-day educational program called the Penn State Environmental Awareness Course. The course addresses current issues, regulations, and common-sense practices in the following areas:

1. Environmental awareness, stewardship and sustainability.
2. Manure and nutrient application.
3. Odor, gaseous emissions, and nuisance issues.
4. Environmental laws and regulations in agriculture.

To date, 600 people have completed the environmental awareness course. Two thirds have been producers and one third have been conservation district and extension personnel. Approximately 25 percent of the animal operations have been dairies.

Step 2 of the program is the nationally recognized On-Farm Assessment and Environmental Review (OFAER). America's Clean Water Foundation funds this portion of the program that is administered by Environmental Management Solutions, LLC, of Des Moines, Iowa. However, Penn State coordinates assessment applications. This voluntary, confidential, nonregulatory program conducts detailed on-farm assessments free of charge.

Two third-party assessors, trained to evaluate farms of specific species, are assigned to the farm. All biosecurity requirements are followed by the assessors. The assessment identifies environmental strengths and offers sensible recommendations for improving environmental challenges in the following areas:

1. Overall site appearance and management.
2. Building management.
3. Manure storage management and effects of odors.
4. Mortality management.
5. Nutrient management and manure application.

Originally created to assess swine farms, OFAER's successful track record prompted the 2001 adoption of the assessment by other industries. One hundred-fifty Pennsylvania livestock operations have completed the second step of the PEACCE program. Twelve of the operations have been dairies.

Producers who complete the first two steps are eligible to participate in the final third step of the PEACCE program: A conservation checklist administered by personnel from the local conservation district. Trained technicians from the county conservation district and/or Penn State Extension utilize a standard, comprehensive checklist to verify that the producer has met PEACCE requirements.

The district technician will present checklist findings and recommendations to the local conservation board that either approves or denies certification. All sponsors of PEACCE are represented on an industry board that will administer final approval. Upon certification, the farm will receive a sign and be publicly recognized for meeting and exceeding the environmental standards of the program. Eight dairy operations have successfully completed the PEACCE program and will receive certification on July 23, 2002.

The fourth step of PEACCE is maintaining certification by receiving continuing education credits and by participating in a county conservation district status review. These steps are to be completed every three years. The Livestock and Poultry Environmental Stewardship Curriculum (LPES) will be used as the continuing education tool and will be adapted to specifically fit Pennsylvania issues. LPES is a national education program that has been developed through the collaborative effort of 15 land-grand universities, the EPA Ag Center, and the USDA. The educational curriculum covers:

1. Environmental awareness.
2. Land application of manure and whole farm nutrient planning.
3. Outdoor air quality.
4. Manure storage systems.
5. Specie-specific dietary strategies to reduce nutrient excretion.

PEACCE offers numerous benefits to producers. It helps identify potential environmental challenges overlooked by producers involved in day-to-day farm activities, enriches and enhances agriculture's public image, and promotes environmentally safe agricultural practices.

The program may also minimize the risk of nuisance issues and litigation.

Mark Wolfskill from Robesonia, who will receive his certification in July, summarized the program the best: "The time involved in the program was painless and I came away with an improved awareness."

If livestock producers lead by example, then this is the first step in encouraging others to take advantage of the opportunities the PEACCE program or other similar programs can provide.

More information about the program can found on Penn State's nutrient management Website under dairy at http://nutrient.psu.edu or by contacting Robb Meinen at (814) 865-2987 or rjm134@psu.edu.

PMMB Announces Milk Price

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) announced the prices to be paid to Pennsylvania dairy farmers for May Class I milk (beverage) as an average of $15.31 in the western areas of the commonwealth, and an average of $15.80 in the central and eastern areas of the commonwealth. These prices include the over-order premium of $1.65 per hundred weight of milk.

Farmers, whose milk production is pooled under a federal order, will receive a marketwide blend price based upon the value of all classes of milk. However, the blend price received will vary as the component composition of a farmer's milk differs from the established benchmarks of 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids.

New Composting Operations Receive Grants

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Secretary David E. Hess recently announced $5.1 million in composting grants for 31 Pennsylvania communities.

Secretary Hess, who announced the grants at the second annual State Composting Conference in State College, said the funding could boost composting capacity by 40 percent.

The grants will be used by communities to purchase equipment to increase the amount of organic material they collect and compost, to distribute backyard compost bins to citizens, and for educational efforts to help people learn how easy and beneficial it is to compost.

"There are hundreds of uses for compost, from the backyard garden and flower beds, to landscaping and even constructing wetlands and natural filters for stormwater," Secretary Hess said. "Compost not only adds organic material to the soil, it contains microbes that break down impurities in water and helps retain water during periods of drought."

The state now has the potential to compost about 12.5 million pounds of compost a year. With the capacity added by the grants, the total could go to 17.5 million pounds per year.

"The increased recycling of organic waste is critical in helping us meet our 35 percent recycling goal," Secretary Hess said. "The preliminary results of the state's waste characterization study show that more than 30 percent of municipal waste is organic waste like food and yard debris that can be separated and used in a beneficial manner. These grants will help make that happen."

Pennsylvania currently has 187 municipal and 74 private composting sites across the Commonwealth. In the last several years, in concert with partners like the Pennsylvania State University, DEP has increased efforts to promote organic recycling by providing more than 25,000 backyard compost bins to state residents and by forming a Composting Task Force that has prepared a report on how organic recycling can be enhanced.

DEP also has developed guidelines for using compost for erosion and sedimentation controls and has developed a general permit for composting source-separated food waste on farms.

These types of operations allow farmers to receive a tipping fee for each load of food waste. The farmers then compost the waste and use it as fertilizer.

"Composting is easy, and it's our job to educate Pennsylvanians about the benefits," Secretary Hess added. "Conferences like this help us not only to develop best practices and share success stories, but also give us a forum to help people learn they can restore, preserve and improve our environment by composting."

The conference is held in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Composting Association, the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture and Professional Recyclers of Pennsylvania.

Grant applications are also being accepted for private compost facility operators who want to expand their operations. A pre-application conference for those operators will be conducted on July 23 at DEP's Rachel Carson State Office Building in Harrisburg.

For more information on composting, visit DEP through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, keyword: "composting," or directly at www.dep.state.pa.us ("Composting.")

Entry Deadlines Announced For Md. State Fair Livestock, Horse Shows

TIMONIUM, Md. — Each year, the Maryland State Fair provides the opportunity for 8-year-old and 18-year-old 4-H and FFA members, and the general public of all ages, to enter their horses and ponies, and their pigs, goats, sheep, cattle and other livestock in a variety of conformation and fitting and showing competitions. The events will take place from Friday, Aug. 23 through Monday, Sept. 2 at the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium. The Fairgrounds open at 9 a.m. for those who wish to observe the livestock and horse shows.

The 4-H/FFA Livestock Competitions and Shows take place during the first half of the Fair from Friday, Aug. 23 through Monday, Aug. 26. To enter, 4-H/FFA members must obtain a Premium Catalog with regulation entry blanks from their 4-H/FFA leader or county extension office or on the 4-H Website at www.maryland4h.org or the Maryland State Fair Website at marylandstatefair.com. All 4-H/FFA entry blanks must be returned to the County or City 4-H Extension Educators by July 1.

The Open Class Livestock Competitions and Shows take place from Tuesday, Aug. 27-Monday, Sept. 2. To enter, Open Class participants must obtain a Livestock Premium Catalog with regulation entry blanks, rules of eligibility and entry times by visiting the Maryland State Fair Website at marylandstatefair.com. All Open Class livestock entries may be entered on-line or mailed to the Maryland State Fair and postmarked by Aug. 1 on the form provided by the Maryland State Fair.

considered public and is subject to permitting and monitoring by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), he said.

According to Harnish, the El Dorado Stone facility is also slated to have a water reclamation system installed later this year that would recycle 2,000 to 3,000 gallons of water used in cleanup.

In any case, there seems to be no real legal backing for farm operations or other businesses whose water supply is threatened by nearby interests.

"There are not really any regulations or laws in that area," said Gary Heim, attorney with Mette, Evans & Woodside, Harrisburg. Heim has worked on agricultural issues for 22 years.

For water uses of less than 100,000 gallons per day, the regulations in Pennsylvania are still based on common law without regard to effects across property lines or "the cone of influence" created by groundwater withdrawals, according to Heim.

"The person with the deepest well and the strongest pump wins," he said, summing up water-use law in Pennsylvania.

While the DEP is responsible for water quality issues, and agencies such as the Susquehanna River Basin Commission regulate uses of more than 100,000 gallons and "consumptive uses" greater than 20,000 gallons per day, a situation involving less water — like the Grove's case — has no legal recourse, according to Heim.

Neither will new proposed state water laws address this type of situation — they are focused more on conservation and planning issues, Heim said.

But with "water issues becoming more important," Heim said Pennsylvania should consider adopting "a more comprehensive state law."

One factor such a law could consider is that the state's groundwater supply is recharged mainly through precipation on farm and forest lands.

Partial compensation may be in store for Grove and other farmers in southcentral Pennsylvania, however.

According to Tom Kerr of the Franklin County office of the Farm Service Agency (FSA), farmers in some counties needing to build new wells for livestock because of the drought may be eligible for cost share funds of up to 50 percent through the USDA emergency conservation program.

Kerr said he's seen about 40 farms in Franklin County that experienced drought-related water problems, and about 30 who have drilled new wells for that reason. Most of the new wells are between 400 and 600 feet deep, with some as deep as 800 feet.

The most drought-stricken farms in the area lie mostly on limestone soils between the Shippensburg and Waynesboro areas, according to Kerr. He said there is no evident pattern of the farms being located near industrial sites.

Eligible counties for the FSA program include Adams, Bedford, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Lancaster, Lebanon, Northampton, and York.

Deadline for application is June 30 for new well construction in some counties, but may vary in other counties. Check with your local FSA office for more details.

"If you young kids have a dream, follow it up," said Donald. "Don't always listen to the older folks, I mean, listen to them, but don't take them too seriously."

If he had it all to do over again, Donald says he would have done things a little differently.

"I would have started earlier so I could be retired by now," he said with a laugh.

Lancaster County Holstein Show July 17

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Black and White Holstein Show will be conducted Wednesday, July 17, at the Solanco Fairgrounds in Quarryville.

This year's show will be in conjunction with the county 4-H Roundup on the same day. Cattle may arrive on Tuesday, July 16, between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. All cattle must be accompanied by a health certificate signed by an accredited veterinarian.

The judge for this year's show will be Alan Hostetter from Lebanon County. Those interested in entering cattle in the show, conduct Robert Wenger at (717) 548-3116.

The cost for entering an animal in the open show is $5 and the late fee will be $10. 4-H and FFA animals will be at no cost. All entries are due to the show chairman by June 21. The holstein show will start at approximately noon, following the colored breed 4-H show.

The Lancaster County Holstein Club is seeking agribusiness sponsors for the event. Sponsorship helps cover costs such as trophies, catalogs, ribbons, and prize money. Sponsors will be listed in the show catalog and acknowledged at the show.

Cost for sponsorship is $40. Please send donations to Rich Hess, 1540 N. Jefferson Ct., Lancaster, PA 17602.

Womelsdorf Student Chosen Outstanding Penn State Senior

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Heather Schaetzle, daughter of Alan and Joan Schaetzle of Womelsdorf, received Penn State's 2002 College of Agricultural Sciences Outstanding Senior Award at the college's spring commencement ceremony.

The award, sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society and the Penn State Coaly Society, recognizes seniors for outstanding performance in academics, extracurricular activities, work experience and communication skills. The selection committee reviews resumes, short essays and grades, and conducts short interviews in choosing the recipient.

A graduate of Conrad Weiser Area High School, Schaetzle is majoring in agricultural and biological engineering with a minor in environmental engineering. She is also a member of Penn State's Schreyer Honors College, Tau Beta Pi engineering honor society, Alpha Epsilon agricultural engineering honor society, Gamma Sigma Delta Agricultural honor society, Mortar Board senior honor society, the Coaly agricultural honor society and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars.

As an undergraduate, Schaetzle served as an Ag Advocate, representing Penn State and the college at events such as Ag Progress Days, the Pennsylvania Farm Show and Parents Weekend. She intends to pursue a graduate degree in agricultural engineering.

She also served as a teaching intern for the college's agricultural and biological engineering department. She is a past president of Penn State's student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, serves on the Agricultural Student Council and is a member of Habitat for Humanity. She also is a deacon and reader at the Zion Lutheran Church in Womelsdorf.

She was an engineering student-trainee with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service in Lebanon and a laboratory assistant for the USDA Agricultural Research Service's Pasture Systems and Watershed Research Laboratory based at Penn State. She was also an engineering, scientific and technical intern for the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection in Conshohocken.

Milk Marketing Board Maintains Premium

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau welcomed news of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board's (PMMB) recent decision to continue the over-order milk price premium for dairy producers at its current level for the remainder of the year.

"We applaud the Milk Marketing Board's decision to maintain the over-order premium during the next six months," said Guy Donaldson, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "Our dairy producers remain in need of the support it provides."

PMMB members have determined that the over-order premium paid on Class I fluid milk produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania should continue at the $1.65 per hundredweight level for the six-month period from July through December. The over-order premium at the $1.65 level was scheduled to end June 30.

"Persistent low federal order prices will put our dairymen in jeopardy of economic shortfalls in the months ahead," Donaldson said. "Dairymen will not begin seeing benefits of the National Dairy Market Loss Payment program until later this year. The federal dairy payment program was established by the new farm bill and will have no immediate impact on market conditions. The continuation of the over-order premium by the Milk Marketing Board for the rest of the year is justified."

PMMB's action followed a hearing May 1 to determine the future over-order price level. At that hearing, Farm Bureau spokesman Joel Rotz recommended that the $1.65 per hundredweight level remain intact. "At a time when both cow numbers and production are in decline in the state, the board must do what it can to bring price relief to all producers servicing the Pennsylvania market," Rotz had testified.

Dairy Alliance Expands

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's Dairy Alliance has hired a specialist to address nutrient management issues by developing and delivering educational programs to help dairy producers.

Virginia Ishler, who has worked with Penn State Cooperative Extension at University Park for the past 14 years, joined the alliance in May. With a bachelor's degree in dairy husbandry from Delaware Valley College and a Master's degree in dairy science from Penn State, she has extensive experience with dairy nutrition, including operation of the Near Infrared Forage Testing Van. She also has worked in the feed industry in New York.

In extension, Ishler has been involved in dairy cattle nutrition. In her new position with Dairy Alliance, she will be responsible for bringing a holistic approach to the area of nutrient management. She played an integral role in the development of the alliance's nutrient management Web site, which can be found at http://nutrient.psu.edu.

Berger Chosen NFU Communications Coordinator

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) Communications Director Laura Johnston today announced the appointment of Kristy Berger as communications coordinator.

Said Johnston, "she has a strong connection with Farmers Union and has shown her commitment to the organization and our mission."

As communications coordinator, Berger will focus on assisting state organizations with communication activities, radio production, and other grassroots communications events.

Berger joins NFU after graduating from the University of North Dakota with a bachelor's degree in communication and after serving as a delegate to Germany through the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) agriculture program.

Young Couple Tackles Dairy Farming With Enthusiasm

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — "Exhausted" is the word Danielle Smoker uses to describe herself at the end of the day.

But she wouldn't trade being a dairy farm wife and mother of 5-month-old Lauren for anything.

"It's so rewarding. At the end of each day, you can see something you've done," Danielle said of working side by side with her husband, Shawn. The Smokers milk 96 cows on their 110-acre Hollo-Home Farm, Belleville.

Danielle did not grow up on a dairy farm, but she couldn't be a more ardent supporter of it.

"I love the dairy farm. I know every cow by name and I missed them," she said of taking a few weeks off from milking duties after the birth of Lauren.

"All I ever wanted to do was farm," Shawn said. "It makes farming a lot easier having a supportive wife. She's always eager to help out and learn."

Danielle admits that the hardest thing about farming is being tied down every day. On the positive side is the opportunity to work side by side with her husband.

"I can be a stay-at-home mom but still have a job," Danielle said. "And the farm also allows Shawn to spend a lot more time with Lauren than most dads have with their daughters."

Family members on both sides help frequently at this point. By design the couple are making changes in the farming operation to enable them to handle the milking chores alone if necessary. They are building a new freestall barn, which should be completed in July. The old barn will be used as a heifer facility.

"This will enable us to have everything here instead of running back and forth," Smoker said of the current situation in which they rent neighboring facilities for the heifers.

When Shawn, at 21 years of age, took over the family's century farm, he had 48 cows. He attributes a good breeding program for producing a long string of heifers, which has resulted in a herd of 96 milking cows plus replacements.

When Smoker took over the farming operation, most of the cows were registered, but he is getting away from registered stock. He said, "It is hardly worth it (financially)."

Smoker is satisfied with the herd's 20,000 pound rolling herd average.

Berks County Dairy Princess Kellie Phillips and Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Lindsay Fessler speak in support of the dairy industry.

Phillips To Promote Berks County Dairy Industry

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — What do you get when you have a waitress, ventriloquist and a doctor? The answer is the Berks County dairy princess royalty crowned recently at the annual pageant at Leesport Ag Center.

Kristen Gross, the outgoing princess, crowned Kellie Phillips, who portrayed the doctor in her skit, as the 2002-2003 Berks County dairy princess. Also, announced as Berks County alternate dairy princesses were Rebecca Dietrich and Vicki Kieffer. Crowned the 2002-2003 li'l miss dairy princess was Lindsay Fessler, by outgoing Li'l Miss Caitlyn Pool.

Kellie is the 17-year-old daughter of Michael Phillips of Mertztown, with whom she resides, and Rhea Turning Heart of Emmaus. She has a sister Robin and brother Joseph. Kellie is a junior at Brandywine Heights High School where she is in the French Club. She is also a member of the Kutztwon FFA Chapter.

Kellie is no stranger to agriculture and dairy promotion as she has served as a Berks County dairy ambassador, she shows Ayrshires and Holsteins at local fairs, and is a member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Club. In her free time she enjoys riding horses, fishing, and having fun.

Rebecca, who is better known as Becky, is the 18-year-old daughter of Thomas and Karen Dietrich, Bernville. She has a brother Tommy and sister Annie. Becky will be graduating from Hamburg High School this month and will be attending Penn State Berks Campus in the fall to study agriculture business management.

At Hamburg, Becky is a member of the choir and the German Club. Outside of school, she is involved in the Northern Berks 4-H Club. She has been a 4-H camp counselor as well as serving as a Berks County dairy ambassador. Becky likes to spend time with her Holsteins and Brown Swiss in her free time. She also like to hang out with her friends and ride bike.

Gardens & Kitchens Tour Promises Bonanza Of Sights, Tastes, Smells

TERRE HILL (Lancaster Co.) — Savor gardens bursting with blooms and gourmet specialties prepared in charming kitchens during the Garden of Eatin' Tour June 15.

Sponsored by the Terre Hill Days Committee, the 10-site tour offers a peek into some of the most delightful gardens and kitchens in the Terre Hill area.

The tour is a great opportunity to find ideas to incorporate into your own landscaping, and ask how-to questions, because most of the tour hosts designed and built their own gardens and ponds.

"This is a work in progress," Carl Gables said of his backyard garden. He built his first water garden in 1994, and despite the back-breaking work of hand digging, he now has three ponds filled with koi and goldfish.

The colorful fish break the surface to nibble on the food Gable scatters on top. Gable and his wife Glorene did not install a filter system and depend upon an all-natural method to keep the water clean. They have experimented by planting many different varieties of water plants such as iris, bullrushes, tea, clover, water hyacinths, lossestrife, and water lilies.

"It's amazing the many different plants that can be put into ponds," Glorene said.

The couple moved a building in order to expand their garden and added an outhouse for effect.

The couple add to their collection of annuals, perennials and hanging baskets by buying skidloads of flowers weekly at the Weaverland Produce Auction.

"You've got to be good at math and be able to make quick decisions," Gable said of auction buying. His wife estimates that it takes an hour a day to water the many plants in their garden.

Gable also has 100 homing pigeons used for 500-mile races. The pigeons enjoy drinking and taking baths in the ponds.

On the day of the tour, the

Gables are proud to have their son Greg Gable, executive chef at Donecker's Restaurant, Ephrata, serve hors d'oeuvres in their early 1900's home.

"I taught him everything he needs to know about cooking," his mother said. "I left both our boys mess up the kitchen."

Other tasty specialties for tour participants will be prepared by Betty Groff of Groff's Farm Restaurant, Mount Joy, who will serve fresh asparagus with new potatoes and bacon. Akron Restaurant, Akron, will serve cheesecake. Steve Brown, general manager and chef at Lily's on Main, Ephrata, will serve the house salad specialty.

At the Terre Hill Pavilion, food will be available for purchase. Featured are tea and gourmet creations by Linda Shirk under the Garden of Eatin' Cafe.

Tickets are $6 purchased in advance and $8 the day of the tour at the Terre Hill Park Pavilion. To purchase advance tickets, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope with check payable to Terre Hill Days, Terre Hille Borough Office, P.O. Box 250, Terre Hill, PA 17581. For more details, call (717) 445-4581 before the tour or on the day of the tour (717) 445-7006.

The following gardens and kitchens are open for tour June 15:

• Kenneth Martin, 271 Lancaster Ave., Terre Hill, built a sunken garden using local fieldstone for the walls. The home's interior features hand-painted and decorated floor and wall borders and refinished and decorated antiques and ceramics by the owner. Also on display is a collection of primitive carvings by the owner's father. Steve Brown, general manager and chef at Lily's On Main, Ephrata, will serve the restaurant's house salad.

• Floyd and Pat Parmer, 309 Broad St., Terre Hill, constructed a brick patio in-town garden edged with potted plants and shaded by a large ash tree. A stone wall forms a background for iris blooms. The garden is a great example of landscaping for small places.

• John and Karen Eby, 667 Wide Hollow Rd., East Earl, open their two-story brick home built in 1995. The eat-in kitchen has white cabinets with marble green formica countertops with French doors leading to a newly constructed sunroom that overlooks their 8x14-feet fishpond with a flowing 30-foot stream. Beyond the pond is a paved patio for entertaining. A pergola, constructed by John, incorporates pillars removed from the old Hinkletown Mill. Bulbs, annuals, and perennials are supplemented by potted plants that can be relocated throughout the season. A cutting bed is used to dry flowers for making wreaths and an herb garden is nearby for cooking. Akron Restaurant will serve its specialty at this home.

• Leon and Mary Jane Stauffer, 836 Camp Meeting Rd., East Earl, designed a lovely garden on a wooded slope. Throughout the garden are fountains, iron gates, birdhouses, garden table, chairs, benches, and pathways.

• Jim and Mary Ann Weber, 543 Panorama Dr., Denver, have 3-acres with spectacular landscaping. Nestled in a hillside with a beautiful view, the home is surrounded by eight different areas. Included are shade-loving annuals, water pond with bridge, formal garden with perennial bed, vegetable gardens, and greenhouse. Winding paths lead through many varieties of trees, shrubs, and plants.

• Joe and Kay Good, 104 Lynwood Dr., Terre Hill, added a ¼ acre known as Goods' Woods to their property three years ago. Interspersed among old shade trees and large rocks are winding pathways that lead to areas of hosta, dogwoods, variegated English holly, ferns, day lilies, wildflowers, ivy, wild raspberry, perennials, and annuals. A gazebo and other sitting areas enable the family to enjoy many varieties of birds.

• Carl and Glorene Gable, 109 E. Main St., Terre Hill, ponds and home described above.

• The Artist's Inn and Gallery is home for Bruce and Jan Garranbrandt, 117 E. Main St., Terre Hill. A mix of pastel perennials and annuals flowerbeds with winding walking paths provide herbs and edible flowers for breakfast served to inn guests. Don't miss the owner's favorite — showcase delphinium beds — at the end of the arbor.

• Larry and Laverne Eby, 1480 Ironstone Dr., East Earl, built traditional country-style home with a breakfast nook that overlooks a bird-watching area of landscape. Nine-foot ceilings with a beautiful cottage white Quality Custom kitchen is where Betty Groff from Groff's Farm Restaurant, Mount Joy, will serve fresh asparagus with new potatoes and bacon.

• Terre Hill Timbers Pavilion at the park, Lancaster Avenue, Terre Hill, will have garden accessories for sale at the Gardens of Eatin' Cafe and Garden Shop. The cafe will feature tea and gourmet creations by Linda Shirk. The pavilion seats 300 people and is the restroom stop for tour participants.

There are just a few of the many items that will be featured at the sixth annual benefit auction for Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding, Inc. Saturday, June 15, 5 p.m., at the Bareville Fire Company in Leola. There will also be a variety of saddles and other horse necessities.

Auction To Benefit Therapeutic Horseback Riding Program

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding, Inc., will conduct its sixth annual benefit auction Saturday, June 15, at 5 p.m., at the Bareville Fire Company, Route 23, Leola.

Some of the items featured will be antiques, collectibles, signed artwork, a quilt, toys, furniture, handmade items and crafts, automotive supplies, plants, gift certificates and services, theme baskets, baked goods, tack (including saddles and other horse supplies), and so much more. These items were donated by area businesses and individuals.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding, Inc., a non-profit organization, which provides healing for individuals with physical, mental and emotional disabilities.

Therapeutic horseback riding offers many benefits to the riders, including improvement in their balance, strength, range of motion, coordination and self-confidence. "It has helped Kyle with his balance. I don't think he would be walking without it. It gives him a sport he can do." said Mary Ellen Kauffman, a rider's mother.

The program operates out of Greystone Manor Stables near Leola, and runs from April through October. Sessions are taught by riding instructors and therapists. Riders are assisted by a person leading the horse and a person walking on each side initially. The program consists of approximately 65 riders, 125 active volunteers and eight horses.

For more information on the program or to donate items for the auction, call (717) 615-9222.

Summer Fun With Children

Summer brings many changes in the world around us. One of those changes is in our family routine.

Summertime means greater flexibility in many families. Seize time this summer to strengthen your family by spending more time doing things together.

Family summers need not be spent in a vacation home or far away on a trip. Fun times and memories can happen near home. Sit down today and start planning activities your family will enjoy this summer.

Start your summer off with a family tradition to make the last day of school extra special. Try a special breakfast, dinner or treat. Plan a special activity such as swimming, biking, or a hike. Create a "welcome summer" banner to greet your child when they get home after that last day. Whatever your family enjoys, you can make it a tradition by doing it each year on that last day of school.

Create a summer memory book. Make this a special place to record trips, activities and happenings around the house. When the snow is blowing next winter this will be a great book to take from the shelf and remember the fun you shared together in the warm sun.

Discover the parks and places near you. Get together with others in your neighborhood and have the children create a neighborhood event such as an art show, a circus or even a neighborhood Olympics.

Summer is a great time for a lot of fun and learning to occur. The best place to begin is with what interests your child. Take a visit to the library and get some good books that you can share.

If you are planning a family vacation, remember your destination when you are choosing those books and allow your child some input into what will happen on vacation. Children can learn about what should be seen and where to go along the way.

The Internet can be a great tool to use to gain some of this information. Keep safety in mind when you are enjoying summer days with children. They should always wear sun protection, drink enough water and be protected from insects.

Even lazy days of summer are learning days. Learning to relax and spend time with family has become a skill many Americans have lost. Be sure to find time for your family to create memories. When life becomes a bit crazy and tiring you will have these great memories to draw on.

Contact your local Cooperative Extension office for your free copy of Penn State's Family Time for Summer. This is a great resource of activities you can do with your child. Be sure to indicate which age you are interested in (ages 2-3yrs; 4-6yrs; or 7-8 yrs.)

In Berks County you can contact Sue Giachero at (610) 378-1327.

Vacationing Safely

As families leave for vacation, or travel to see relatives or perhaps just take a day trip, most folks will be taking food with them for picnics and to keep little stomachs (and mouths) full in the car.

Packing and storing food with food safety in mind can prevent a vacation disaster. Packing food safety isn't that difficult. Just remember the five rules of traveling with food. 1. Plan Ahead. A well-stocked cooler is a must. Have plenty of ice or frozen gel-packs on hand before you start packing. Some foods don't require refrigeration-peanut butter and jelly and some cheeses, for example.

Perishable foods, such as meat, poultry, eggs and fish, do, so if you're taking summer salads, making sandwiches on the road or bringing food to cook over the course of your vacation, plan to keep them on ice in your cooler throughout the trip.

2. Pack safely. Pack perishables directly from the refrigerator to the cooler. You can pack meat and poultry while it is still frozen. It will thaw during the trip, extending its safety and shelf-life. A full cooler will maintain its cold temperature longer than one that is only partially filled. Pack the remaining space with more ice or with fruit and non-perishable foods. Securely overwrap or bag foods that may drip or leak, particularly raw meat, poultry or fish.

For longer trips take two coolers-one for the day's lunch and snacks, the other for perishables to be used later. Keep big and little hands out of the perishable cooler. Put the cooler in the passenger section of the car instead of in the hot trunk.

3. Preserve the cold temperature of the cooler by replenishing the ice as soon as it starts melting.

4. Pitch any foods that warm above refrigerator temperature (40F). Food poisoning bacteria grow rapidly at warm temperatures. At the end of the day, if the ice has melted and the food feels warm, discard any meat or poultry left.

Non-perishables, like fruits, vegetables, breads and drinks do not require refrigeration and should be okay. 5. Protect your family from disease-causing bacteria by keeping hands and utensils clean. If soap and water will not be available, pack some moist towelettes. Bag and set aside dishes and utensils to wash with hot soapy water when you reach your destination. Packing food for the trip is a money-and time-saver for today's road warriors. Resealable bottles of juice or sodas are more economical than individual cans or bottles. Bring a plastic cup for each member of the family. Store ice for drinks in a leak proof, resealable container in the cooler. After lunch, repack the cooler with non-perishables to fill it up.

Family-sized bags of chips and snacks save money over lunch-size bags and also cut down on your trash. Offering a small snack every hour or two will prevent boredom during long car trips. Offer a snack before your children announce that they're hungry!

Some snacks are better than others in the care-fresh and dried fruit, cheese and soft cookies are fairly easy for little hands to manage without making a mess. For more information of food safety on the road or other food handling questions, call your local extension office or USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline, 1-800-535-4555 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays Eastern Time.

PASKA
(Easter Bread)

Basic Dough:
- ¼ pound butter
- 2 cups milk, boiling point
- 1-ounce yeast cake
- ½ cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup warm water
- 8 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons salt

Cheese Dough:
- 1 pound dry cottage cheese
- ½ cup milk
- 1-ounce yeast cake
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup raisins
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 tablespoon lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 3 cups flour, sifted

Basic Dough: Dissolve yeast in ½ cup warm water and 1 tablespoon sugar. Set aside. Pour boiling milk over remaining sugar and butter. Add remaining ½ cup warm water. Cool to lukewarm. Sift flour in large bowl, add eggs, salt, milk mixture, and yeast. Knead dough until elastic. Cover. Let rise until doubled in size in a warm place for approximately two hours.

Cheese Dough: Dissolve yeast in ½ cup warm milk and 1 tablespoon sugar. Set aside until foamy for about 5 minutes. In a large bowl, mix cottage cheese, raisins, and yeast mixture. Add egg yolks, remaining sugar, lemon rind, baking soda, salt, and flour and knead well. Cover. Let rise until doubled in size in a warm place for approximately two hours.

When basic dough has doubled in size, turn out onto a lightly floured board divide into four parts. Let dough rest for 15 minutes covered. Take one part of basic dough and lightly punch down and stretch to length of a bread pan on floured surface. Take ¼ of cheese dough filling and place in center of basic dough. Join edges of basic dough to completely cover the cheese dough.

Place in a bread pan joined edge side down on the bottom of the pan. Cover and let rise 30 minutes. Brush egg yolk on top of dough just before placing in the oven. Bake 50 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes four loaves Paska bread.

If unable to find dry cottage cheese, drain liquid from regular cottage cheese. Large or small curd cottage cheese works well with this recipe, although large curd cottage cheese is preferred.

We recently moved from our farm in Aberdeen, Maryland to a farm on Eastern Shore in Millington, Md. This move was my husband's dream upon retiring from teaching, coaching football, and operating a small trucking company. We live in a log home that we are still working on. I am a special educator who enjoys gardening, canning, making jelly, crafts, and stained glass.

Our son, Scott, graduated from Salisbury University in December with a degree in information management systems and is working full time. Our daughter, Traci, is a senior at the at the University of Maryland Baltimore County majoring in psychology. My parents are lifelong residents of Johnstown, Cambria County.

CHOCOLATE GOAT MILK FUDGE

- ⅓ cup cocoa
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ¾ cup fresh goat milk
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in saucepan over medium heat, add milk, cocoa, sugar, and corn syrup. Stir until sugar dissolves, boil gently for about 15 minutes (220 degrees). Stir frequently. Remove from heat and stir in 2 tablespoons butter and cool until lukewarm (110 degrees) without stirring. Add vanilla, beat vigorously until fudge becomes thick and loses its gloss. Quickly spread into buttered 8x8-inch pan. Let set until firm.

If peanut butter fudge is desired, add ½ cup peanut butter with 2 tablespoons butter.

We started raising Nigerian Dwarf goats about 3 years ago. I love their little size and exceptional milk production. I use the milk primarily for my goat milk business and for raising whitetail deer fawns. My husband, Ed, and I have been married 17 years and have five children, ages 16, 14, 9, and 6-year-old twins.

DELICIOUS PIZZA

- 1 package dry yeast (1 tablespoon)
- 1⅓ cups lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 3½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 6-ounce can tomato paste
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 8-ounce mozzarella cheese, shredded

Dissolve yeast in water; add oil. Combine flour and salt, add yeast mixture. Mix until well blended. On a floured surface, knead dough until smooth, about 10 minutes. Place dough in a greased bowl; cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk, about 2 hours. Punch down, divide dough in half. Roll each half to fit a lightly greased 14-inch pan.

Sauce: Combine tomato sauce, tomato paste, oregano, and salt; mix well. Spread ½ of mixture on each pizza crust. Sprinkle with cheese. Add other toppings you prefer. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. 16 servings.

This is a recipe we found in our elementary school cookbook, and it has been a favorite every since. This is a great recipe to use real cheese anytime of the year. Another plus for our family is that the dough can be rising while we are doing the evening milking.

CHICKEN ENCHILADAS

- 4 cups cooked chicken, cubed
- 16-ounces cream cheese, softened
- 1 large bunch green onions, chopped
- 8-ounces chopped green chilies, do not drain
- 2 tablespoons cilantro
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- ¼ cup butter
- 10-ounce can enchilada sauce
- 10 8-inch flour tortillas
- 1½ cups shredded Mexican blend cheese
- Non-stick cooking spray

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Using large skillet, melt butter. Add chopped green onions and green chilies. Cook 5 minutes or until tender. Add cream cheese and allow to melt; stir frequently. Add cilantro and cumin. Once cream cheese is melted and well blended, add chicken and mix well. Remove from heat. Warm tortillas in microwave for one minute.

Spray 13x9-inch dish with non-stick spray. Place large tablespoonful of mixture onto one end of tortilla and roll. Place seamside down into baking dish. Repeat with remaining tortillas. Pour enchilada sauce over enchiladas and spread evenly. Top with Mexican cheese. Bake for 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and bubbly.

This has been a favorite recipe for both family and friends. It is a great way to use leftover chicken or turkey. The enchiladas refrigerate well and taste great cold too. I usually bake them on the weekend for a family gathering.

We live on a small farm in Clearville and raise beef cattle. Hunter will be 6 in July and Emily is 2. Both Hunter and Emily love all the animals we have on the farm. They especially like to feed the cows and dogs, and they have become very good at helping round up the cows that happen to get out and roam. They both love horses and are hoping Daddy gets them one soon.

My husband, Terry, works the farm through the week and works a three-day weekend at the Wal-Mart Distribution Center. I am a registered nurse and work in Cumberland, Maryland as an infusion specialist. Although maintaining the farm gets hectic at times, it is a pure joy to have. In fact, we all feel that we have a little piece of heaven right here on Piney Creek Farm.

COMPANY POTATOES

- 1 package frozen hash browns
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- ⅓ cup butter
- 1 can cream of chicken soup
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup cheddar cheese

Put hash browns in 9x13-inch pan. Melt butter and drizzle over hash browns. Heat soup and sour cream together and pour over potatoes. Fork in mixture. Spread cheese on top.

Note: Crushed cornflakes may also be put on top. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

I live on small farm in Felton. My husband and I just celebrated our 25th anniversary. We have three children and 5 grandchildren. We raise boer goats, cattle, sheep, and chickens, and have 2 quarterhorses.

We have a large vegetable garden. We call ourselves "homesteaders" because just about everything we eat, we raise ourselves.

I enjoy your paper and all the recipes, and, of course, Mailbox Markets. Hope everyone enjoys the company potatoes.

BANANA CREAM DESSERT

- ½ cup butter
- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup chopped pecans, divided
- 8-ounces cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar, sifted
- 12-ounces frozen whipped cream topping
- 3½-ounce flaked coconut
- 2 small packages instant vanilla pudding
- 3 cups cold milk
- 3 bananas or fresh strawberries

Cut butter into flour until mix resembles course meal, stir in ½ pecans. Press mixture into 9x13-inch pan. Bake 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Let cool completely.

Combine cream cheese and powdered sugar, beat until fluffy. Stir in one cup whipped topping. Spread over crust. Sprinkle with coconut.

Combine pudding mix and milk. Beat 2 minutes with medium speed. Spread over coconut layer and top with fruit. Spread remaining whipped topping. Garnish with fruit and nuts. Refrigerate. Eat! Eat! Eat!

This recipe has been a favorite dessert of my family — great when made with fresh strawberries. I always read my mom's recipes found in the Lancaster Farming. I love to try new recipes on my family!

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, chopped
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 egg
2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1 package crescent rolls
Paprika

Brown ground beef with onion, green pepper, and garlic. Add salt, pepper, and tomato sauce; simmer five minutes. While simmering, prepare crust by spraying a 9-inch pie plate with cooking spray and lining it with crescent rolls, separated and placed to cover bottom and sides. Combine egg and one cup cheese, pour on top of the crescent rolls. Place ground beef mixture on top and cover with additional cup of cheese. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a 350-degree preheated oven for 20-25 minutes.

I'm a farm wife and mother of 5-year-old Sydney and 18-month-old twins Amelia Faith and Ann Grace. We are looking forward to beginning home schooling with Sydney in August.

My husband Sam and his father raise beef cattle, bred heifers, hay and corn as well as work off the farm jobs. Summer is a very busy time for our family.

We have a large garden as I enjoy canning and freezing as much of our food as possible along with our own beef. I love to cook and this recipe is one of our favorites that even the twins are already enjoying.

We are thankful to God for our many blessings, to be able to raise our family on a farm and for me to be home with our children.

PEANUT BUTTER PUDDINGWICHES

1½ cups peanut butter, divided
3 cups cold milk, divided
1 small package instant chocolate pudding mix
2 cups whipped cream topping, divided
1 small package instant vanilla pudding mix
32 whole graham crackers

Line two 13x9x2-inch pans with foil. Set aside. In a mixing bowl, combine ¼ cup peanut butter and 1½ cups milk until smooth.

Slowly beat in chocolate pudding mix until blended; fold in 1 cup whipped topping. Pour into one prepared pan. Freeze until firm. Repeat with vanilla pudding and remaining peanut butter, milk, and whipped topping. Freeze until firm.

Break or cut graham crackers into squares. Cut frozen pudding mixture into 32 squares, about 2½x2¼-inches. Place each square between two crackers.

Wrap in plastic wrap. Freeze overnight. Yields: 32 sandwiches.

You'll love the homemade taste and goodness of these peanut buttery pudding treats if you like frozen ice cream sandwiches. I keep them on hand for my 15 grandchildren.

SLOW-COOKED BUTTERY HAM

5-pounds boneless smoked ham
1½ cups water
1½ cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Slice ham in ½-inch slices and cut slices in half. Layer in large crockpot. Melt butter over medium heat until browned. Add remaining ingredients, pour over ham. Cook on low 6-8 hours or on high 3-4 hours. Simple and delicious!

This recipe has lots of variations. I like to add chopped onions and substitute chicken or turkey for the ham. I double the sauce ingredients for larger portions of meat and bake in a slow oven.

We have three children: twins, Janelle and Jolene, 21 months, and Jaron, 3 months.

QUICK STICKY BUNS

3 10-ounce cans buttermilk biscuit dough
2 cups granulated sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Mix sugar and cinnamon. Cut biscuits in half. Roll or shake biscuits in sugar and cinnamon mixture. In a saucepan, make a syrup of the following:

¾ cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter
¼ cup water

Bring syrup to a boil. Pour into a 9x13-inch baking pan. Arrange biscuits on top of syrup. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

These are a great hit wherever we go!

SINGLE SERVING CHEESECAKES

30 vanilla wafers
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup sour cream
1½ cups sugar
⅓ cup baking cocoa
2 tablespoons flour
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place one wafer in bottom of paper-lined cupcake tin. Beat together cream cheese and sour cream. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Fill each cup almost full with cheese mixture. Bake in 350 degree oven 15-20 minutes or until just set. Remove from oven and chill completely. Before serving, garnish with heaping tablespoon of cherry pie filling and plenty of sweetened whipped cream. These are so delicious, they won't serve more than 12 people.

We are dairy farmers who enjoy our occupation. There are ups and downs, but who else gets to see all the sunrises and sunsets while they are working?

ARDELL'S POTATO FILLING

1 cup celery, diced
1 cup onions, diced
½ pound butter
6 eggs, beaten
1 quart milk
1 quart mashed potatoes
1 teaspoon salt and pepper
2 large loaves bread cubes
2 pieces saffron
1 cup boiling water
Parsley to taste

Cook together onions and celery. Pour over bread cubes and mix. Add remaining ingredients. Mixture may be moist. Add more milk if needed. Grease casserole dish and fill with mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Makes four casseroles and can be frozen.

This is a recipe from my mother-in-law Ardell Bausher, who passed away July 2001. I have used this recipe for 15 years.

My husband Lonnie Will is a milk tester for PADHIA/Dairy One for Lebanon, Berks, and Schuylkill counties. I'm a secretary for Penn State Lebanon County Extension office, but on maternity leave until September. Our children include Drew, 11; Danielle, 10; Emily 15 months; and Doris, 2 months.

8-INCH HOT MILK SPONGE CAKE

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter

With electric mixer on high, beat together eggs until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add sugar, beating constantly at medium speed, 4 to 5 minutes. By hand, fold in dry ingredients. Heat ½ cup milk and butter until hot. Stir by hand with slotted spoon into above mixture. Stir in 1½ teaspoon vanilla.

Pour batter into 8x8x2-inch baking pan, sprayed with nonstick cooking spray. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Enjoy!

We have made this recipe and topped it with sliced strawberries and whipped cream topping for a wonderful dessert for as long as I can remember.

My four granddaughters keep me hopping!

I love to read the recipes in Section B every week and have tried many of them.

ANSWER — A Pine Grove reader wanted recipes for different coatings for chicken and vegetables for deep frying. Thanks to Melba Sheffer, Glen Rock, who writes that her family enjoys this chicken recipe better than deep fried ones.

Cornmeal & Herb Coating For Chicken

1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup powdered milk
1 cup flour
3 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon dried thyme
1 tablespoon pepper
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon oregano

Combine bread crumbs, cornmeal, powdered milk, and flour. Add salt, thyme, pepper, garlic salt, celery salt, onion salt, and oregano. Mix together well.

For one chicken, place 1 cup of mixture in plastic bag, add cut-up chicken pieces, one or two pieces at a time, shake until coated. Place in pan sprayed with vegetable spray. Bake one hour at 350 degrees or until tender. During the last 15 minutes, turn each piece to brown evenly.

ANSWER — Martha Weaver, East Earl, recommends the following cookbooks for easy dessert recipes without expensive ingredients: "Mennonite Cookbook," "Amish Cooking," and "Basic and More Cookbook."

ANSWER — In response to the request for good soup recipes, here is one from Debbie Button, Jarrettsville, Md. She writes that she sometimes makes the soup the day before serving it. It gets better with time.

Lentil Soup

3 carrots, peeled, roughly diced
3 stalks celery, roughly diced
1 large onion, roughly diced
2 cloves garlic, chopped (use garlic powder if you don't have fresh)

Saute the above ingredients in small amount of oil in a large kettle.

Add the following:

Hambone or any amount of ham desired (bite-sized pieces)
15-ounce can diced or stewed tomatoes
1 envelope Lipton Onion Soup Mix
2 bay leaves
½ teaspoon Old Bay seasoning
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning

Cold water to cover ingredients by one inch

Bring mixture to a boil. Turn down heat and simmer one hour. Add:

½ pound dried lentil beans, sorted, rinsed

Put lentils in saucepan and cover with enough water to have an extra 2 inches. Bring to a boil. Cover and remove from heat. Let set about 30 minutes. Drain lentil beans and add to soup pot. Add:

5-6 small potatoes, peeled, washed, diced

Add potatoes to soup. Salt and pepper to taste. Simmer on low heat for at least another hour.

Congo Squares

1 box dark brown sugar
¾ cup butter
2¾ cups flour
6-ounces chocolate chips
3 eggs
Dash salt
2½ teaspoons baking powder
Chopped nuts, optional

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 13x9x2-inch pan.

Melt butter. Stir in brown sugar. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs with wire whisk. Add dry ingredients. Stir in chocolate chips. Bake 20-25 minutes or until done.

Crisp-Like Cobbler

1½ cups flour
1 cup sugar
Cinnamon or nutmeg (depending on fruit)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together all ingredients. Put fruit in bottom of 13x9x2-inch pan (fresh, frozen or canned). Crumble flour mixture over top. Melt ¼ cup butter. Drizzle over top. Bake 50-60 minutes.

Cake-Like Cobbler

1¾ cups sugar
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup butter
4 cups fruit

Mix together ¾ cup sugar with fruit. Let stand 20 minutes. Mix remainder of sugar, flour, and baking powder. Add milk and mix well. Melt butter in 13x9x2-inch pan. Add batter. Top with fruit mixture. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Refrigerator Eclair

Graham crackers
8-ounces whipped cream topping
2 small packages instant vanilla pudding

Prepare pudding using 3 cups milk instead of 4. After mixture is slightly set, stir in container of whipped cream topping. In 13x9x2-inch dish, layer graham crackers, pudding, crackers, pudding, and crackers.

Icing:

⅓ cup baking cocoa
1 cup sugar
¼ cup evaporated milk

Mix together in a saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cool one minute. Add 1 stick butter and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix well and pour over top layer of crackers to cover. Refrigerate overnight.

ANSWER — A subscriber requested a recipe for making a tasty apple pie spice from a combination of spices. Thanks to Leah Glick, Denver, for sending a recipe that makes one teaspoon.

Apple Pie Spice

½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon cardamom

ANSWER — Audrey Brown, Connellsville, wrote that her doctor put her on a fructose/sucrose-free diet. She is not allowed to eat anything with sugar, barley flour, brown rice, wheat germ, coldcuts, fruits, etc. She cannot find recipes for food that tastes good and makes a one-to-two person serving and asked for help. Thanks to Jane Stankywicz, Oxford, who writes that Audrey's request sounds as if she is on an anti-candidiasis diet. Jane writes that she is one who knows the frustration of this diet. Jane recommends stevia as a non-nutritive sweetener, which does not feed yeast. For information about Candida, the following books and stevia can be found in health food stores. "The Yeast Connection," "The Yeast Connection Handbook," both written by William Croak, M.D., and Marjorie Hurt Jones, R.N. The book includes recipes as well as lots of helpful information. Jane also writes that "The Yeast Connection and the Woman" by Dr. Croak is a must read.

ANSWER — Stephanie Luckenbaugh, Abbottstown, requested the recipe for switzel, a thirst-quenching drink. Thanks to a reader for the following recipe, although the spelling is a bit different, it is probably the right recipe because it says that nothing quenched thirst or cooled a dusty throat in haying times so well as this homey drink. It's said to be a good energy restorer according to "Putting Food By" compiled by Ruth Hertzberg, Beatrice Vaugh, and Janet Greene.

Hay-Time Switchel

1 cup light brown sugar (raw)
1 cup apple cider vinegar
½ cup light molasses
1 tablespoon ground ginger
1 quart cold water

Combine ingredients and stir well. Makes about six 7-ounce glasses.

Mixture can be refrigerated, but old-timers like it made with cold, cold spring water.

Agriculture Secretary Promotes Summer Food Safety

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — With the official start of summer just two weeks away, Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes is encouraging Pennsylvanians to be safe when it comes to handling and storing food during picnics and barbecues.

Food-safety tips follow:

Before starting any food preparation, always wash hands in warm, soapy water for at least 20 seconds. If a clean water source is not available for hand washing, remember to pack disposable towelettes or antibacterial hand gel;

When ice starts to melt, put more into the cooler. When in doubt, throw it out. Always separate raw foods from ready-to-eat foods to prevent cross-contamination.

When grilling, use a food thermometer.For more information about summer food safety, contact Bobby McLean at the PDA's Bureau of Food Safety at (717) 772-3237, or visit the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword: "food safety."

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

With a sharp stab of the knife, the blade pierced the skin of the victim.

Wait, don't scream. The victim didn't. It emitted a soft splitting sound, generating from me an "aahh" of anticipation.

The "victim" was our first purchased watermelon of the season, one hauled home just an hour earlier along with assorted groceries acquired on a stock-up mission. Numerous gardening books I've read suggest gauging the ripeness of homegrown melons by checking the small, curly-wire-like appendages that sprout from the vine near the base of the melon stem. When the closest one to the melon is drying up, the melon is ripe.

It's proven to be a pretty good indicator of our homegrown melons over the years. But when you're stalking the perfect melon from all those hunkered way down in those large cardboard corrals that have sprouted up in supermarket produce aisles in recent years, there is no vine curly-cue indicator to go by. Instead, one must place the selection on the market floor and start thumping with the fist, as if to see if anyone is home inside.

This particular melon had answered the knock with a fairly hollow sound, indicating ripeness. But no matter how the melon sounds, a better indication of ripeness is splitting when it is cut into — and of course, the color of the skin. Behind the rind split on our first of the season was a deep red flesh.

A winner. And so early in the season.

It brought to mind a ripped-edge quote, torn from a calendar, hanging beside the computer. The quote it bore was from the writings of Henry David Thoreau: "I love best to have each thing in its season, doing without it at all other times."

Well, "mebbe."

If we were to buy our fresh produce on that Thoreau-theory, modern markets — from downtown farmers' markets to uptown supercenters — would have a whole different look. Having our favorite fresh fruits and vegetables, both in and out of season, is something we pretty much take for granted.

Try to grow a watermelon around here that is ripe by early June. And, good luck. Even starting plants under glass and over heat would not likely get you a locally-grown, large, striped, ripe watermelon by the first of June. So even though it wasn't in season, it was a delicious treat.

A few weeks earlier, boxes of giant strawberries had caught my eye on another market run. Usually, I pass on shipped berries, since they often have the taste and texture of stones While better than none, those still weren't even close to the fragrant, delicious local berries which turned up on our kitchen counter earlier this week, a gift of our daughter

Maybe Thoreau had been eating homegrown strawberries when he penned that thought.

Ditto for peaches. And tomatoes, though the taste of shipped ones are vastly improved. A couple of them purchased recently and left in the fruit basket on the counter to ripen more actually looked and cut like tomatoes. Maybe Thoreau grew his own tomatoes, too.

On the other hand, apples, pears, grapes, veggies like radishes, cucumbers, broccoli, cauliflower, are almost as good year-round as in "season." In fact, radishes, broccoli and cauliflower inevitably go "buggy" in our garden. It didn't take many seasons of finding tiny worms in our intended lunch veggies to let someone else grow them.

Can you envision going through a winter without oranges, grapefruits, tangerines, fresh pineapple? None of those are ever in season around here. These wonderful fresh foods were once expensive rarities; we expect them to be available if we have a yen, year-round. Thus, we can serve fresh watermelon for New Year and tomatoes for Valentine's Day.

Today, what's in season around the world is available to us. Vastly improved shipping and storage of fresh produce has truly revolutionized the way we eat, from year-round salads to dead-of-winter — or early June — watermelons. Its also introduced us to foods from around the world that our ancestors never imagined, like kiwi fruits and papayas.

Wonder what Thoreau might have thought about those funny looking "ugli" fruits?

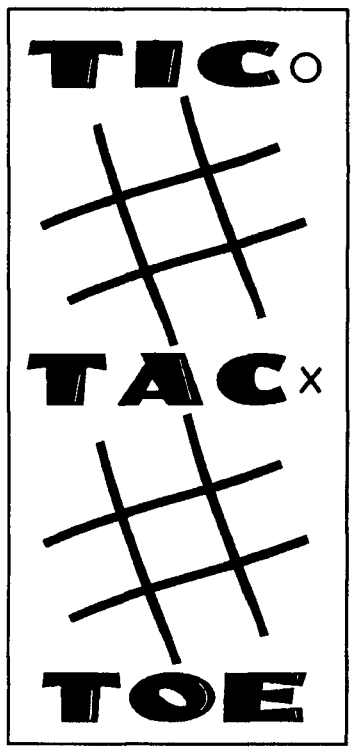
Kids Korner



Make Space Mud

Children love to create space mud and then pinch, pound, squish and mold this dough. It has a consistency similar to Silly Putty and can be stored in an airtight container for several days.

2 teaspoons borax
1 cup cornstarch
1 cup warm water
2 cups white glue
Few drops food coloring (optional)

Combine the borax, water and food coloring in a small bowl. Combine the cornstarch and glue in a larger bowl. Add the contents of the smaller bowl to the larger bowl. Stir constantly for 2 minutes. Knead until not sticky.

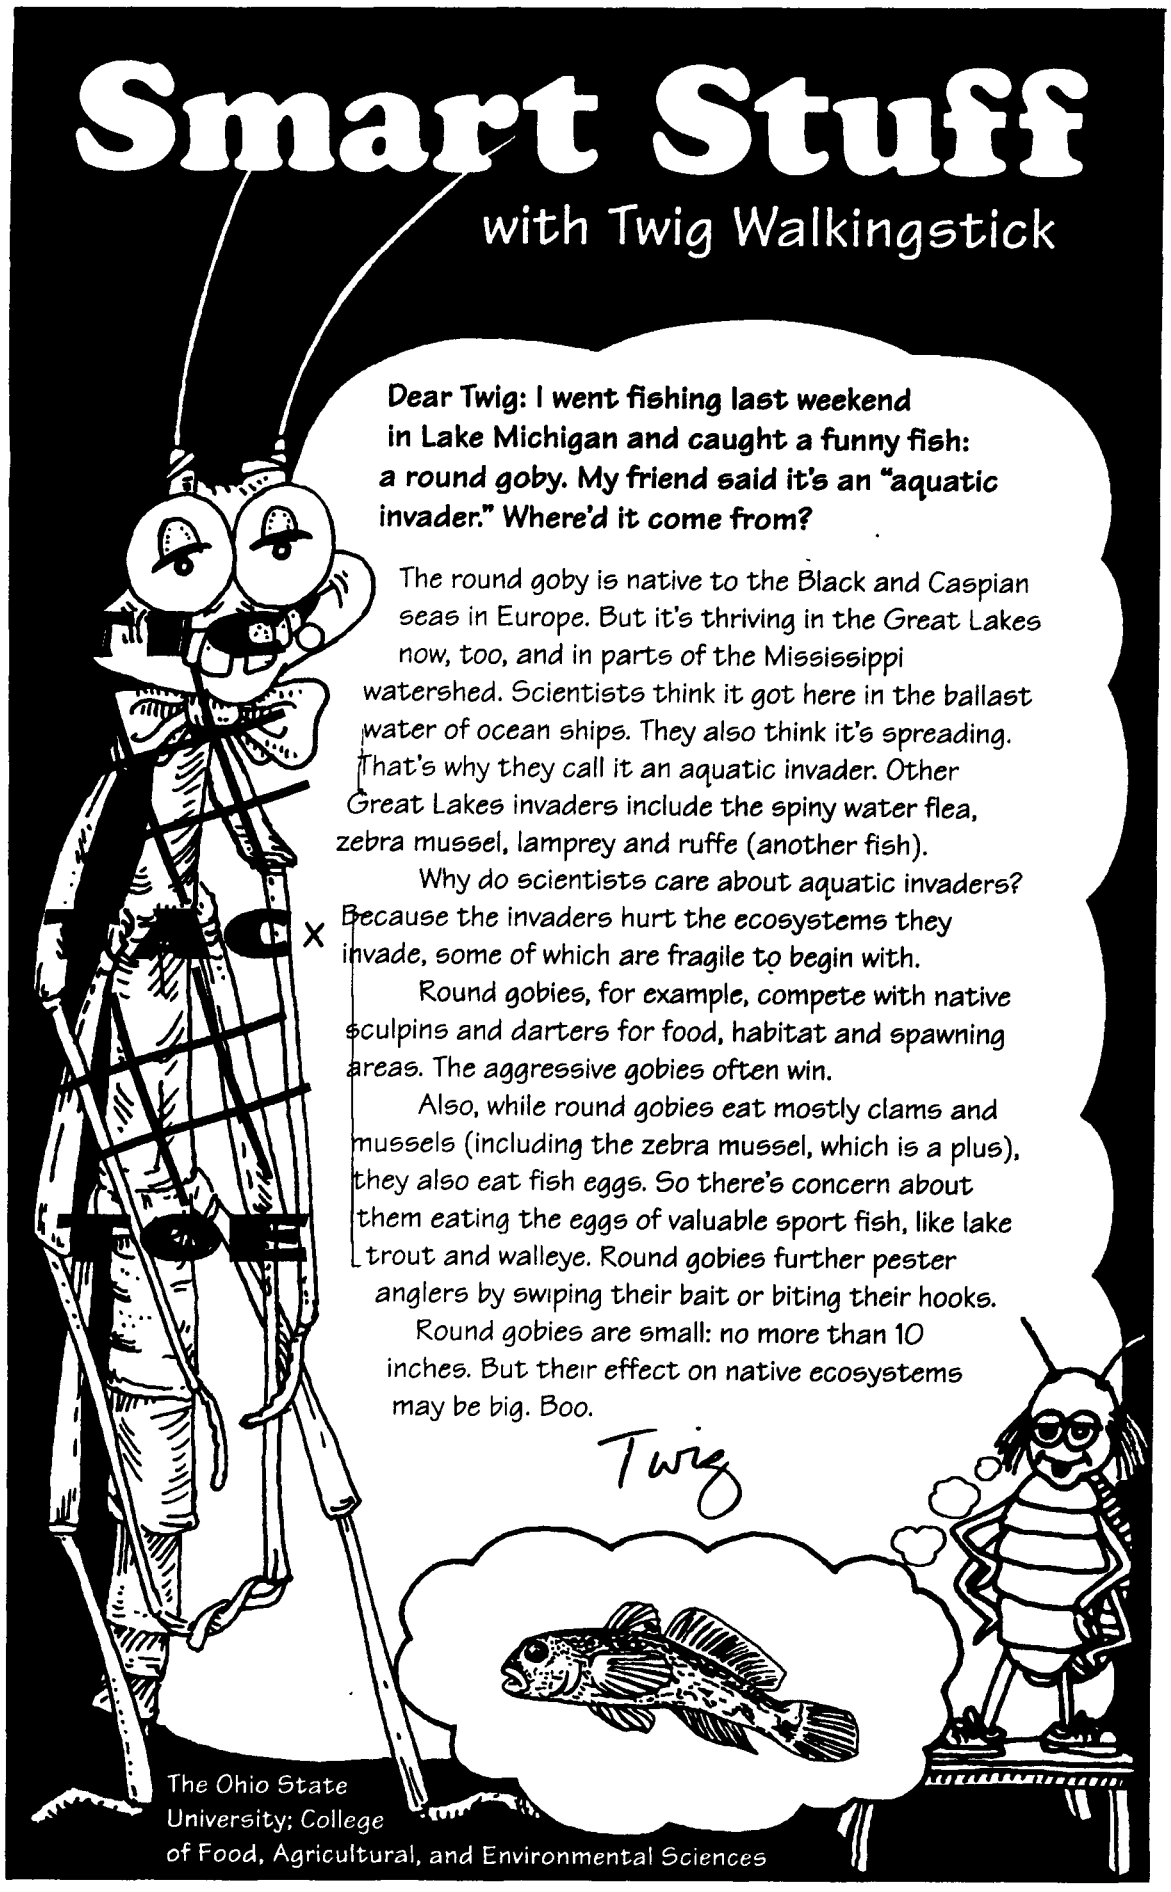
Smart Stuff

with Twig Walkingstick



Dear Twig: I went fishing last weekend in Lake Michigan and caught a funny fish: a round goby. My friend said it's an "aquatic invader." Where'd it come from?
The round goby is native to the Black and Caspian seas in Europe. But it's thriving in the Great Lakes now, too, and in parts of the Mississippi watershed. Scientists think it got here in the ballast water of ocean ships. They also think it's spreading. That's why they call it an aquatic invader. Other Great Lakes invaders include the spiny water flea, zebra mussel, lamprey and ruffe (another fish).
Why do scientists care about aquatic invaders? Because the invaders hurt the ecosystems they invade, some of which are fragile to begin with.
Round gobies, for example, compete with native sculpins and darters for food, habitat and spawning areas. The aggressive gobies often win.
Also, while round gobies eat mostly clams and mussels (including the zebra mussel, which is a plus), they also eat fish eggs. So there's concern about them eating the eggs of valuable sport fish, like lake trout and walleye. Round gobies further pester anglers by swiping their bait or biting their hooks.
Round gobies are small: no more than 10 inches. But their effect on native ecosystems may be big. Boo.

PLAY IT SAFE WITH SKATEBOARDS!

Irregular riding surfaces, poor skateboard maintenance and the lack of correct protective equipment are just a few of the things that lead to accidents with skateboards. According to the U.S Consumer Product Safety Commission, about 26,000 people are treated at hospitals for skateboard-related injuries each year.

More than half the falls while skateboarding can be blamed on irregular surfaces It is important that you check surfaces for holes, bumps, rocks and debris before you use them The best place to skateboard is in an area set aside specifically for skateboarding; they generally have smoother surfaces, and you don't run the risk of colliding with car

Before using your skateboard, check it for loose, broken or cracked parts, sharp edges on metal boards; slippery top surface and wheels that have nicks or cracks See a professional for the repair of serious defects

Protective gear is available to help absorb the impact of a fall Be sure you consider the comfort, design and function of protective gear before you buy it, you do not want it to interfere with your movement, vision or hearing.

Follow these guidelines for safer skateboarding:

- Do not ride in the street.
- Do not take chances
- Complicated tricks require careful practice in areas specially designed for skateboarding
- Only one person should ride a skateboard
- Never hitch a ride from a car, bus, truck or bicycle

If you do fall, try to land on fleshy parts of your body and try to roll rather than landing on your arms Most importantly, don't stiffen up—try to relax, even though that may be hard.

Plants That Eat Animals?

Yes, there are such plants Carnivorous plants capture and digest animals. Usually the animals they capture and eat are insects, but some species capture slugs, small frogs and birds These plants trap the animals with pitfalls, "lobster traps," adhesive traps and various kinds of mechanical traps.

Pitfalls consist of tubular leaves in flowering plants that are filled with water Insects are captured when they fall into the fluid, which often contains digestive enzymes. Lobster pots also have tubular leaves, but many times the tube is horizontal and lined with hairs that guide the prey along a path leading to the digestive part of the trap.

Adhesive traps have sticky surfaces. Flying insects are trapped when they stick to slime secreted by hairs covering the leaf Some plants even have leaves that move the prey to the center and wrap around it.

There are a variety of mechanical traps For instance, in the Venus' flytrap, the prey is trapped by a rapid closure of a set of lobes when the animal touches sensory hairs That action takes place in less than a second because of a growth in acid in the lobes. Suction traps work like a mouse trap The prey trips a lever on the plant "door," which allows water and the prey to be sucked into the trap when the plant's side puffs out. In one type of plant, a snare trap looks like a small lasso with three segments around the loop When triggered, the segments bulge out to capture a worm The fungus then grows into the prey and digests it

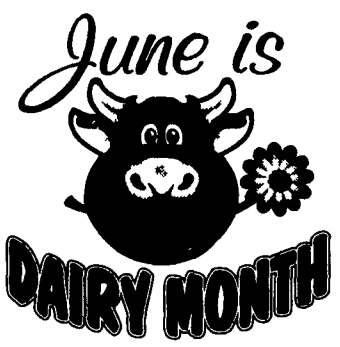
Sullivan County To Celebrate Dairy Month

DUSHORE (Sullivan Co.) — Dairy farmers and other county residents will gather in Dushore, June 15, to celebrate June Dairy Month.

The theme for this year's celebration is "Milk USA - United We Stand," chosen to highlight both dairy products and patriotism. The celebration begins with a parade at 7 p.m., followed by the crowning of the dairy princess. Prizes will also be awarded to winners in the fifth grade poster contest.

The celebration will continue with a goat milking contest sponsored by the Lions Club as well as other weekend activities sponsored by the Dushore Fire Company.

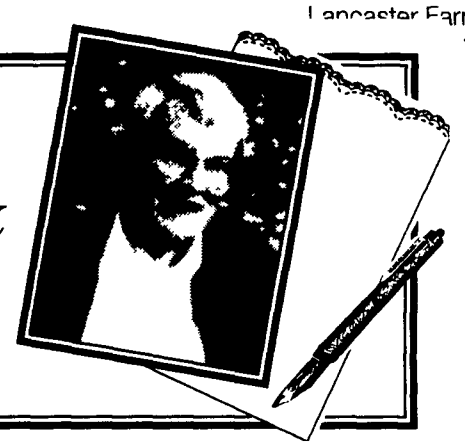
Dairy festival coordinators welcome all individuals to attend this year's event. Those wishing to participate in the parade should contact Sullivan County Extension Agent Rick Smith (570) 928-8941.



Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



Time changes everything. It changes the way we feel about things and it certainly changes the way we look.

My high school class has been getting together for lunch every other month for the past few years. There were some 70 in our class, but we only knew a few of these classmates. Now that there are only some 30 remaining, we are all good friends. No longer does it matter if you live on a farm or in a big house in the suburbs. The social standing has seemingly leveled and we are all one.

We choose different restaurants and have a private dining area. When the waitress sees us coming with canes and walkers, she knows where to direct us. Most are simply glad that they can get out of the house and socialize. Gradually the members are moving to retirement communities. Some of our classmates gave their lives during World War II.

By this time, many members have children who are middle-aged. And they not only have grandchildren but great-grandchildren. My husband will have his 67th high school reunion this month. Naturally there are fewer attending each year, but they are always glad to see each other.

I've bought some flower plants and looked for others that I could not find. And, it isn't that there wasn't a large variety to choose from at several stores. In fact, I don't know when I've seen so many flower plants.

Many of mine will be blooming later in the summer as I plant quite a few seeds. Sometimes I have to replant as rain washes too much soil on them and then they don't come up. I like to try different kinds and be surprised at what blooms in my flower beds.

Pennsylvania Streams and Lakes

Stream MAP of Pennsylvania

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well--until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Why every paddler needs this map

Pennsylvania is loaded with great paddling waters. This new edition of the famous Pennsylvania Stream Map highlights navigable streams and rivers and shows the degree of difficulty (highest letter/number the most difficult), access points, dams and waterfalls.

Professor Higbee's® Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind.

This 3-foot-by-5-foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus lakes.

Young Couple Tackle Dairy Farming With Enthusiasm

"The cows are crammed in tight now, so that number may increase when the new setup is completed."

With overcrowding, Smoker said the only choice was to sell cows or build a new barn.

"We worked so hard to raise these, we didn't want to sell," his wife said.

Smoker said he won't milk three times daily or push for really high production. "I think cows are often pushed too much. You need to reach a certain level (of production), but some (farmers) go the extreme. The cows might be making more milk but I doubt they are making more money. I think a 70-pound average is where we do best with cash flow."

Five-month-old Danielle adapts to farm life with gusto.

"These are my pets," Danielle said of the cows that eagerly line up when they see her coming.

The cows are let out daily for exercise, which is really necessary during this time when the barn is overcrowded.

The Smokers begin milking at 4:30 a.m. Danielle handles most of the milking duties and Shawn the feeding.

"I wasn't a morning person before (moving on the farm), but I am now," Danielle said. Within three months of her birth, Lauren fits easily into the milking schedule. She sleeps through the morning milking, then stays awake until the 3:30 p.m. milking.

In the barn, Lauren is placed in a baby seat in a wagon. The wagon is easily pulled from place to place. The steady pulsating sound of the milking machine puts her quickly to sleep.

This time of the year, with fieldwork in addition to milking cows, makes it difficult to maintain the yard and the numerous flower beds surrounding the attractive brick farmhouse.

"The yardwork is suffering the most, but I think I'm managing pretty good," Danielle said. "I love planting flowers and I'm learning to be a gardener. I prefer milking cows to housework."

She is proud that she can run the chopper and back up the wagons during foraging duties.

The one thing Danielle misses is riding her horse, which remains on her family's farm. "We don't have room for my horse here, but we will sometime," Danielle said.

Danielle helps with the county's dairy princess promotion and with ag education. Last year the Smokers hosted an ag education tour on their farm.

"Preparing for the tour was a lot of work. We did a lot of painting. This year we are just serving as tour guides," Danielle said.

Smoker is the sixth generation to live on the family farm. He hopes Lauren will want to take over the farm someday.

"When I was a kid, being grounded met I couldn't go to the barn. That was the worst punishment possible for me," Smoker said. "I made sure that didn't happen often. Farming is all I ever wanted to do."

OMESTEAD OTES

This freestall barn should be finished by July and will expand the crammed conditions of the growing herd.

Phillips To Promote Berks County Dairy Industry

Bethel has a twin brother Andrew and a sister Ann. Vicki currently attends Tulpehocken High School where she is a junior and also attends vo-tech for cosmetology. In school, Vicki is a majorette in the band front. Vicki likes to collect Pooh Bear items and she also likes to have fun with family and friends. She was also a previous Berks County dairy ambassador. Vicki also helps out on her family's farm, where they milk 76 Holsteins.

During the pageant, all of the girls provided entertainment by performing their skits. Becky portrayed a waitress named Mary Moo. She served a customer a very dairy meal consisting of chocolate milk, macaroni and cheese, and pudding with real whipped cream.

Then it was Vicki's turn. She entertained the crowd with Pooh Bear as her sidekick. The two of them talked back and forth about all types of dairy products and then Pooh Bear became the Real Seal Bear.

Kellie followed Vicki by playing the part of a doctor named Dr. Milk Bone. Here she was a doctor that was going to see patients that ranged from an infant to an adult with osteoporosis.

Following the entertainment, it was time to meet the five li'l miss contestants. They were, Jessica Duncan, the 5-year-old daughter of Donald and Loretta Duncan of Robesonia; Lindsay Fessler the 6-year-old daughter of Mark and Leslie Fessler of Womelsdorf; Laura Lesher the 6-year-old daughter of William and Lolly Lesher of Bernville; Jenna Sattazahn the 6-year-old daughter of Kevin and Sherri Sattazahn of Womelsdorf; and Morgan Stump the 5-year-old daughter of Duane and Victoria Stump of Bernville. Each of the five contestants brought something along with them to talk to the emcee about.

After meeting the li'l miss contestants, it was time for the three princess candidates to answer the impromptu question. The question was, "What color best describes your personality and why?"

Becky answered by saying her favorite color green. Green reminded of nature and the green grass in the springtime.

Vicki's answer was yellow. Everyone tells her that she is so cheery and fun to be around, so she chose yellow.

Kellie said her color would be purple. She chose purple because it is a bright color but it still shows its timidness and that it is also shady.

As the pageant was coming to a close, Angela Davis, chairman of the Berks County dairy princess committee, thanked Kristen Gross and Caitlyn Pool for all of their hard work promoting the dairy industry this past year.

Caitlyn, the daughter of David and Martha Pool of Robesonia, gave a short speech and said a poem for one last time as the 2001-2002 Berks County li'l miss dairy princess.

Kristen, the daughter of David and Marilyn Gross of Hamburg, also gave her farewell speech, thanking everyone for their support in the past year. To close out her reign, a Power Point presentation of pictures set to music was shown for everyone in attendance to see a glimpse of Kristen's year as the 2001-2002 Berks County dairy princess.

Following the farewells, it was time to announce the 2002-2003 Berks County li'l miss dairy princess was Lindsay Fessler. Lindsay loves to sing and also likes to tap-dance and do ballet. She also likes to play outside on the farm when she and her two brothers aren't helping their parents on their 150-head Holstein farm.

After Lindsay found her seat on the stage, it was time for the announcement of the new dairy princess. The emcee first announced Becky as alternate and then announced Vicki as the other alternate. Then came the official announcement of Kellie Phillips as the new 2002-2003 Berks County dairy princess.

Serving as emcee for the evening was Tammy Weaver of Ephrata. Judges for the pageant were June Leiby of Tamaqua, Andrea Semmel of Schnecksville, and Merle Ranck of Gap. Pianist was Ann Kieffer.

Laura Blauch Is Lebanon County Dairy Princess

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Laura Blauch worked hard for two weeks to arrive at an answer to her own question:

If you tried to get the same daily-recommended amount of calcium from a source other than milk, what would you have to eat?

Well, you could chomp down on about 122 dried apricots. Or swallow nine cups of cooked broccoli. Or put away 60 pounds of brown rice. Or, if you're feeling really ambitious, down 125 glasses of soymilk.

Those couple of weeks of research on her speech, and a bedtime storybook tale geared toward early elementary school kids, brought her the prized Lebanon County Dairy Princess tiara last Saturday evening at the 30th annual Lebanon County Dairy Princess Coronation.

The coronation took place at the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center, with more than 100 family and friends.

Kalene Arnold, 16, daughter of Ken and Deb Arnold, Fredericksburg, was crowned alternate.

After her photo was taken with parents Eric and Connie and brother Chris, Laura spoke about what inspired her to compete for the coveted crown.

The 17-year-old, who will be a senior at Annville Cleona High School, is involved in quiz bowl, chorus, band, key club, Latin Class, and Model U.N. Laura said she was interested in attending Ursinus College in Philadelphia. She wants to study either "history or international relations," she said. Laura said history is "one of my best subjects," with inspiration from her world history teacher, Mrs. Luckridge.

Laura's interests include participating in musical performances, reading, traveling, and showing cattle, particularly fitting and clipping. Laura owns four Brown Swiss and Holstein dairy animals and is involved in the 4-H Dairy Club. Her father is employed at a feed mill.

Laura noted that she worked hard on her dairy princess contest projects, including the "Six Myths About Milk." In this presentation, Laura consulted the Internet for calcium food conversion information. For her skit, Laura dressed in pajamas and told her version of a popular bedtime story, "What Really Happened to the Three Little Pigs?"

In the skit, Laura told the timeless tale of a Big Bad Wolf. The first two little pigs easily fell to the horrible wolf's mighty howl — because one of the pigs drank merely soda, with no healthy vitamins or nutrients. The second was eating only candy.

The wolf had one last breath for the third little pig. The wolf gave a mighty howl, she said, but the third pig always drank fluid milk and ate dairy products, important sources for vitamins and nutrients such as "phosphorus and calcium and vitamin D," she said.

The third pig couldn't be beaten. The vitamins in milk "help bones grow strong," Laura said.

Laura noted, in her presentation, the six "myths" about milk:

1. Milk is high in fat and calories and should be avoided. Wrong. Actually, one 8-ounce glass of skim milk has only 80 calories with zero fat. Three glasses, or 240 calories, is the recommended daily allowance. One plain bagel, in contrast, has 160 calories and a glass of soda can have upward of 200 calories.

2. Only children need to drink milk. False. Milk is for all ages, and bones don't fully mature until the age of 35.

3. Only elderly women get osteoporosis. Incorrect. There are 28 million people who have osteoporosis and one in five are male. After the age of 65, men and women lose bone base tissue at the same rate.

4. If you're lactose intolerant, you shouldn't drink milk. Wrong. There are products that can be prescribed to allow anybody to enjoy milk and dairy products.

5. The only good thing about milk is calcium, and you can get that from supplements or other sources. Not true. The world-famous "wonder drink" has 30 percent of your daily calcium requirement in one glass, but lots of other vitamins and minerals.

6. You don't need milk to get calcium. You can get it from other sources. Incorrect. Laura did the calculations and noted that to get 700 milligrams of calcium, the recommended daily allowance, you would have to eat 9 cups of cooked broccoli, 60 pounds of brown rice, or 125 glasses of soy milk.

During an interview of the contestants, with questions posed by ceremony coordinator Carrie Bomgardner, Laura was asked about what personal attitudes have been changed by the events of Sept. 11?

Laura noted that the horrors of that day "make me appreciate my family. I have an appreciation for what they do for me and what life would be like without them, without my parents and brother around me," she said.

Crowned alternate dairy princess, Kalene Arnold provided a skit about two best friends speaking about the impact that osteoporosis could have on them, and how important it is to drink milk.

Kalene provided a brief lesson to elementary school children about drinking milk, and dairy products we could eat every day, in "What Would We Do Without Milk?" She referred to "milk — earth's perfect drink."

Kalene has two brothers, Kyle and Jeremy. Kalene will be a junior at Northern Lebanon High School, where she is involved in softball, track, and the FFA chapter.

Kalene has been FFA sentinel and serves as the FFA reporter. She is a member of the Northern Lebanon FFA Parliamentary Procedure Team. Some interests include crafts, art, and enjoying FFA activities. Her father is employed as an AI technician.

Kalene, who has accompanied her father Ken on farm visits, wants to be a veterinarian after attending Delaware Valley College or Penn State.

Outgoing Lebanon County Dairy Princess Amy Moyer thanked her family and those who helped her make this a "great year." She was the 2001-2002 Pennsylvania State Alternate Dairy Princess and spoke about the many "good times, even bad times, but in the end, it all worked out."

Selected dairy maid was Jessica Bross, 15, daughter of Dennis and Patricia Bross, Myerstown. She served as a dairy made for the past two years. She will be entering 10th grade at Tulpehocken High School, where she is involved in FFA. She is a member of the NorLebCo 40-H Dairy Club and the Extra Special Puppy Club. She owns dairy cattle.

Sarandon Smith Smith, 6-year-old daughter of Tom and Sondra Smith, Palmyra, is Little Miss. She will be entering the second grade of home schooling. Siblings are Greyson, Liana, and Maya. Sarandon's father Tom is employed by the American Dairy Association and is associated with the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Promotion Services. Sarandon's grandparents raise dairy replacement heifers. She is involved in the Palmyra Church of the Brethern Cherub Choir, Palmyra Homeschool Co-op, and Palmyra Recreational Soccer.

Valerie Zuck, 7, daughter of Jeff and Karen Zuck, Lebanon, is also Little Miss. Valerie will be entering third grade at New Covenant Christian School. Siblings are Amanda, Bradley, and Travis. Valerie's parents own a 100-acre dairy farm where they milk about 75 Holstein cows. Her chores include shoveling up feed and feeding the calves and heifers. Valerie is involved in the Cherub Choir at Midway Church of the Brethern.

Dairy ambassador is Alex Werner, 16, son of Jeff and Sue Werner, Jonestown. Alex will be entering the 11th grade at Northern Lebanon High School, where he is involved in the FFA and track and field. He is also a member of the NorLebCo 4-H Dairy Club, North Mountain 4-H Market Goat Club, Lebanon County 4-H Rabbit Club, and a teen representative to the 4-H County Board of Directors. Alex owns dairy cattle, rabbits, and goats.

Amanda Zuck, dairy maid, is the 12-year-old daughter of Jeff and Karen Zuck, Lebanon. She will be entering seventh grade at New Covenant Christian School, where she is involved with the soccer team. She is a member of the Midway Church of the Brethern, where she sings in the junior choir. Amanda is a member of the Cedar Crest 4-H Dairy Club and 4-H Friends. She owns dairy animals and is involved with her parents' dairy farm.

Pageant judges included Joanne Peifer, Michelle Lentz, and Alicia Gross.

Lancaster Farming editor Andy Andrews was judge of the "Digging Into Dairy" recipe contest. First place went to Chanelle Horst, for her Strawberry Cheesecake Torte; second to Terry Shuey, Lebanon, for her Strawberry Pizza; and third to Jessica Bross, Myerstown, for her Banana Split Sunday Cookie.

Lebanon Has Winning Recipes

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Following are the winning recipes, from first place to third, from the recent Lebanon County Dairy Princess Pageant:

STRAWBERRY CHEESECAKE TORTE

1 16-ounce pound cake mix (plus milk and eggs to make cake)
½ cup water
3 ounces strawberry gelatin
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
⅓ cup cold milk
12 ounces whipped topping
1 3-ounce package cheesecake instant pudding and pie filling
1 kiwi, peeled, sliced, and halved
1 cup strawberries.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line jelly roll pan to 13-inch piece of parchment or wax paper. Prepare cake mix according to package directions using milk and eggs. Pour into pan, spreading evenly. Bake 15-18 minutes. Cool 10 minutes.

Microwave water on high 1-2 minutes or until boiling. Add gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add jam and whisk until smooth. Invert cake onto large cutting board. Remove paper. Prick cake at ½ inch intervals. Brush cake evenly with all but 2 tablespoons of gelatin mixture. Trim ¼ inch around edge of cake. Discard edges. Cut cake into 3 equal layers.

Combine cream cheese and lemon juice and whisk until smooth. Add milk and whisk until smooth. Spoon whipped topping over cream cheese mixture (no not mix). Sprinkle with pudding mix; mix well. Mixture will be very think.

Place one cake layer on large plate. Spread ⅓ of pudding mixture on first layer. Top with second cake layer. Repeat with another ⅓ of pudding mixture. Top with third layer. Spread remaining mixture. (If you have an accent decorator, you can pipe a decorative border around edge.)

Arrange kiwi around perimeter on top of cake. Mix reserved gelatin mixture with strawberries. (If gelatin mixture has set, microwave 5-10 seconds.) Spoon strawberries over top of cake.

STRAWBERRY PIZZA

Crust:
1 ½ cups flour
1 cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup chopped pecans

Mix crust ingredients together and spread onto an ungreased 10- by 15-inch cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes until golden brown.

Filling:
8 ounces cream cheese
¾ cup confectioners' sugar
8 ounces whipped cream

Mix filling ingredients together and spread onto cooled crust.

Topping:
3 ounces strawberry Jell-O
½ cup sugar
1 cup water
4 tablespoons corn starch
4 cups sliced strawberries

Mix first four topping ingredients together and cook until thickened. Cool, then add strawberries. Place topping mixture on top of cream cheese filling mixture and chill.

BANANA SPLIT SUNDAY COOKIE

1 cup butter, softened
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1½ cups ripe bananas, mashed (about four, medium)
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
2½ cups oats, quick old-fashioned, suncooked
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt (to taste)
1 cup milk chocolate chips
Ice cream topping (optional)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Beat butter and sugar together until creamy. Add bananas, eggs, and vanilla. Beat well.

Add oats, flour, baking soda, salt, and chocolate chips. Mix well.

Drop by tablespoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 14-15 minutes or until edges are golden brown. Cool on cookie sheet 1 minute. Remove and cool completely. Store loosely covered at room temperature. Serve with ice cream topping.

PRETZEL DESSERT

2 cups crushed pretzels
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
2 envelopes whipped cream topping
1 cup cold milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
8-ounces cream cheese, cubed
1 cup confectioners' sugar
21-ounces cherry pie filling

In a bowl, combine pretzels, sugar, and butter. Set aside ½ cup for topping. Press the remaining mixture into an ungreased 9x13x2-inch baking pan. In a mixing bowl, beat whipped topping mix, milk, and vanilla on high speed for 4 minutes (until soft peaks form). Add cream cheese and confectioners' sugar. Beat until smooth. Spread half over crust. Top with pie filling and remaining cream cheese mixture.

Sprinkle with reserved pretzel mixture. Refrigerate overnight.

Yields 16 servings.

DELICIOUS STRAWBERRY DESSERT

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
⅓ cup cold milk
⅔ cup milk, heated to boiling
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cups crushed strawberries (fresh or frozen)

In blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over cold milk; let stand 3-4 minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 3 minutes. Add sugar, vanilla, and crushed strawberries. Process until thoroughly blended. Chill until set. Garnish with whipped topping if desired. Serves 6.

Our family really enjoys this dessert. I have to double or triple this recipe so it reaches around the table. I have used the mixer instead of a blender and it was a success. I'm looking forward to seeing the (contest) recipes.

ULTIMATE CHEESE BALL

1 pound bacon
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 bunch green onions, chopped
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1 cup chopped pecans (optional)

In a large skillet, fry bacon until crisp. Drain on paper towels and crumble bacon. In a medium-size mixing bowl, combine cream cheese and mayonnaise. Mix well and add green onions and cheddar cheese; blend until well mixed. Form two balls, cover and refrigerate 3-4 hours or overnight. If desired, before serving, roll the cheese balls into the chopped pecans. Serve with your favorite crackers.

This is the best cheese ball I have ever had and is a party favorite. I usually will roll only one in the pecans and leave the other one plain for those who do not care for nuts or who are allergic to them. In forming the balls I will place plastic wrap in a small bowl, place the cheese mixture in it and wrap the edges of the plastic wrap over the bowl. Sometimes I make one large ball and put in extra onion and cheese. It is fun to experiment with this recipe.

My husband, Max, and I enjoy living in the country. He and my four sons love the outdoors, especially during hunting season. I enjoy gardening and cooking for family gatherings. We have five grandchildren (four granddaughters and one grandson) who bring us such happiness and joy into our lives. We are so blessed that our whole family lives so close to us; we get to visit with everyone quite often.

COLBY CHEESE

Colby cheese has a mild flavor and can be aged from 2-3 months. It works great in temperatures of 45-50 degrees in the bottom drawer of the refrigerator.

Warm 4 gallons whole milk to 86 degrees. Add ½ teaspoon dry culture and let set one hour. Be sure to stir this well after adding the culture.

Cheese coloring may be added at this point if desired. Add 1 teaspoon liquid rennet or ¼ or more of rennet tablet. Put rennet to ¼ cup cold water before stirring into the milk. Stir one minute. Top stir gently three minutes to keep cream mixed into the milk. Let the milk set undisturbed for 30 minutes or until curds are set.

Cut the curds in ⅜-inch cubes. Stir gently. Let set for 5 minutes.

Raise the temperature slowly to 102 degrees or less. Stir gently to keep from matting and to keep cheese from getting too hot at the bottom of the kettle, if using burners (kettle may be heated in hot water, if preferred). Hold temperature at 102 degrees for 30 minutes, gently stirring. Let set undisturbed 5 minutes.

Drain whey down to level of cheese. Add cold water to get temperature of whey to 80 degrees. Hold for 15 minutes. Stir to keep from matting.

Pour the curds into cheesecloth-lined colander. (The colander may be made out of a bucket drilled with many holes in sides and bottom). Drain 20 minutes.

Break curds into finger-size pieces. Add 4 tablespoons salt and mix gently but thoroughly.

Place curds back into cheese cloth-lined mold. Press the curds at 20 pounds pressure for 20 minutes. Flip the cheese onto another cheese cloth. Press again in mold for 20 minutes with 30 pounds pressure. After 20 minutes, flip cheese and press under 40 pounds pressure. With a final flip, add 50 pounds pressure for 12 hours.

Cheese may be air-dried then waxed for storing but we get it sealed with a modern wrapper using plastic bags. The bottom of the refrigerator has about the right temperature for storing the cheese.

I am a mother of four children, ages 3, 5, 7, and 9. This spring my pastime is used up with cheese making. This requires me to stand a lot by the stove, which is not my favorite place to be. We love to eat the cheese so someone has to make it. Buying cheese would be another option, but right now our two cows have more milk than we and the two young calves can drink.

My hobbies are sewing, reading, and cleaning. Only when company is coming for dinner, do I find cooking exciting (just let me know when you are coming).

Working outdoors in the sunshine is more exciting than working indoors, unless it is very, very warm.

My husband milks our two cows in the pasture, so I rarely milk cows, thankfully. Our Jersey cow attempts to butt me when I get too close to her. I feed her by the fence and tie her through the fence before getting to her side of the fence.

My favorite job is driving the tractor to the fields.

BREAKFAST CASSEROLE

10 eggs
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 pound mild sausage, fried and greased drained
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
8 slices white bread, cubed

Grease 9x13-inch pan. Prepare egg mixture with first five ingredients. Put bread cubes on bottom of pan, layer with cheese, then sausage. Pour egg mixture over that. Store covered overnight.

Bake at 350 degrees uncovered for 45 minutes. Let cool before cutting.

CUP CHEESE

8 cups milk
5 pounds pre-sliced white American cheese
1 stick butter

In a 10- or 12-quart kettle bring milk to a boiling point. Turn heat on low. Add cheese, separating each slice. Add butter, stir occasionally until cheese is melted nicely. Remove from heat and cool, stirring occasionally as it tends to get hard on the top.

Cheese melts more quickly if removed from the refrigerator a while before using, so it can soften.

This recipe makes a lot of cup cheese so I like to put it in smaller containers or freezer boxes and freeze. Comes out of freezer nicely.

It's great to spread on bread with jam or can be used as a dip with pretzels and crackers. Also very good with soft pretzels. It doesn't last long around here as everybody loves it. Good luck and happy eating!

PEANUT BUTTER FINGERS

1 stick butter
⅓ cup peanut butter
½ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 cup oatmeal
1 cup chocolate chips
½ cup powdered sugar
¼ cup peanut butter
3 to 4 tablespoons milk

Cream butter, ⅓ peanut butter, and sugars. Add egg, baking soda, salt, and vanilla. Beat well, add flour and oatmeal, and spread in 9x13-inch pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Sprinkle with chocolate chips immediately.

Combine powdered sugar, ¼ cup peanut butter, and milk until proper consistency to drizzle. I usually like mine runny. put it in the corner of a small sandwich bag, tear a hole in the corner of the bag, and drizzle over bars.

We operate a small dairy farm, and are milking 44 cows as of now in a tie stall barn and farm a little over 100 acres. Our family consists of six: Randy, 8½; Lynelle, 7; Delmar, 4; and Sharlene, 18 months. Four years ago our life took on a new twist when we were assigned to raise one of God's special children, Delmar the sunshine and spice of our life.

APPLE FRENCH TOAST BAKE

21-ounce can apple pie filling
3 eggs
1 cup milk
10 slices of day-old bread
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 tablespoon sugar
⅛ ground cinnamon
container vanilla yogurt

Spoon pie filing into greased 9x13-inch baking pan. In a bowl, beat eggs, milk, and vanilla. Dip bread slices into egg mixture. Arrange two rows of five slices of bread, overlapping slices slightly in baking dish, with pie filling. Brush bread with melted butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cut into squares and serve fruit side up, with several spoonfuls of yogurt.

On our farm, we raise beef, goats, chickens, three daughters and a son, so there's never a dull moment here.

My family love this French toast bake for breakfast, but since mornings are so busy, we often enjoy it as a dessert. I always get an empty dish after serving it.

It's also great with different fruit fillings. We like blueberry, cherry, and peach.

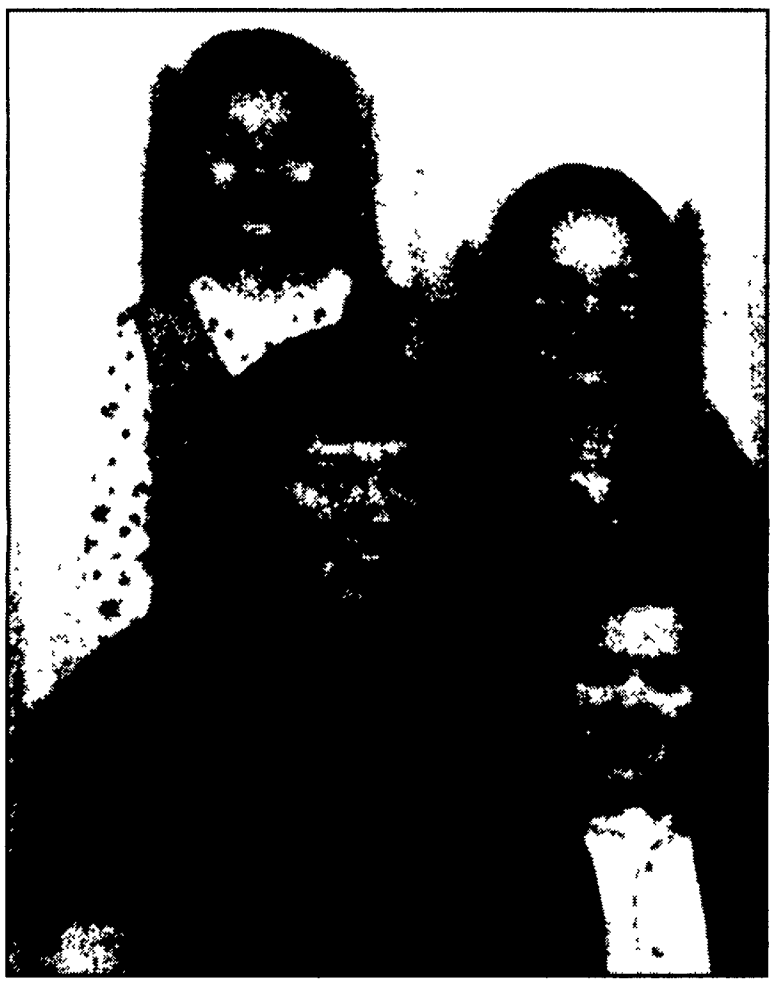
PUMPKIN PIE CAKE

1 cake mix (reserve one cup)
1 stick butter
1 egg
3 cups pumpkin
4 eggs
1¼ cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix the cake mix, butter, and one egg together. Put in the bottom of a 9x13-inch pan (mixture will be sticky). In blender mix pumpkin, four eggs, brown sugar, and cinnamon.

Crumb Mixture:
1 cup reserved cake mix
¼ cup butter
¼ cup sugar

Mix and put on top of cake. Bake 45 minutes to one hour. When cool put on whipped topping or eat warm with milk.



The Timmons children Hanah, 15; Taber, 11; Robin, 8; and Denton, 4, live on a farm in Orrstown.

We live on a dairy farm with our five children ages 1½ to nine.

We have a 60-stall dairy barn, which includes some dry cows plus 50 head of heifers that we raise for our future herd. We farm 200 acres which include corn, soybeans, alfalfa, and some produce.

What a nice opportunity to work together as a family. We enjoy farming.

CREAMY VANILLA PUDDING

2½ cups milk, divided pinch of salt
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Place sugar and salt in a saucepan. Slowly add 2 cups milk. Do not stir (this prevents scorching). Bring to a boil.

Combine cornstarch with ½ cup milk and eggs. When milk comes to a full boil, stir in cornstarch mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and butter. Serve warm or cold.

We live on a dairy farm with our seven children ages one to 17 years. All of us enjoy milk and dairy products. This pudding is so easy and quick, we have it at least once a week. It's also delicious with whipped cream or fresh fruit.

ICE CREAM DESSERT

4 tablespoons butter
½ cup brown sugar
2 cups crushed Rice Chex
⅔ cup coconut
⅔ cup chopped pecans

Put half gallon of vanilla ice cream out to soften. Heat butter and sugar until melted in heavy duty sauce pan. Stir in crushed cereal. Remove from heat and add coconut and pecans. Put half of the mixture in a 9x13-inch pan and press down. Spread the vanilla ice cream over the mixture and smooth well. Put remaining mixture over the top, cover well, and freeze. This is a delicious party dessert, great for showers or other occasions.

EGG AND CHEESE BAKE

1 cup Bisquick
1½ cups cottage cheese
½ pound shredded cheddar cheese
6 eggs, lightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon dried onion or 2 teaspoons fresh onion
1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes or 1 tablespoon fresh parsley
¾ cup butter

Melt butter in 9x13-inch baking dish. Mix rest of ingredients in order given. Pour cheese-egg mixture in pan, spreading evenly. Bake at 350 degrees about 40 minutes.

The first time I made this casserole, our 10-year-old son was dubious about one of the ingredients. I set the dish on the table, called my family, to breakfast, then dashed to the basement for jar of fruit. On the way up, I met my son coming down.

"Mom," he said, a worried tone in his voice, "that green stuff in the casserole . . . is that zucchini?"

I assured him it's not zucchini, only parsley flakes. I had to laugh at the vast look of relief that crossed his face. He hates zucchini — in casseroles — but, ironically, he loves zucchini bread, and has eaten a whole loaf by himself!

This cheesy dish is now a family favorite. For variety, sometimes I'll add a cup of cooked, shredded potatoes for a heartier breakfast.

Life on our new country property is peaceful and quiet, away from the busy main road. The variety of songbirds and wildlife amaze and entertain us.

A new barn is planned for this summer. Meanwhile, making cement flower pots and baking for several roadside stands keeps us and our three children busy.

One of the highlights of the summer is the dairy contest. I look forward to adding more recipes to my bulging file.

RHUBARB CUSTARD BARS

Bottom Layer:
2 cups flour
¼ cup sugar
2 sticks chilled butter

Cut butter into flour and sugar until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Press into 9x13-inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

Filling:
2 cups sugar
7 tablespoons flour
1 cup whipped cream or evaporated milk
3 eggs, beaten
5 cups fresh or frozen rhubarb.

Pour on top of crust and bake 40-50 minutes or until custard is set. Cool.

Topping:
6 ounces cream cheese
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream (whipped) or use 2 cups whipped topping.

We live on a dairy farm with around 40 cows, lots of horses, and dozen of cats. We have a 2½ year-old daughter, Ada Ruth, who highly enjoys farm life with her pet dog, Tinger. She loves to give the calves their bottle milk and also feeds the many kittens so life around animals keeps it interesting for her. Farming is enjoyable for all of us.

We are not so fond of anything baked with rhubarb but this is one of our favorites and goes great for us all. It's delicious! We love our dairy products!

BREAKFAST PIZZA DELIGHT

1½ pound sausage (or any meat)
1½ cups pizza sauce
12 slices of bread
12 slices of cheese
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
5 eggs

Fry the meat, drain the fat, and add pizza sauce.

In a 9x13-inch pan, layer six slices of bread and six slices of cheese. Add meat and pizza sauce and layer remaining bread and cheese.

Beat together milk, salt, and eggs. Pour mixture over bread.

SAUCY CHICKEN AND ASPARAGUS

1½-pounds fresh asparagus spears, halved
4 boneless skinless chicken breast halves
2 tablespoons cooking oil
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
10¾ can condensed cream of chicken soup, undiluted
½ cup ranch salad dressing
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese

Partially cook asparagus, drain. Place asparagus in a greased 9-inch square baking dish. In a skillet over medium heat, brown the chicken in oil on both sides. Season with salt and pepper. Arrange chicken over asparagus. In a bowl, mix soup and salad dressing; pour over chicken.

Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes or until the chicken is tender and juices run clear. Sprinkle with cheese. Let stand five minutes before serving. Yield: four servings. I usually add extra chicken and asparagus so it's enough for our family. We all enjoy it!

My husband Mervin and I live on a dairy farm with our six sons. We milk 61 cows and farm 200 acres. There is something for all of us to do, and never too much food around. I enjoy cooking and reading the recipes in Lancaster Farming's B section. Historical Meets State-Of-The-Art At Landis Valley Museum

Lancaster Farming Staff

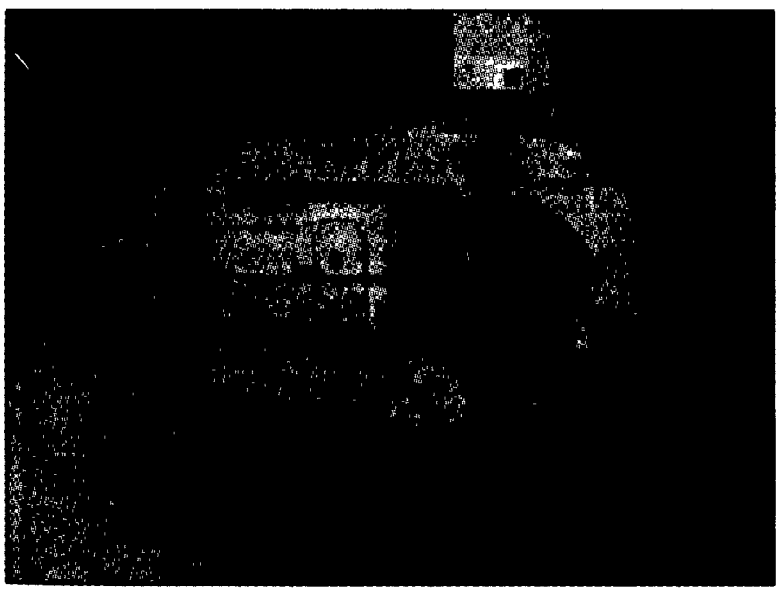
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A penchant for collecting has resulted, years later, in a museum complete with a state-of-the-art, climate-controlled building.

The Landis Valley Museum was founded by two brothers, George and Henry Landis, who had German heritage. They were dedicated collectors of objects since childhood, according to museum curator Bruce Bomgardner, collecting everything from guns to spittoons to Conestoga wagons across the country.

However once they retired from engineering in 1924 they settled into a focus on artifacts from the Lancaster area, specifically Pennsylvania German items. Collecting as many as 5,000 objects a year, they opened their own small museum in the 1920s.

The commonwealth took over the museum in the 1950s and began to develop it as a living history museum. that collects and exhibits Pennsylvania German material from 1740 through 1940.

One of the latest developments on the site is a new "Landis Collections Gallery," featuring a climate-controlled building — the museum's first — with large windows to exhibit more artifacts to the public. The building opened to the public in April after workers spent nearly two years moving items to the building.



This winnowing fan, which was kept for display for its unique pink color and its origin — Lancaster — is also unusually decorative, with painted flourishes. Bomgardner hopes to use one of the museum's models to allow children to clean seed.

"The concept is visible storage," said Bomgardner. "To do an exhibit is expensive with graphics and interpretive text displays." Items not on display in the museum that have been moved to the gallery can be seen, if not in the window displays, at least in among the shelves behind the windows. "The glass shelves allow us to rotate items to the front shelves," he said.

Rows of chairs, apothecary bottles, festival glass, parlor suite, and a farm table are only a few of the variety of items —"a little of everything," said Bomgardner.

The building allows the pieces to be protected from temperature extremes and ultra violet rays, which slowly break down objects.

Although not open for public view, in the basement level is the condensed storage area, where items are stored in long rows of trays. Also in the basement is a freezer for anything that museum workers suspect are infected with insects such as silver fish.

Employees and volunteers are now in the meticulous process of moving museum pieces into the building. As they are moved from other areas they are cleaned. The items are digitally photographed and either newly cataloged or their information is updated for the card catalog file.

Jane Weisel, Myerstown, curatorial assistant, is part of the moving process. One aspect of her job is examining slides, part of the Landis brothers' photographic collection, that include children, families, and holiday scenes. She fills out a worksheet which will help to categorize the slides, noting measurements and describing the picture.

One of the items on display is a pink winnowing fan used to clean seed. The fans are generally well-built and do not break down easily. "Nine times out of ten, when someone calls and wants to donate something, it's a winnowing fan," he said.

This model, which was kept for display for its unique pink color and its origin — Lancaster — was also unusually decorative, with painted flourishes.

Bomgardner hopes to use some of the museum's models to allow children to clean seed.

A workbench made by an area inventor is also part of the display. The inventor, David Herr Bausman, patented a wind-powered engine which he marketed across the U.S. Stickers that show the states that Bausman took his wind engine to are stuck to a crate that sat underneath the bench.

A new donation to the museum is the thresher and steam engine models of Sam Snyder, Mohrsville. A well driller, Snyder put his knowledge and idle hands to use during the Depression Era to make the two models, which he demonstrated at fairs. Snyder based the models' plans on the steam threshing rig that threshed wheat on his grandfather's farm in the mid 20th century. "I call it a three-dimensional document," said Bomgardner.

Another significant object in the building is a large Conestoga wagon that sports its original red and blue paint.

The Shreiner wagon, which originated from a family near to the museum, is unusual in that it has the maker's marks stamped on hinges on the tool box and on the wheel bearings of the wagon. Bomgardner believes that a few of the wagon's iron pieces were also made in the Lebanon Valley area.

Ida Risser, who writes the column "Ida's Notebook" for this paper, is a descendent of Michael Shreiner, who commissioned the wagon. It stayed in the Shreiner family until the museum purchased it.

During the cleaning process, pieces of coal were found between the planks, testament to what the wagon may have carried on one of its last trips. Among other items, the wagon came with the wagoner's saddle for the lead horse and a tar bucket.

Also on the grounds is a wagon storage building which holds larger pieces until they are rotated into an exhibition.

In the building is the Gingrich wagon, which made a trip in 1913 to reenact the transport of gunpowder from the powder mills of Dupont in Delaware to Lake Erie for the battle of Lake Erie during the War of 1812. The wagon's boards are "filled with historic graffiti," of signatures and dates, according to Bomgardner.

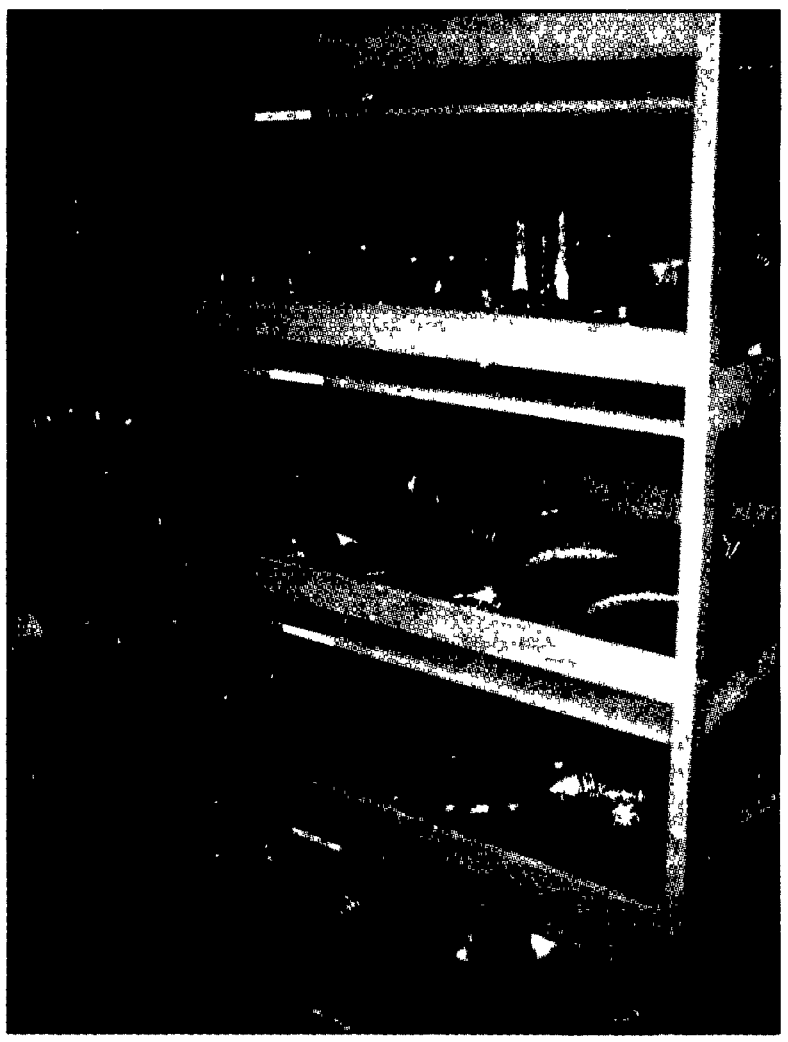
When an item is donated, Bomgardner interviews the donor to obtain "the story behind the object," which helps for not only record-keeping but also adds interest to the objects in the museum.

The brothers were "pretty important as early museum builders," said Bomgardner. "They really have national significance." Among the first to recognize the value of the items that were made in the area, they unabashedly began collecting large numbers of items for the sake of display and education.

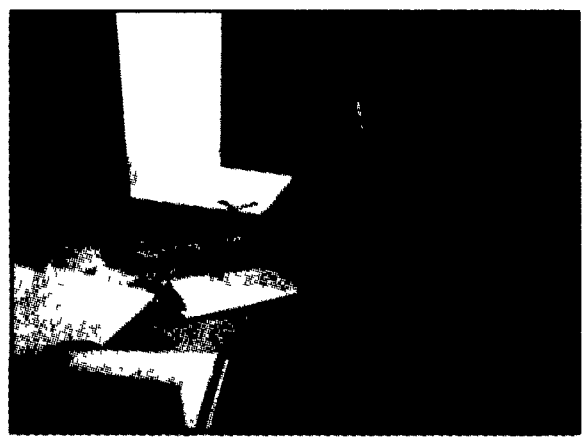
"They often collected in multiples of things," he said. "If they already had six apple peelers and a good one came up for sale they bought it." The brothers frequented public sales as sources of their collections.

They not only built their own museum but exchanged information with other museum curators.

Bruce Bomgardner, curator of Landis Valley Museum, stands beside a Conestoga wagon on display at the Landis Collections Gallery.



The brothers may have gotten some of this carnival glass from the many public auctions they attended.



At left Jane Weisel, Myerstown, curatorial assistant, is helping in the moving process. Part of her job is examining slides and filling out a worksheet which will help to categorize the slides, noting measurements and describing the picture. At right Joshua Goss, a senior archaeology major at Millersville University, paints a base coat to number glass knobs.

Gothic-Style Furnishings In and Out of Fashion

This may be the time for you to "go Gothic."

Afterall this is the era of three-story ceilings, which is what it often takes for a towering 10-foot high, 19th century, Gothic revival buffet. When such pieces appear at a Red Baron auction in Atlanta, complete with church-type spires, prices can be $25,000 and up.

Since it was first introduced around 1100, furnishings in the Gothic style have come and gone in popularity. It originally lasted from 1100 to 1550, when the arches, trefoils and curves were replaced by the Rennaisance style. It included carved columns, animals and female forms, as well as inlays.

Part of the appeal of Gothic is the image it evokes of spooky, romantic castles and a sense of mystery. Now, once again, it is being used sparingly by interior decorators and collectors.

Gothic came into fashion for the second time in England from the late 18th to the last quarter of the 19th century. George 1V helped it along when he decided to redo Windsor Castle in Gothic style in 1823. From then until the 1870s Gothic furnishings were in fashion in France, the continent, and America as well.

In America it became a status symbol for the wealthy, fitting nicely into their Gothic-style mansion of the 1840s-1850s. The most pretentious of these homes echoed the towering spires of medieval churches. By the end of the century Gothic, no longer in fashion, was replaced not only in America but Europe by the swirls and curves of Art Nouveau designs.

During the 19th century, Victorian homes placed Gothic revival pieces in their proper place...in the library. Victorian rococo belonged in the parlor and bedroom.

Interest in Gothic designs was almost nonexistent until the 1976 Houston Museum of Fine Arts exhibition of the Gothic Tase In America. At that time, prices for 19th century revival pieces were affordable. Those who began collecting then have been rewarded.

These days a Gothic revival armchair can sell for more than $10,000. If a piece can be attributed to a known designer, the price goes up. An example would be the Victorian Gothic revival fold-over card table, attributed to a design by William Burges. According to last years' Miller's International Price Guide, this card table had an estimated auction value of $36,000/$40,000.

CLUES: Certain symbols and motifs are typically English Gothic (1189-1509) such as floral forms, religious symbols, the circle, the trefoil, quatrefoil, triangle, and crown. High-carved spires topped furnishings. Chests were decorated with linenfold panels that looked like folds of linen.

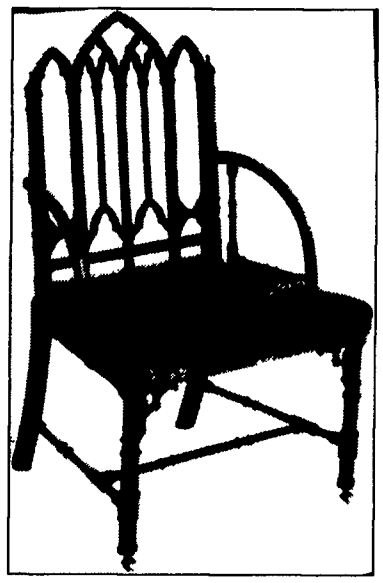
Faking was done big time around the 1870s and hasn't ceased. Most suspect are Gothic cupboards and chests, actually made in Germany in the 1870s.

Often the pieces were "married" using old and new parts. A study of the carving can be a clue, since the fakers usually had more carving than would have been done in the Gothic period. It is also more dimensional like a sculpture.

Woods are a clue to American Gothic revival furniture. It was usually walnut or rosewood. Large pieces made in the 1830s-11840 often used mahogany.

However, some makers also used oak for chairs. A Gothic revival desk and bookcase made by J& W Meeks, New York, was made of walnut wood is in a private collection.

Decorative accessories in the Gothic mode included lighting fixtures, silver and even clocks.



Gothic revival armchair can sell for $10,000. The price goes up if the designer is known. Photo credit: Private collector.

Know Anything About This Sign?

This 12x18-inch sign was recently donated to the Pasto Agriculture Museum, Penn State. No one on the staff including a 87-year-old retired extension agent knows anything about the Community Breeders' Boar program. The heavy metal sign is covered with porcelain on each side, circa early 1920s, and was made by Ingram-Richardson, Beaver Falls. The sign came from Lycoming County. Darwin Braund, curator for the museum, said any assistance from readers would be appreciated. Contact Braund at 238 Agricultural Administration Bldg., University Park, PA 16802 or call (814) 863-1383.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

Friday Evening, July 5, 2002
7:00 PM

Auction to be held 5 miles south of Port Royal, Juniata County, along Mountain Road at the corner of Matamoras and Mountain Roads in Spruce Hill Township

Juniata County Country Living Ranch Home

A 1-acre surveyed corner lot erected thereon a 28'x40' Early American-style brick-fronted, one-story 2-bedroom ranch dwelling with attached 10'x20' enclosed breezeway and 28'x30' 2-car insulated garage. The garage has automatic overhead garage doors, concrete floor and shelves for storage, the breezeway has washer/dryer hook-up and is fully carpeted. A modern walk-through Early American-style kitchen has plenty of storage space, includes refrigerator and gas stove and has a breakfast nook with sliding glass door which opens onto a 12'x18'- deck. The large living room has a brick-floor foyer front entrance, built-in air conditioning unit and wall-to-wall carpeting. Two large bedrooms with two closets in each room, full bath, 2 linen closets, and ceiling fans in every room complete this residence. A full concrete basement with outside entrance, shower stall, stairway inclinator, Kodiak woodstove, drilled well, water conditioning system, on-site sewage, 200 amp electric service, hot water oil-fired heating system, and new shingle roof make this a sought-after dwelling. This beautiful level lot features many well-established flowering shrubs and decorator trees including flowering cherry trees, dogwoods, rhododendrons, holly bushes, many types of pines and a small orchard. A beautiful country corner lot overlooking the Spruce Hill valley, backed by the Tuscarora Mountain – a must-see property.

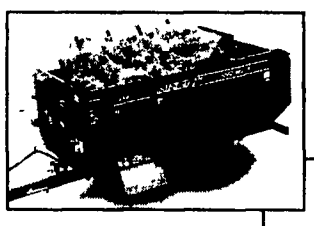
TIP THE SCALES WITH HEAVYWEIGHT MIXERS THAT ARE SOFT ON FEED

Pound for pound, you won't find a more powerful or gentle mixer than the Series IV by Roto-Mix®. Its extra heft easily blends batch after batch of feed while its patented rotor design and tumbling action mix all ingredients without damage Plus, a special hay pan keeps chunks of hay out of the chamber until they're cut by the auger knives. Transmission, PTO and drive line loads are reduced so the Series IV needs less horsepower and maintenance.



The Series IV is available in trailer, truck and stationary units with mixing capacities from 80 to 520 cu ft.

Holtz Joins CPG Nutrients Management Team

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — CPG Nutrients continues to strengthen its management team with the recent addition of Corwin Holtz as director of technical services.

"We are extremely pleased that Corwin will be joining the CPG Nutrients team," said Doug Merrill, president of CPG Nutrients. "He is a well-respected dairy expert, who has served the industry for more than 20 years, having worked in dairy regions across the country, including the Northeast, Midwest and West Coast."

During the past two years, Holtz served as manager of Dairy Development International, LLC (DDI), an 850-cow commercial/research dairy facility located in Homer, N.Y. Holtz was instrumental in taking the facility from the drawing board to a state-of-the-art agricultural operation.

Prior to that position, Holtz was a technical dairy specialist with Agway Agricultural Products in Western New York, responsible for training and technical support to the dairy nutrition sales staff. In that role, he was also involved in the launch of Optigen 1200 Controlled Release Nitrogen.

"Corwin possesses a wide range of expertise, specializing in such areas as nutrition, herd reproduction, milking management, expansion strategies and planning, and herd records analysis," Merrill said. "He is adept at taking new technologies and successfully implementing them in practical applications."

Massey Ferguson Expands Compact Tractor Implement Lines

ATLANTA, Ga. — New mowers, new tillage equipment, landscape tools and more are being added to the Massey Ferguson implement line for compact tractors.

"There's a new tool for practically every job," says Steve Barcuch, Massey Ferguson® general marketing manager. "We are adding 11 new mounted implements, most of them with multiple models, to our line-up."

The new Massey Ferguson implements are built rugged to match the company's long lasting compact tractors. They include finish and rotary mowers, rotary tillers and discs, landscape tools and several unique, front-mounted tools, including a snow blower.

"Our customers will find the heavy duty, medium duty or standard model that fits their needs, whether it's on the farm, in the city or in between," says Barcuch. "These implements are price competitive, feature competitive and built to last. For example, while most medium duty mowers rely on a shear bolt, ours comes standard with a slip clutch. It is built to keep on cutting even in rough conditions."

The new line up of Massey Ferguson implements includes rotary tillers that offer models for both standard and heavy duty operations.

The mower and cutter tool contingent is also a good example of a tool for every job. Five different finish-mower models offer cutting widths from 60 to 84 inches. Three rotary cutter lines, with a total of 10 models, range in cutting widths from 48 to 180 inches. The two larger units, for larger tractors, are able to handle brush up to 2-inches in diameter.

Landscapers with compact tractors have a new selection of rugged, long wearing, tools built from heavy-gauge steel. They include rear-mounted blades in the 60-96-inch widths, 60-, 72-, 84- and 96-inch width landscape rakes and four models of box blades ranging from 48 to 84 inch widths. Cutting edges are heat-treated, while the landscape rakes feature high-carbon, spring-steel teeth for extended wear.

New tillage implements include three tandem discs and four medium and heavy-duty rotary tillers. The mounted discs have cutting widths from 5½ to 7½ feet and cutting depths of up to 7 inches. All three feature maintenance free bearings.

"We also are adding to our line of front-mount equipment with a new 63-inch commercial grade snow blower, a 61-inch broom/sweeper and a 66-inch dozer blade," says Barcuch. "Front-mounted implements are unique to our tractors, thanks to our patented Cat. B, Quick Hitch, that comes standard on all tractors from 28 to 48 hp."

Corn Growers May Need Post-Emergent Herbicides For Weed Control

DES MOINES, Iowa — Dry soil in some areas and non-stop rain in others means corn growers may want to look into post-emergent herbicides as a weed control option this season. That's the recommendation from agricultural specialists with Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., who suggest keeping a close eye on fields due to the varying weather and soil conditions.

"It's been dry in parts of the country, and that means, in some cases, herbicides applied before planting might not take," says Joe Mayer, a Pioneer agronomist based in Pennsylvania. "A good post-emergent herbicide applied early can help tackle the weeds that were unaffected by a pre-emergent treatment."

"Weed control is always important, but this year, it's even more important because of the dry conditions," says Dan Berning, a Pioneer agronomist in Nebraska. "You want to get out there early and eliminate the weeds that are competing for the same moisture as your corn."

While dry weather is one reason to look at post-emergent herbicides, the wet rainy weather that's hampered planting over the last few weeks is another. "With the prime corn planting time slipping away due to wetter weather, it may make sense for some growers to switch herbicide plans from a pre-emergence strategy to an early post-emergence strategy that offers the necessary contact and residual control," says Mayer. "Plus, by applying after planting, you don't have to guess which weeds will be a problem this year."

The key to good post-emergent control is not to wait until the weeds are tall and out of control. Rather, be ready to go within three weeks of planting. If corn was planted between May 1 and May 10, fields should be ready for a post-emergent application near the end of the month when the corn is three to four inches tall.

According to Berning and Mayer, a dependable post-emergent weed control program should include the following:

- Good control of the toughest grasses and broadleaf weeds, including foxtail species, wooly cupgrass, fall panicum, wild proso millet and field sandbur.
- Good contact control independent of rain plus season-long residual control with an activating rainfall.
- A wide window of application relative to corn growth so there is ample time to protect the crop from later-emerging yield-robbing grasses.
- Tank mix flexibility to provide opportunity for broad-spectrum broadleaf control.
- A company representative who is readily available to help identify weed challenges, answer questions and assist with application if needed.

Ag retailers offer a number of herbicide options to growers, including DuPont SteadfastTM, Accent Gold(R) and Basis Gold(R). Contact your local DuPont retailer to find out which herbicide program best meets your needs. Always read and follow label directions carefully.

Fendt Adds New Tractor To 400 Series

ATLANTA, Ga. — Livestock and row-crop farmers alike now have a more powerful option in chore and field tractors.

Fendt has added a new top of the line unit to its 400 Series. The Fendt 412 from Agco Corporation produces 105 PTO horsepower at 2,100 rpm with 19.8 gpm hydraulic flow rate standard. For those heavy lifting situations, an optional hydraulic system increases that flow rate by nearly 50 percent to 29.1 gpm.

The 412 joins the 72 HP 409, the 85 HP 410 and the 95 HP 411. Like its sisters in the series, the 412 features the innovative Vario® stepless continuously variable transmission (CVT) with infinite speed selection and a three-phase suspension system for unrivaled cab comfort and safety. The Fendt power transfer system puts more power to the drawbar than comparable horsepower tractors.

"The Fendt 412 is the ultimate chore tractor," says Kevin Bien, general marketing manager, Fendt tractors. "It has the power to handle those big jobs around the farm with comfort and ease of handling. Best of all for farmers is that they get 'big price' features in a very economical package."

"These tractors are engineered for the operator with multiple use needs," says Blake Gendebien, Fendt sales engineer. "They'll stand up to long hours and heavy lifting, and they have a reputation for reliability and low maintenance. Even the oil and filters have a three-year or 3,000-hour replacement schedule."

The Fendt Vario stepless CVT transmission combines the best attributes of hydrostatic convenience and powershift efficiency in one transmission. The result is the optimal combination of torque and speed for every job.

"The 412 is as at-home on the road as it is in the farmyard or field," says Bien. "It can cruise along at 25 mph with the standard transmission or at up to 31 mph with the optional road range. The 412 can make remote fields and farms feel next door."

Quicke Offers Mid-Mount Loaders

GREAT BEND, Kan. — Quicke offers the premier line of full featured mid-mount loaders for 40-270hp, 2 and 4WD tractors.

Features include, soft drive ride control system to absorb shock loads, easy lube pins with replaceable bushings at every pivot point and industrial style attachment linkages to provide greater roll back and dump angles.

Additional benefits include, exclusive equal displacement hydraulic cylinders for equal power and speed for load/unload, and double C channel frames providing extra strength for heavy-duty applications. Mechanical self leveling and standard loader models now offer more sizes, more bucket choices and more working attachments.

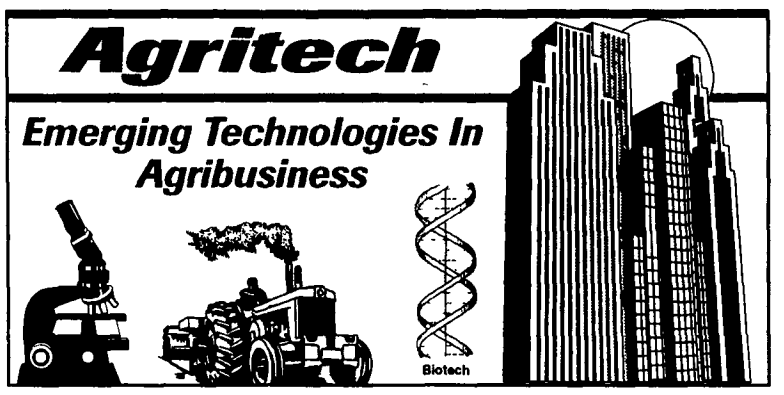
Northwest Savings Bank Opens New Palmyra Office

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.) — The Northwest Savings Bank recently celebrated the grand opening of its relocated Palmyra office at 1048 East Main Street.

The new Northwest facility offers full-service community banking for current and new customers. Located on East Main Street next door to the former Palmyra Office, a larger customer service lobby, on-site parking, safe deposit boxes, four lanes of drive-through banking, a 24-hour ATM and a night drop provide more customer convenience than the local bank's former location.

Manager Ron Deke says "We know customers will appreciate our customer service hours. Our office opens at 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday. We have lobby hours until 5 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and until 6 p.m. on Thursday and Friday. Our drive-through lanes are open until 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and until 7 p.m. on Friday. On Saturday, we provide customer service from our lobby and drive through until noon."



Neogen's Roundup Ready Test Verified For Soybeans, Corn

LANSING, Mich. — GIPSA has verified the performance claims of Neogen's test to detect the Roundup Ready® genetic trait in soybeans and corn. This is the only commercial test verified for use in both soybeans and corn.

Agri-Screen® for CP4 Strip Test can detect as little as one Roundup Ready soybean among 1,000 soybeans, or one Roundup Ready NK603 corn kernel among 800 kernels, making Neogen's test the most sensitive CP4 test available.

"Neogen has a long history of developing products for the world's grain industry with numerous tests for mycotoxins, pesticide residues, and now, GMOs" said James Herbert, Neogen's president.

Roundup Ready herbicide resistance has been incorporated into soybean seed used throughout the world. Soybean varieties with this trait were a large percentage of last year's total production in the leading soybean producing countries of the United States and Argentina. The NK603 variety of corn, planted commercially for the first time this year, also utilized this modification. There is no test available for the previous variety of Roundup Ready corn, GA21. Both varieties of corn are approved for use in the U.S., but not in Europe.

CP4 is an abbreviation for the enzyme altered in crops to make them tolerant to Roundup® herbicides. The test was developed as a part of Neogen's special license agreement with Monsanto.

The test is a single-step lateral flow immunochromatographic assay. The water extract is wicked through a reagent zone, which contains antibodies specific for the CP4, conjugated to colored particles. If CP4 is present, it will be captured by the conjugated antibodies. The CP4-antibody-particle complex is then wicked onto a membrane which contains a zone of antibody specific for CP4. This zone captures the complex, allowing the particles to concentrate and form a visible line. If no CP4 is present, no line will form. The membrane also contains a control zone where an immune complex present in the reagent zone is captured by an antibody, forming a visible line.

AniGenics Lead Industry Player In International Research Consortium

CHICAGO, Ill. — AniGenics, Inc., one of the world's leading animal genomics companies, announced a three-year, $17.5 million collaborative research program sponsored by Genome Canada.

AniGenics will perform this research with a consortium of partners including the Veterinary Infectious Disease Organization (VIDO), University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, plus the University of British Columbia, Simon Fraser University and Inimex Pharmaceuticals, Inc. in Vancouver. The program focuses on infectious disease genomics of cattle and poultry, and will begin this summer. AniGenics will establish a Canadian research subsidiary in Saskatoon and anticipates hiring a significant number of scientists and technical staff.

Entitled "Functional Pathogenomics of Mucosal Immunity," the research is intended to identify host factors that influence disease resistance to common pathogens of food animal species, including microbes that also cause foodborne illness in people. According to The National Institute for Animal Agriculture (Bowling Green, Ky.), respiratory disease in beef cattle alone results in more than $1B in losses annually in U.S. feedlots. E. coli is linked to more than 70,000 human cases of food poisoning each year.

"We anticipate new insights into critical genes influencing animal production, animal health, food safety and biosecurity," said Steven M. Niemi, D.V.M, president and CEO of AniGenics. "This program further enhances our scientific leadership in domestic animal genomics, and we look forward to working with world-class laboratories such as VIDO in this endeavor."

"It's fantastic to have AniGenics as a collaborator," said Dr. Lorne Babiuk, director of VIDO and principal investigator of the research program. "Their involvement will accelerate the establishment of VIDO and Canada as a major player in animal genomics internationally."

Genome Canada was created two years ago by the Canadian federal government as a not-for-profit corporation to serve as the primary funding and information resource relating to genomics in Canada for the benefit of Canadians. As part of its creation, Genome Canada received $300 million from the federal government to establish five research centers across the country.

In this particular project, Genome Prairie and Genome BC will deliver up to half the funds for this program and AniGenics will lead a consortium to finance the other half. In return, AniGenics will have first rights of exclusive access to resultant intellectual property related to animal and food applications.

Randal Johnston, president of Genome Prairie, indicated that this project was one of the top ranked proposals in Canada. "The researchers engaged in this project are among the best anywhere in this discipline, and we are delighted to be working with them, the industrial partners and Genome BC. This is a very exciting project for which we have the highest of expectations."

AniGenics is a privately held company engaged in advancing genomics to improve animal health, welfare and productivity. AniGenics' portfolio of technologies will enable producers to economically identify superior breeding stock, resulting in improved food safety and enhanced food quality.

CLUTCHES/GEAR REDUCTION ASSEMBLIES

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined outputs, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment.

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies

For 8-30 HP Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1-2 cyl.)

- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1 1/8", 1 7/16"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

Berks County Grazier Manages Grass, Cows

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

BETHEL (Berks Co.) — Eleven years ago, changes began taking place in the pastures of Papa Farm.

When Brian Mohn began his pasture based program it was hard to find information on rotational grazing, he said. I read Lancaster Farming articles and got ideas that migrated from Lancaster.

Mohn along with his wife Karen and daughters Beverly 12, Carolyn 10 and Judy 8, have managed the farm for 11 years for a Philadelphia businessman.

This generation may grow the corn because of its contribution to good usage of the land, he said. I want to get the most out of this modern [illegible] product.

A lot of it was trial and error, initially, he said. County agents helped in his education by conducting pasture walks and grazier discussions that helped to educate Mohn.

In the initial days, I traveled to Lancaster for pasture information to learn about water quality projects, he said, besides adding stream bank fencing, Mohn has put in his own concrete stream crossings.

Now, to get a profitable operation, I don't see any other way you can be in the cow/calf business without being in the growing business, he said because of smaller framed animals with improved genetics, and carefully maintained pastures that the animals do not have to be fed supplemental hay or grain for the most part, the operation's costs have declined.

Pennsylvania Spokesman

A year ago, Mohn went to Arkansas's Forage and Grassland Council's conference in Springdale, Arkansas as Pennsylvania's spokesman. Every spokesperson gave a 12 minute presentation on what forages mean to them.

The main influences in [illegible] speeches, USDA pasture management people, scientists and extension agent, he said. We were given the opportunity to teach the teachers. They wanted more information to take back to educate others.

There were people from all over the country competing. There were very diverse speeches from graziers, hay producers and dairy producers.

Mohn's speech addressed

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Richard Hann knows the history and workings of the Pennsylvania Forage & Grassland Council.

For 34 years, Hann has been a vital part in the organization, handling the finances and acting as chief coordinator of events, board meetings and membership matters. He has served as secretary-treasurer since 1968. In addition to those responsibilities, he assumed a new executive director post in 2000.

Hann recently reflected on PFGC's history, along with changes in agriculture and forage management that have occurred through the years.

PFGC was formed in 1968 as the Pennsylvania Grassland Council (PGC), the organization became affiliated with American Grassland Council in 1963. The name was changed to Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council in 1974, to more fully recognize its dual [illegible]

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Offers
High-speed, clean-cutting disc technology

WITH SIMPLE, RELIABLE DESIGN

All Gehl disc mower conditioners share these great features

Unlike some competitive units, Gehl's cutterbar is fastened to a heavy-duty tubular main frame for added strength and support. In addition, the entire cutterbar is shielded from rocks or other field obstructions with full-width skid shoes

The gear-driven cutterbar (outlined in white) is supported and protected.

MODEL 2412 DISC MOWER CONDITIONER

Cut Your Fields Down To Size!
Gehl swing-frames give you the capacity and maneuverability of a self-propelled mower conditioner at a pull-type price plus the advantages of high speed disc cutting technology

- Nine disc cutterbar delivers 11-foot, 7-inch cut
- Wide conditioning rolls for uniform, fast drying
- Full-width skid shoes protect the cutterbar
- Simple drive system for more reliability
- Change from windrow to swath in seconds - without tools

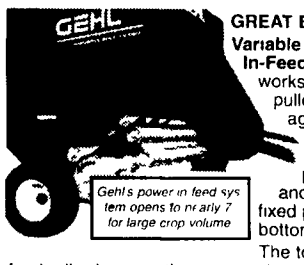
ROUND BALERS
Featuring the ALL-NEW Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System



Gehl's power in feed system opens to nearly 7 for large crop volume

GREAT BALING STARTS HERE
Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed System Here's how it works The incoming crop is pulled off the pickup by the aggressive action of two power in-feed rolls – a 6-inch diameter pivoting power in-feed roll on top and an 8-inch diameter fixed power in-feed roll on the bottom

The top pivoting power in feed roll rides over the crop as it is pulled into the bale chamber An extension spring keeps the toproll under constant downward force

The spring tension increases as the variable throat opens from a minimum of 3/4 of an inch up to a maximum opening of nearly 7 inches

The constant downward force of the pivoting upper powered in-feed roll in combination with the fixed lower in feed roll both turning inward pinches the crop and forces it into the bale chamber The stripping roll strips crop off the belt and forces it down to the incoming crop Adjustable scrapers on the stripping roll and pivoting roll eliminate buildup

THREE-BALL TWINE BOX. Gehl balers are designed to keep you going all day long with six-ball twine storage They're located in full-size doors that open to provide easy access to baler components like an optional chain oiler system or the Total Density Control adjustments

GAUGE WHEELS. Allow the pickup to follow field contours while keeping tines out of the dirt That saves wear and tear on the pickup and means less dirt in your bale Gauge wheels are standard equipment with the wide pickup and an option with some others

BELTS. Deluxe balers feature chevron belts (pictured above) with heavy duty, plate-type belt lacing The belts are 6-1/2 inches wide for closer spacing between belts and less space between the belts and side sheets Belts are configured in a staggered pattern to minimize trash build-up

Today's Most Advanced Disc Mower Conditioner

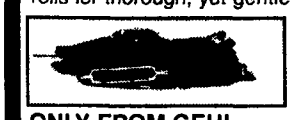
GEHL. Model 2365

10' Cut In Stock for Immediate Delivery

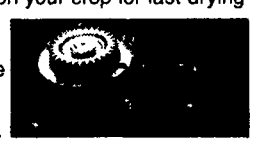
Model 2345 9 Foot Cut In Stock

Long hood for less wind turbulence for cleaner cutting in thin crop stands.
A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.
Rugged high-speed cutting discs, spinning at 3,000 rpm, easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth to deliver a clean cut

The cut crop is delivered to Gehl's specially designed intermeshing rubber conditioning rolls for thorough, yet gentle crop conditioning They'll condition your crop for fast drying



ONLY FROM GEHL
The gear driven cutterbar (outlined in white) is protected. Gehl shields the cutterbar from rocks or other field obstructions with full-width skid shoes



Easily replaceable disc drive assemblies. Drive stations can be removed individually for quick servicing Bearings are sealed in grease The patented Protectadrive™ system protects the cutterbar gear train from damage in the event of disc contact with major field obstacles

Get a Lot of Tractor, and Track Record, for Your Money With the MF 200 Series.

The 42 to 69 PTO hp* Massey Ferguson 200 Series tractors are designed to stretch a dollar and shrink practically any job down to size. They're built on a tradition of rugged reliability that has made Massey Ferguson a leading choice of farmers worldwide for nearly 40 years. The expertise of manufacturing more than 10 million engines goes into each quiet, fuel-efficient, low-emission Perkins® engine with Fastram™ technology. And with its proven strong resale value, the MF 200 Series makes even more sense.

To see how far your tractor dollar can go, test drive a hard-working, money-saving MF 200 Series model at your nearby Massey Ferguson dealer. It's an experience you'll value for years to come.

If you're in the market for a used combine, consider a Case-IH Axial-flow Rotary Combine from the dealer that introduced Axial-Flow Combines to the east in 1977. Hoober combine service specialists have been working with axial-flow technology ever since, and when you purchase a combine from Hoober, you get Hoober service with the machine.

Hoober's Used Combines Are Priced To Give Eastern Farmers the Best Value for Their Dollar.

More Bales in Less Time.

Any Questions!

The exclusive Variable Open-Throat Power In-Feed system in Gehl Round Balers will help you save more time and money during baling operations. There are five Gehl Round Baler models available in seven configurations. Choose from standard, deluxe or silage special units.

- Total Density Control (TDC®) system packs more material into every bale
- Three control systems to choose from
- Optional Quickwrap™ net wrap attachment
- Power In-Feed system opens up to nearly 7" for large crop volume
- Optional crowder wheels provide increased pick-up width for feeding the sides of the baler

When you invest in a FENDT Tractor with Reverse Station, you're actually getting several pieces of equipment. In less than a minute you can turn this ingenious tractor into a self-propelled forage harvester, swather, windrower, chopper, even a powerful snowthrower. Seat, steering wheel and the entire instrumentation swings 180 and locks in place. And from this position, you've never had a better view of your work.

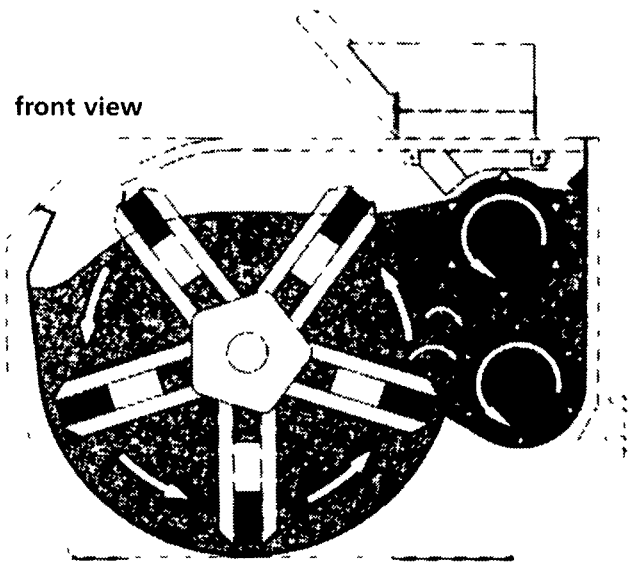
KNIGHT . . . the REEL Advantage

A Faster, More Thorough Mix

front view



The large-diameter reel provides a gentle tumbling action and the two side augers produce an end-to-end blending action. This unique combination ensures faster mixing and unloading times, and a very thorough mix, even when mixing small batches.

Our Soil Our Heritage

Silage Spreaders with a Heritage of Quality

Lancaster Level-Flo has been the leader in non-motorized silage spreaders for more than 25 years. Each spreader is specifically designed to meet the needs of the individual operator.

Choose the spreader that best matches the equipment you use to fill your silo.

The Model 1030 Multi-Flo® is our standard silage spreader. With a 9" gooseneck, it is designed for average capacity blowers and silo sizes

The Model 1200 Multi-Flo® has a 12" wide gooseneck Its larger size all but eliminates plugging problems, even when you blow in haylage It is especially helpful in larger silos

The BlueMax® is built for those who push high-capacity silo filling equipment to the limit All parts of the BlueMax® subject to wear are made 25% heavier - and the stainless steel plate is twice as heavy For strength, there are reinforcements all around Even our well-known non-binding hinge is heavier

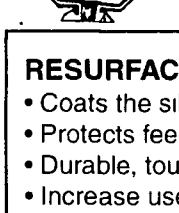
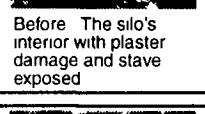
All Sizes of New S&S Silos Available



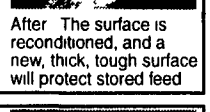
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical



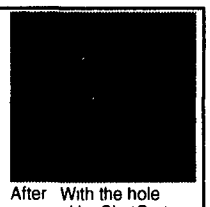
Before The silo's interior with plaster damage and stave exposed



After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick, tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

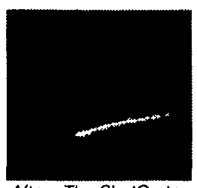
Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

EVERLAST II
Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal
EVERLAST II IS BETTER:
• it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
• it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
• is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
• won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
• won't bend or buckle as easy, stronger design.
• laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
• nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
• zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
• still priced about the same or less.
EVERLAST II
is excellent for houses and barns.
DOUBLE DIPPED GALVANIZED is proven best for animals.
STANDING SEAM
is ideal for houses.

Everlast fits tighter.

Screws and nails fit tighter on Everlast II metal roofing and siding ribs. Less risk of leaking. Laps are virtually invisible. No other manufacturer's metal seals so well with nails.

Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?

Consider a Mueller pre-cooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

LAPP ENERGY-FREE DRINKER
Proven to Work Since 1984

- After marketing for years our customers tell us it's still the best and unique drinker you can buy today
- Units have non-siphoning all plastic 3/4" water valve.
- Units have 3/4" PVC shut off-and-on ball valve right behind water valve.
- Drinker lid is designed w/no grooves on top that can encourage bacteria-germs that could seep inside unit.
- The Poly-Drinkers are high density urethane foam insulated with drain plugs, proven to work outside in our area
- Also available with 2 holes
- We also carry Badger and Ritchie waterers.

ALFALFA SEED $1.55/Lb.
from the Dakota's Trask Family Seeds
- Features grower-to-grower direct seed sales
- S D S U tested and researched
- Distributed from Parkesburg PA
- $1 55/per lb in 60 lb bags
- Varieties S D Common Vernal, and Rhyzoma
- Dakota alfalfas are dormancy rated at "2 and proven to excel in winter hardiness and production!
- Trask Seed is American grown and priced to reflect no corporate monopolies!

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed. Painterland Farms, Westfield, PA, John Painter said "The Trask's seed grew extremely well. We recommend it to anyone. It is real leafy and yielded as well as any of the high priced name brand seeds. It cost 40% as much. We planted 294 acres. We intend to plant more this spring. It was exceptionally winter hardy and resisted frost damage. We are very pleased.
Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting superb alfalfa from South Dakota seed

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

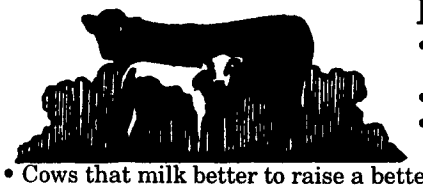
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Custom Manure Hauling
Reduced compaction provides you with healthier crops and higher yields. We offer the flotation of a farm tractor & spreader or try our new truck tractor & trailer tanker. Combine the road speed of a truck (a tractor's greatest limitation) with nearly the same flotation as a tractor & spreader. It will go anywhere our tractor will.

Custom Tillage
We also offer a deep tillage service if you find yourself having to do something about compacted ground. We have a 9-tooth Sunflower chisel fitted with 5 chisel teeth and 4 ripper Shanks. You have the choice of 4 inch twisted shovels for good residue coverage or 2 inch straight points for less coverage. All of our customers who have had used this have been very pleased with the results.

The University of Maryland is accepting applications for an Agricultural Technician Lead at the Central Maryland Research & Education Center-Clarksville facility. The successful candidate will manage and maintain all aspects of a modern milking parlor including both the physical aspects of the parlor and the computer program that is networked with the milking equipment. It is expected that this person will keep the parlor well organized and clean, in excellent working order, and cooperate with the dairy program manager to produce herd management reports. Key areas of responsibility are quality milk production, reproductive management, and herd health. Familiarity with Dairy Herd Improvement Records and designing custom computerized reports is necessary. The candidate will also assist with feeding, milking, and herd health work; collecting and managing research data in computer formats; and sampling and collecting biological specimens for storage and analysis. This position requires the supervision of personnel in a team environment. The capability to carry out heavy physical labor and to work in harsh weather conditions is necessary. Weekend and evening work hours are required. The candidate must possess a High School diploma or GED and three years experience in agricultural research using scientific methods, preferably, on a dairy farm. A valid Maryland driver's license is required. Starting salary range: $28,360 to $30,062 (Nonexempt Pay Range 10). NEED A TRUCK BODY HOIST?

BINKLEY & HURST BROS. HAS A FEW IN STOCK FOR IMMEDIATE PICKUP AT CASH & CARRY DISCOUNT PRICING

SCISSOR

The main advantage of the scissor hoist is its greater stability.

The lever action design, however, robs 30% of the hydraulic cylinder's energy just to operate the linkage. Therefore, it requires a larger hydraulic system Another drawback of this design is that is must be mounted farther back on the frame to obtain a good dump angle

On larger bodies this creates undue stress which could cause frame and body failure

All-Around Good Management on Promise Lane Farm

The Martin family, from left, Amanda, Kathy, Gene, and Andy, with 10-year-old Promise Lane Russ Laura, classified EX-90. She is still going strong on Purina rations and is projected to top 200,000 lifetime pounds of milk this lactation.

Purina consultant Duane Nolt, left, and Amanda and Gene Martin are happy with the herd records, which show low cull rates and rising milk production.

Gene and Kathy Martin and family pay close attention to their dairy animals.

When they moved the Holstein herd to an 81-stall comfort barn eight years ago, the purpose was to provide better "individual cow care," Gene said

Purina feed rations play a big part of that focused management program on Promise Lane Farm south of Lebanon.

From calfhood to maturity and through all transition periods, the animals get Purina supplements along with alfalfa, corn, rye, and grass forages the Martins grow on their 250 acres

The attention has paid off in a number of ways, including reduced cull rates, fewer health problems, long lasting cows, and increased milk production

A cull rate of less than 20 percent in the 100-cow herd allowed the Martins to sell 18 heifers for dairy purposes last year

During the past five years on Purina TMRs, the rolling herd average has increased nearly 3,000 pounds – to 24,500 pounds of milk with 850 pounds of fat and 760 pounds of protein, milking twice a day.

Typically, more than 20 cows are exceeding 100 pounds of production per day at Promise Lane. One recently peaked at 162 pounds.

Two of the Martin's children, Andy and Amanda, take an active role in managing the dairy.

In fact, Amanda has completed a detailed profile of the operation as part of a two-year dairy science degree she recently earned from the State University of New York.

The consistency provided by Purina and by K & K Feed are important to the Martins.

Beside the benefits of "one (feed) company seeing the animals all the way through," Nolt goes out of his way to provide top service on the farm, even during times when the family is busy and hard to find, according to Kathy.

"He's very patient with us," she said. "He puts up with a lot."

Nolt visits the farm three to four times a month to check forages and balance the milking rations with 40-percent protein Purina concentrate and roasted soybean meal

Calves begin with Startena. After weaning, they get Purina 16-percent grower until about a year of age, then are switched to a ration of corn silage and ryelage with Purina Cornerstone mineral supplement until several months before calving.

Dry cows receive Purina Prepare supplement along with corn silage, haylage, and dry grass hay or pasture, depending on the season.

The Martins also give high-producing cows an extra boost by topdressing their TMR individually with Purina Test Cow, a 24-percent protein supplement

Nolt said Promise Lane Farm has been shifting to rations and more forage content and less grain, with a focus on producing higher quality forages.

Along with the Purina supplement and roasted soybeans for the milking cows, this approach lowers costs, improves herd health, and boosts production.

"That's our whole thought process," Nolt said.

It's obvious that Purina service and the Martin's attentive management makes a winning team on Promise Lane Farm
